MANSION HOUSE TRAGEDY

ABANDONMENT OF RECEPTION

LADY HEWART'S SUDDEN DEATH

London, Nov. 3.

A tragedy caused the abandonment of a farewell reception which was to have been given at the Mansion House last night by the retiring Lady Mayoress, Lady Greenfield.

The ballroom of Mansion House was filled with a thousand cheerful guests, presenting a brilliant spectacle, and dancing had actually begun when Lady Hewart, wife of the Lord Chief Justice, suddenly collapsed.

Lady Hewart was carried in a semi-conscious condition into an ante-room and died within a few minutes.

It is believed that death was due to heart failure.—Reuter.

SILK DRESSES FROM SHANGHAI

Found in Trunk at Victoria

Mrs. Madeline Emily Pym, described as of Oakwood Court, Kensington, W., was summoned before Mr. Cairns at Westminster Police Court for, it was alleged, attempting to evade the payment of customs duties on a silk dress, underwear, etc., at Victoria Station.

Mr. M. G. Whitmore, prosecuting, said that Mrs. Pym arrived at Victoria from Shanghai, and when asked if she had anything to declare produced a number of small articles on which she paid duty amounting to twelve shillings.

A search among the rest of the contents of the trunk, revealed a quantity of apparently new underwear, clothing, and a cotton dress.

Mrs. Pym had stated "I thought it was not necessary to declare things I was bringing home for my personal use. I thought I had only to declare presents."

Counsel for Mrs. Pym stated that she was returning from China after an absence of twelve years.

Mr. Cairns imposed a fine of £50, with 10 guineys costs.

STRIKE CALLED OFF

EASIER SITUATION IN PALESTINE

CASUALTY LIST

Jerusalem, Nov. 3.

The Arab Executive yesterday informed the High Commissioner of a decision to call off the general strike to-day.

Tension still exists throughout Palestine, although it has lessened. It is hoped that the termination of the strike will lead to still further improvement in the situation.

The casualties in the recent disturbances in Jaffa, Haifa and elsewhere are now known to have been:

KILLED.

One native policeman.

23 civilian rioters.

WOUNDED, IN HOSPITAL.

Twenty-seven British and native policemen.

127 civilian rioters.

Scores more were less severely injured.

PRECAUTIONS.

Precautions against further disturbances are still maintained. It appears that the riots were not premeditated, but they came as repercussions following the Jaffa riots, which had more serious consequences than had been anticipated by the Arab Executive.

One of the most serious incidents occurred at Nablus where rioters stormed the prison and released a number of political prisoners.

Serious disturbances have been absent since Sunday, although minor clashes between police and Arabs have occurred nearly every day in several centres.—Reuter.

FASCISM REARS HEAD IN SPAIN

LITTLE APPARENT PROGRESS

Madrid, Oct. 30.

Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the former dictator, addressing a small crowd in Madrid yesterday declared that the Fascists were determined to triumph in Spain, even with violence if necessary.

Rivera who was given an ovation, asserted that the Fascists had "raised their banner over Spain and are willing to defend it with their lives."

The Fascist movement has made little apparent progress in Spain despite the troubles of the second republic, but has raised its head since the recent parliamentary crisis resulting in the dissolution of the Cortes.

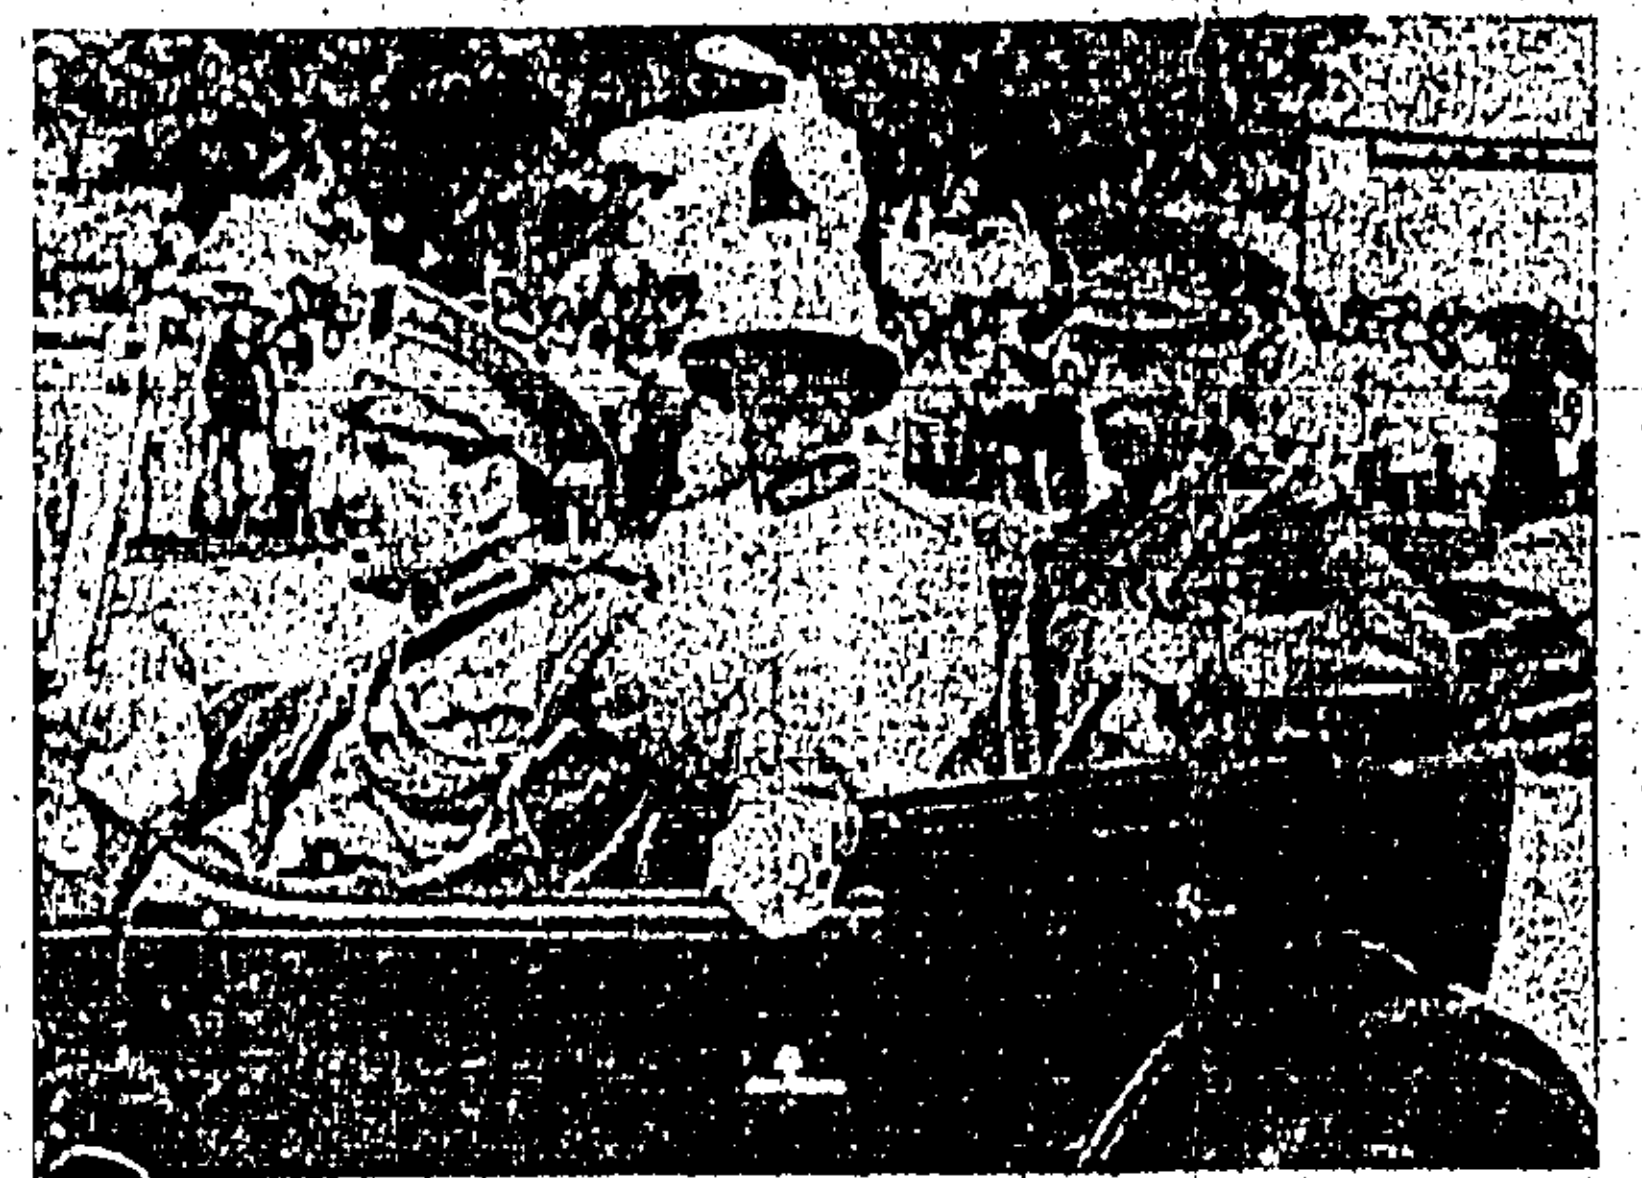

A number of small, ill-organised youth militias which in some respects resemble the German storm troops, have made their appearance, but no Hitler nor Mussolini has shown up.

Nevertheless the Labour papers talk a good deal of the "Fascist menace."

years under the Consular Service Scholarship scheme to Master Alexander Blackburn, son of Mr. A. D. Blackburn who is His Majesty's Consul at Shanghai.

Master Blackburn is proceeding to Cheltenham College.

This scholarship fund was raised from contributions received throughout Chambers of Commerce and elsewhere, and was founded to provide financial help to members of the British Commercial, Diplomatic, Consular and Trade Commissioner Services in connection with the education of their sons. Master Blackburn will hold the ninth scholarship under this scheme.

MORE C.E.R. TROUBLE

RIVAL OFFICIALS CLASH

ALL PAYMENTS STOPPED

Harbin, Nov. 3.

It is difficult to see how the present friction between the Manchukuo and Soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway can continue much longer without causing a much more serious flare-up.

The latest cause of dispute is connected with salaries and it looks possible that all C.E.R. employees will soon be working without wages.

The dispute has arisen from the refusal of the Manchukuo Chief Comptroller of the Railway to sanction the payment of the salaries of M. Kalina, M. Lavrov, M. Rubel and M. Ablof, the C.E.R. employees who were arrested on September 24.

Upon this refusal, M. Rudy, the Soviet General manager, retaliated by instructing the cashier to stop all payments.

"AGITATOR" CASE

Meanwhile, M. Slavutsky, the Soviet Consul-General has protested to the Foreign Ministry and demanded the release of the "agitators" arrested on October 25.

The men in custody, five in number, were arrested by C.E.R. police and are alleged to be members of a Communist cell.

Their release has been refused. The Foreign Office representative says that they are to be charged with treason.—Reuter.

REQUESTED TO LEAVE IN 48 HOURS

Mr. Panter's Case Under London Consideration

London, Nov. 2.

Mr. Noel Panter, Munich correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who has been under arrest since October 25th was released to-day.

No formal charge was preferred against Mr. Panter and it was announced last night in Berlin that, after examining the material placed before him by the Bavarian authorities, the Chief Public Prosecutor of the Reich found no ground for a formal charge.

Mr. Panter has, however, been requested to leave Germany within 48 hours. The whole circumstances of Mr. Panter's detention and release are under the consideration of the British Government.—British Wireless.

SECRECY IN GOLD PURCHASES

THE AMERICAN PROGRAMME

BUYING TO BEGIN

Washington, Nov. 2.

It is announced that foreign gold will be purchased both here and abroad.

The amounts bought and the prices paid will be held secret although the aggregate dealings will be announced periodically.

The foreign purchases will probably be made by the foreign branches of Federal Reserve Member Banks, payment being made by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in Reconstruction Finance Corporation Notes.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank is entrusted with all the details of the foreign purchases.

It was also announced to-day that the R.F.C. up to last night had purchased 66,000 ounces of new United States gold costing $2,100,000.—Reuter.

SILVER RUMOURS.

New York, Nov. 2.

Rumours regarding the re-monetisation of silver were again heard and the price of silver responded with a 34 point rise.

Business has found great difficulty in operating under the supervision of the government with the NRA. Higher operating costs and restricted competition have tended to cut profits rather than to increase them.

Labour, above any other single group, has been favoured by the Administration in its attempts to bring America out of the depression.

Whereas this action did tend to increase general purchasing power it most certainly did cut industrial earnings.

In former times—profits came first then wages—now the position is reversed.

INDUSTRY'S OPENING.

General Johnson's statement that the government intended to give industry its head rather than to seek to further control it would seem to be an admission.

One that the Administration cannot clamp down harder without upsetting that apple cart and two—that Labour has grabbed the bit in its teeth and must be slowed up.

The feeling about this statement is rather uncertain. Some feel that industry may now go ahead more or less naturally and make money, others feel that it is a prelude to a series of new strikes.

COMMODITIES HIGHER.

Commodities were all higher in to-day's markets and stocks fractionally so. On the other hand all markets did not respond as much as had been expected to the stimulus which is usually furnished by a weaker dollar, a higher domestic gold price. The news that purchases of foreign gold were to begin immediately had little effect.

Until the present, statements by the Administration have had a sizeable effect on the action of the market. To-day action rather than words is what the market apparently requires.—Forbes, Culbertson and Fritze.

THE MALTA CRISIS

BRITISH OFFICIAL STATEMENT

MINISTERIAL POLICY

London, Nov. 2.

The political crisis in Malta, following the disinclination of the Nationalist Ministry to work in harmony with British policy, is the subject of an official statement.

The Colonial Office has issued the following: "The Governor of Malta has found it necessary to dismise the Minister, and the Secretary of State for the Colonies being satisfied that a grave emergency has arisen within the meaning of section 41 of Malta constitution and the Letters Patent, the Governor has assumed the powers which in that event are vested in him by the constitution.

For some time past, His Majesty's Government have viewed with increasing concern the policy pursued by the Ministers in Malta.

It will be recollected that the restoration of responsible Government in the summer of 1932 was made subject to certain definite provisions with regard to the language question and particularly to the teaching of languages in the schools.

BRITISH ATTITUDE.

These provisions had the full approval of both Houses of Parliament. It was the essence of these provisions that the languages to be used in the public elementary schools should be Maltese and English only, adequate provision being made for the teaching of Italian in the Secondary schools.

It has become increasingly apparent that since their accession to office, the Maltese Ministers have embarked upon measures the object of which is, in effect, deliberately to evade this policy.

A further source of anxiety to His Majesty's Government is the manner in which the finances of the island have been administered. It is clear that these finances, which were taken over in a sound condition in 1932, have already been gravely prejudiced.

WARNING ISSUED.

In these circumstances, the Governor was authorised to warn the Ministers that the policy which they were deliberately pursuing was contrary to the spirit of constitution and gravely detrimental to the interests of Malta and to make plain to them the consequences which must inevitably follow unless their policy were radically altered.

He subsequently presented them with a detailed list of the measures adopted by them since their accession to office which he regarded as objectionable and which both in the interests of sound administration and as a proof of their compliance with the policy of His Majesty's Government he called upon them to revoke.

DELIBERATE POLICY.

Examples are cited as an illustration of the nature and extent of the acts to which His Majesty's Government took exception and the statement proceeds: "There have, moreover, been in ordinary day to day administration, a number of instances indicating that the Ministers had selected few opportunities, however small, of displaying their definite disinclination to work in harmony with the policy of His Majesty's Government.

The cumulative effect of these and similar acts is unmistakable. Ministers have been given an opportunity to amend their policy upon these matters. They have declined to do so and have accordingly been dismissed and the Gov-

Jamaica Gale Disaster

STORM RAGES FOR TWO DAYS

London, Nov. 2.

The Governor of Jamaica reports that a serious hurricane struck the west of Jamaica during 28th and 29th October.

Reports of the havoc caused by the gale are meagre but there is no doubt that hundreds have been rendered homeless and ten deaths are reported.

Banana crops in St. James have been completely wiped out and are at least 90 per cent. down in other western parishes. All food crops are also badly damaged.

Extensive damage has been done to roads, bridges, telegraphs and railways.

EARLY CHANGE OF SYSTEM

RESTRICTION OF VOTERS

Rome, Nov. 2.

The dissolution of the present Italian Chamber and the election of a new legislative body under a new system is expected to be ordered by Signor Mussolini shortly.

The new Chamber will be entirely upon an occupational basis. Only members of trade unions and employers' organisations will have the right to vote, and they will be represented by delegates, not of their own choice, but chosen by the Fascist Grand Council.

The voters will merely be given the privilege of accepting or rejecting the list submitted for their approval.—Reuter.

HITLER CABINET SHAKE-UP

EXPECTED AFTER ELECTION

It is reported that Herr Hitler is planning a shake-up of the cabinet shortly in an attempt to further consolidate the Reich. Changes are expected immediately after the elections.

Captain Goring, it is said, is destined to become the Minister of Security, a new post, and, concurrently, will be made vice-chancellor.

The present vice-chancellor, Captain von Papen, is scheduled to become Foreign Minister, to succeed Baron von Neurath, who is likely to return to London as Ambassador to Great Britain.

TALK OF TERMINATION

RUMOURS AND REPORTS OF BRITISH OFFERS

25 PER CENT. PAYMENT

The result of the war debt talks between the British representatives and President Roosevelt on Wednesday evening are not known, but there had been rumours of a possible suspension of negotiations which the conference for the time being dispelled.

The New York Times correspondent reported that Britain had offered to make a 25 per cent. payment, and that the United States were demanding 75 per cent.

The Herald-Tribune stated that an informal offer of 10 per cent. of the total war debt payable in annuities was made on Monday indirectly by the British representatives who are in the United States discussing the British war debt.

The paper said that the offer was turned down.

It is denied, however, that an impasse has been reached and it is stated that the negotiations are likely to continue.

The discussions have now narrowed down to the question of whether there shall be a temporary arrangement such as a further token payment, like the small silver payment made in June, instead of the December instalment.

ELEMENT OF UNCERTAINTY.

The British authorities are now reported to feel that the present time is not propitious for a permanent settlement of the question, owing to the uncertainty prevailing at present concerning the future of the dollar and also the possibility that American tariff walls may have to be raised in order to prevent foreign imports produced at lower labour costs undercutting American manufacturers. It is pointed out that the costs to the latter have increased through the Recovery Administration codes shorter hours and higher wages.—Reuter's American Service.

Havas says that it is expected that the President will adjourn the discussion on the debt problem for an undetermined period.

POSTPONEMENT TALK.

Well-informed quarters believe that President Roosevelt is resolved to postpone the debt negotiations until the fate of the national recovery programme becomes more certain and the question of Russian debts is discussed with M. Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Commissioner.

The New York Times says the British delegation sticks to its idea of offering a forfeit payment amounting to 25 per cent. of the total of the British debt, while the Americans demand that the forfeit payment should amount to 75 per cent. of the total. It is generally believed in Washington that on December 15, Great Britain will effect an "amicable" payment to show that she recognizes the validity of existing war debts.

FRENCH DEBT STAND

SARRAUT PREPARED TO DEFAULT

The Associated Press says that the Sarrault Government is prepared to default on the forthcoming December 15 war debt payment to the United States, as Herriot did under Chamber's compulsion a year ago and Deladier reported in June.

It is stated in Paris semi-officially that the question of payment will not be raised in the Chamber of Deputies.

Under the debt settlement, France is due to pay a total of $22,200,025 on December 15, of which $19,164,046 represents interest.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

SCORE WITH PIGSKIN!

Novel Parisian Ensemble Given Air of Fantasy
by Trig Leather Accessories

Novel and practical qualities are combined by the use of beige pigskin accessories on a chestnut brown jersey sport suit. The trig hula hat, gloves, bag and collar are all of pigskin.

By Jean Patou

Paris.—The details of every dress should be combined in the process of creation so as to be amalgamated therein and constitute a perfectly equilibrated whole. Which is paramount to saying that the question of details is tributary of the dress itself.

The one detail of a woman's clothes where some fantasy is permitted is the accessory, because it can afford to be somewhat independent. Yet the slightest discord must never be allowed to destroy the harmony which must exist between the dress and its accessories. It would impair the elegance of the whole outfit.

To avoid exaggeration, in this department, which after all is closely akin to that of "frivolities," one cannot quite demand that each accessory be specially created to complete one special ensemble, though naturally that would be the better formula. It is nevertheless true that when an accessory is created simultaneously with an ensemble, despite its semblance of independence, it is influenced by the general style trend.

An accessory can be somewhat less sober than general fashions are expected to be, but still should always be created with some object in view. The object, more often than not, is to impart to the dress, which needs it, a note of fantasy. It can be achieved in several ways, by means of colour, fabric or form.

To define fantasy or place any limits thereon is somewhat difficult. It is evident, though, that no fantasy must ever attract too much attention, despite the fact that much of the attractiveness of accessories generally is their unexpectedness, which sometimes strikes a novel note while being very simple. The element of surprise they offer constitutes their charm, on condition, of course, that it is never extravagant.

The very simple process, now almost classical, of accessories that all harmonize, is always successful. This means the constitution of a complete set comprising hat, gloves, bag, scarf or belt, a formula which, women, conscious of its merits, are adopting more and more. Besides conveying to an ensemble the indispensable note of fantasy, harmonizing accessories always allow an ensemble to retain that character of restrained chic and elegance synonymous with modern elegance.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Feet First!

By Alicia Hart

The shoes you wear affect your health, posture, appearance and disposition. Bear all these points in mind when you set out to buy new fall shoes.

Be sure, first of all, that your feet are in good condition before you visit a shoe store. You can't expect your new shoes to be comfortable if you have corns and callouses. If you have corns, it is best to see a reliable foot doctor.

Callouses can be treated at home if you pay particular attention to a scientific routine. Never cut them. Soak your feet nightly and then rub the calloused places with a piece of pumice. Don't try to remove all the callous the first night. It takes time and patience.

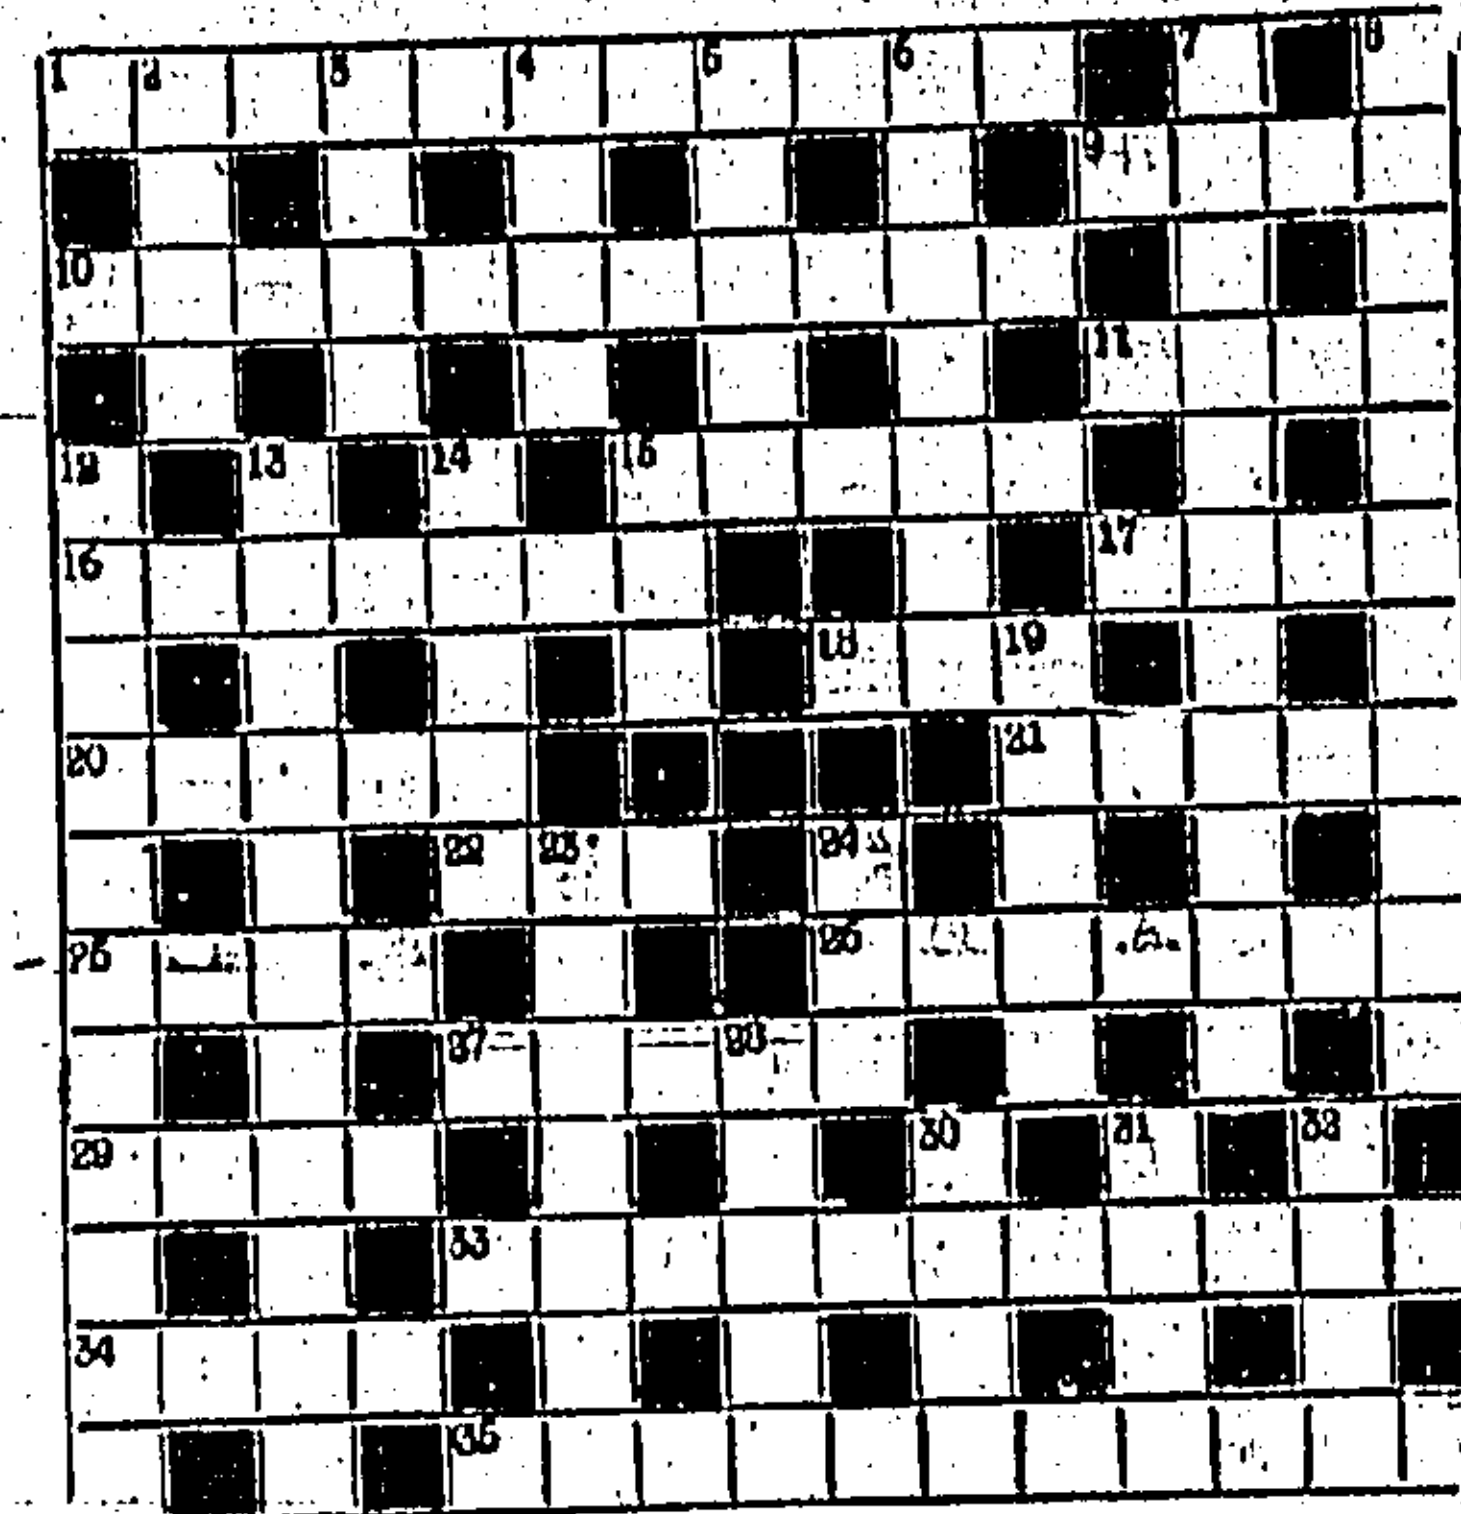

If you cannot get to a doctor to have your corns treated, perhaps corn plasters may afford relief. These protect the corn from the shoe. Removing the source of irritation will sometimes cure the corn.

Wear fresh stockings every day. Always take special pains to dry your feet thoroughly. Especially between the toes. If you notice little callouses or pieces of loose skin between your toes, begin at once to use an antiseptic powder between them after each bath.

A plaid skirt and plain jacket is ideal for a sports outfit. Ann Dvorak wears a red and gray checked skirt and a plain gray jacket, matched by her sandals and beret.

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

CHAPTER XVI.

"Questions without Answers."

The ray of Leonard's electric torch shot down across the water. It picked out from the shadow of a rock a little spot, some fifty yards away. The spot was the Daisy, with its now occupant.

"Damn!" growled Leonard, fiercely. "Now we're properly—"

A shot spat out. It did not come from the Daisy, but clipped the surface of the water in the direction of the boat. Leonard swung round with a cry.

"Look out!" he shouted.

"It's all right," answered Napoleon. "I fired that shot."

"What!" exclaimed Leonard, staring at him in astonishment.

"Yes—I'm the little Cock Robin," admitted Napoleon rather shamefacedly, looking at a revolver in his hand. "I don't like the things, but I thought it might come in useful. Do you know, I I hadn't had this in my pocket, I believe I'd have faded away several times. It helps me just to touch it."

"But what on earth did you fire for?" demanded Leonard. "If you meant to kill him—"

"I didn't," protested Napoleon. "I merely meant to frighten him. You know, I'm sort of Socialist when it comes to terror. I believe in the sharing principle."

Leonard smiled.

"Well, I dare say it's just as well you've got that thing," he commented, "but be careful how you use it, and for goodness sake, put it away now! You're swinging it as if it were a dead cat! We're not likely to need it for awhile, anyhow," he added grimly. "The only human thing on board besides ourselves is already dead."

"I devoutly hope so," responded Napoleon, as he slipped the revolver back into his pocket. "But I'm not in a mood to take a bet on anything."

There was a short silence, during which Leonard reviewed their position. Suddenly he said: "Let's sit down somewhere 'and have a smoke. We're likely to be marooned here for several hours, and there's the deuce of a lot to think about."

"Good idea," agreed Napoleon. "I always feel most brainy when I've got a cigarette in my mouth. I'll sit on this knob. You might try that useful lookin' spike over there."

"You know, I'm glad to have you with me, Truelove," said Leonard, with a laugh. "You're o.k. in a crisis, and your conversation's cheering."

"No, is it?" explained Napoleon. "Tell that to Miss Haines one day, will you? I sometimes think she's doubtful."

They sat down, and a few seconds later two cigarette ends glowed comfortably.

"What an odd picture we must make to the Man in the Moon," observed Leonard, his mind relaxing a little as he puffed. "Here we sit, talking and smoking on a battered old hulk—and down below lies a dead man."

"Yes, it's a funny position," responded Napoleon, scratching his nose thoughtfully. "I ought to be scared stiff, but I'm getting sort of used to it. Here we are, along with a corpse. The ship may be bristling with corpses. Yet—well, here we are!"

"But do we know where we are?" asked Leonard. "Let's try and find out. Have you got a notebook on you? Good! Then jot down these questions, and then we'll search for the answer."

Napoleon fished out his notebook, and studied the first page.

"There are loads of rhymes to 'Haines,'" he said, "but what rhymes with 'Beryl'? All I could think of was ferrule, but the end of a walking-stick isn't exactly poetic. However, business first. Shoot your questions. Number

One?"

"Where is Mr. Fyne?" replied Leonard. "That's the first question, and the most important."

"One. Where is Mr. Fyne," wrote Napoleon. "What's the answer?"

"For the moment, an absolute blank. I had an idea we'd find him behind that door down below. I told you I heard someone breathing."

"Yes, and what I can't make out is why you didn't try and smash the door open when you were here before."

"I had two good reasons for not doing so, old chap. I had nothing to smash it with. And—well, Miss Haines was with me, and though she's one of the pluckiest girls I've ever come across—"

"Carried unanimously."

"—It didn't seem fair to put her into any more danger. After all, there was no knowing what was behind that door. And, with no boat and a mile to swim to land, we weren't exactly equipped for emergencies."

"By Jove, you weren't," agreed Napoleon. "I see your point. You were quite right. But look here, I say—do you still think it was Mr. Fyne breathing?"

"Let's make that Question Number Two. Who was behind the door?"

"Who was behind the door?" wrote Napoleon. "We might also ask how many more doors are there, and how many more things behind them?" He glanced round uncomfortably. "We'd better keep our eyes skinned, you know, while we're demonstrating our colossal ignorance!"

"Yes, I'm watching," nodded Leonard. "Personally, I don't think any longer that Mr. Fyne was behind the door. I think it was our lunatic—"

"Yes, but in that case, who brought our cheerful corpse upon the scene?" interposed Napoleon.

"Write that down for No. Three. And you can also write half of the answer. A man in a dark blue coat, with a tear in the coat and one button missing, brought the body here. Listen. We can piece a bit of it together. Well-dressed gent is pushed over cliff. The person who pushes him over the cliff is presumably some sea-faring man—"

"That's a guess."

"But I believe a right guess. Yes, I'm almost sure of it, Truelove."

Napoleon looked at him, sharply. "You've got some reason I don't know for saying that!" he challenged.

"Perhaps I have. But we'll leave that for the moment—"

"Why?" persisted Napoleon. "You know, I can't quite size you up even yet. You've dropped into this affair so oddly, and—you don't mind my saying it, do you?—your interest is so damned keen. I think it's frightfully sporting of you, and all that, and I'll bet Miss Fyne's grateful—"

"Then why not simply accept the fact that I'm trying to help Miss Fyne?" suggested Leonard, smiling. "I assure you, I do want to help her. But we're straying from the point, which is that a seafaring man pushed the well-dressed gent over the cliff. Jim came along, and made things awkward. So the seafaring man took the first opportunity of hiding the man he had killed in a cave. There he stayed until he found an opportunity to take the body to this wreck in his boat. Or in a boat. It may or may not have been his." (Continued on Page 5.)

CHINA BUILDING

A feminine defender of the new Cuban regime, this girl revolutionist stands guard at a gate to the Cabana fortress jail, which harbors convicted officials of the fallen Machado and Do Cespedes governments.

Hundreds of strikers had attempted to rush the gates of a silk dyeing mill at Lodi, N. J., and this was the scene as police turned them back with tear gas bombs and clubs. Pickets are shown as they dropped their placards and fled blindly from the fumes. At least 20 persons were injured. Similar strikes in more than a hundred other dyeing mills brought the manufacture of silk textiles to a standstill in the east, for some 40,000 workers already were on strike from the spinning and weaving mills.

While armed guards hold back jeering throngs, a group of counter-revolutionaries—who were arrested in Pinar del Rio and brought to Havana by train—are bundled unceremoniously into a "black Maria" for the trip to jail.

Wanted!

Men who would like to retire at 50, 55 or 60 on £50 a month

Guaranteed income for Life

Under the terms of this simple investment plan you can arrange for a monthly retirement income that will be adequate for your needs. It may be £50. It may be £25, £100, or more; but whatever the amount, you will be interested in this modern way of securing for yourself an income that is guaranteed as long as you live.

In the meantime you are insured. Your family is also protected during the time that you are saving towards this retirement income. Our Life Income Policy designed to provide an income of £50 a month would pay your family £5,000 in cash in case of your prior death. If death should result from accidental cause, your family would be paid £10,000, or double the face amount of the policy.

We do not want anyone to be disappointed. Our Life Income Policy is not offered to men or women over 55. We have other policies and annuity contracts more suitable to their needs nor is this policy available to men in poor health or hazardous occupations. It is distinctly a selective contract, and those who obtain it get full advantage of this selection.

How much does it cost? Convenient annual premium deposits take care of everything. Just how large or how small these deposits are, depends of course, on your present age and the amount of retirement income you will choose.

But remember, the Life Income Policy should not be thought of as an expense. It is a sound investment, backed by one of the strongest Life Insurance Companies in the world.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

"Probably not," observed Napoleon. "We're all thieves."

"Anyway, the seafaring man brought the body here and, for some reason we don't know, conveyed it to the room behind our door. Question Four, 'Who is the seafaring man?' Blank. Question Five, 'What did the seafaring man do after depositing the body in the room where we assume the lunatic was?' Did they meet?" He frowned, and shook his head. "It's a tangle. Question Six, 'How did the lunatic come on board?'"

"Perhaps the seafaring man brought him."

"I think that's very possible. But why did he bring him on board? Likewise how? And why was the lunatic kept a prisoner here—"

"An where is he going now he's a prisoner here no longer?" interposed Napoleon. "I confess, that question rather intrigues me."

"What makes you say that?" "Well," said Napoleon, staring contemplatively ahead of him. "Our lunatic may come back again. And he may bring somebody with him."

"The seafaring man!"

"Cheers!"

"Well—I'm not sure that I'd mind," remarked Leonard, slowly. "I'm pretty keen to meet that fellow, because he's the key to the whole puzzle. But we've not finished. Let's take our mind off the wreck for a moment. There are mysteries at the Mermade Hotel itself."

"Rather," acquiesced Napoleon. "Question Seven—hundred-and-eight-two, 'What the devil is Luigi up to?'"

"Yes, Luigi's a wrong 'un," observed Leonard, gravely. "I'm not a bit happy about Luigi. He lied about his predecessor, Anderson. He tried to cover up traces that might reveal clues to Anderson's accident. For some reason or other, Luigi wanted the job of waiter at the Mermade Hotel—it became acutely necessary after Mr. Fyne's disappearance. Now I don't suppose Luigi meant Anderson's accident to be fatal, or over expected it to be. But I'm quite convinced that Luigi caused that accident. And he must have had a pretty big reason."

Napoleon snapped his teeth. "I say, you may think I'm a pretty good idiot," he said, "and I know I am a bit of a fool. But this is a pretty dirty business, Sefton, and you can count on me for what my silly head is worth. Anderson was quite a decent chap. If, as you say, Luigi's killed him, I say, can you be a murderer, if the fellow doesn't die at once?"

"You are a murderer, technically, if the fellow dies within a year and one day," replied Leonard. "Anderson died in under a week."

"And you expect me to smile at Luigi when he brings me my fried egg to-morrow morning?" exclaimed Napoleon. "My hat! I say—could he have had a hand in killing the other fellow, too—the chap down below here?"

Leonard shook his head. "I don't think so—though Luigi was certainly most anxious to hide the fact that they had conversed together. Passing from Luigi, we come to Mr. Griddle. Question One-thousand-and-eight, 'Why did Mr. Griddle pretend he was going to bed when, in fact, he did not go to bed? Why did he try to hear what you and I were talking about in my bedroom?'"

"And why did he track us afterwards to the beach?" added Napoleon.

"I don't think he did track us to the beach," replied Leonard, slowly.

"Oh, of course. I'd forgotten. You've got some notion that it was somebody else. Don't you think, darling, as we're getting to know each other so much better, you might now tell me?"

"Later, perhaps."

"Don't prevaricate! You forget, I'm armed."

Napoleon brought out his revolver, with a grin.

"But so am I," responded Leonard, grinning also; and he, too, brought out a revolver.

"Well, I'm blowed," murmured Napoleon, disappointedly. "A lot of good it is, me trying to give you beat! So you've got one, too?"

"I have. You're not the only one to whom they bring a bit of comfort."

"Then it's no good by threatening to shoot you if you won't tell me who you think it was who tracked us to the beach, and poked his nose into the cave?"

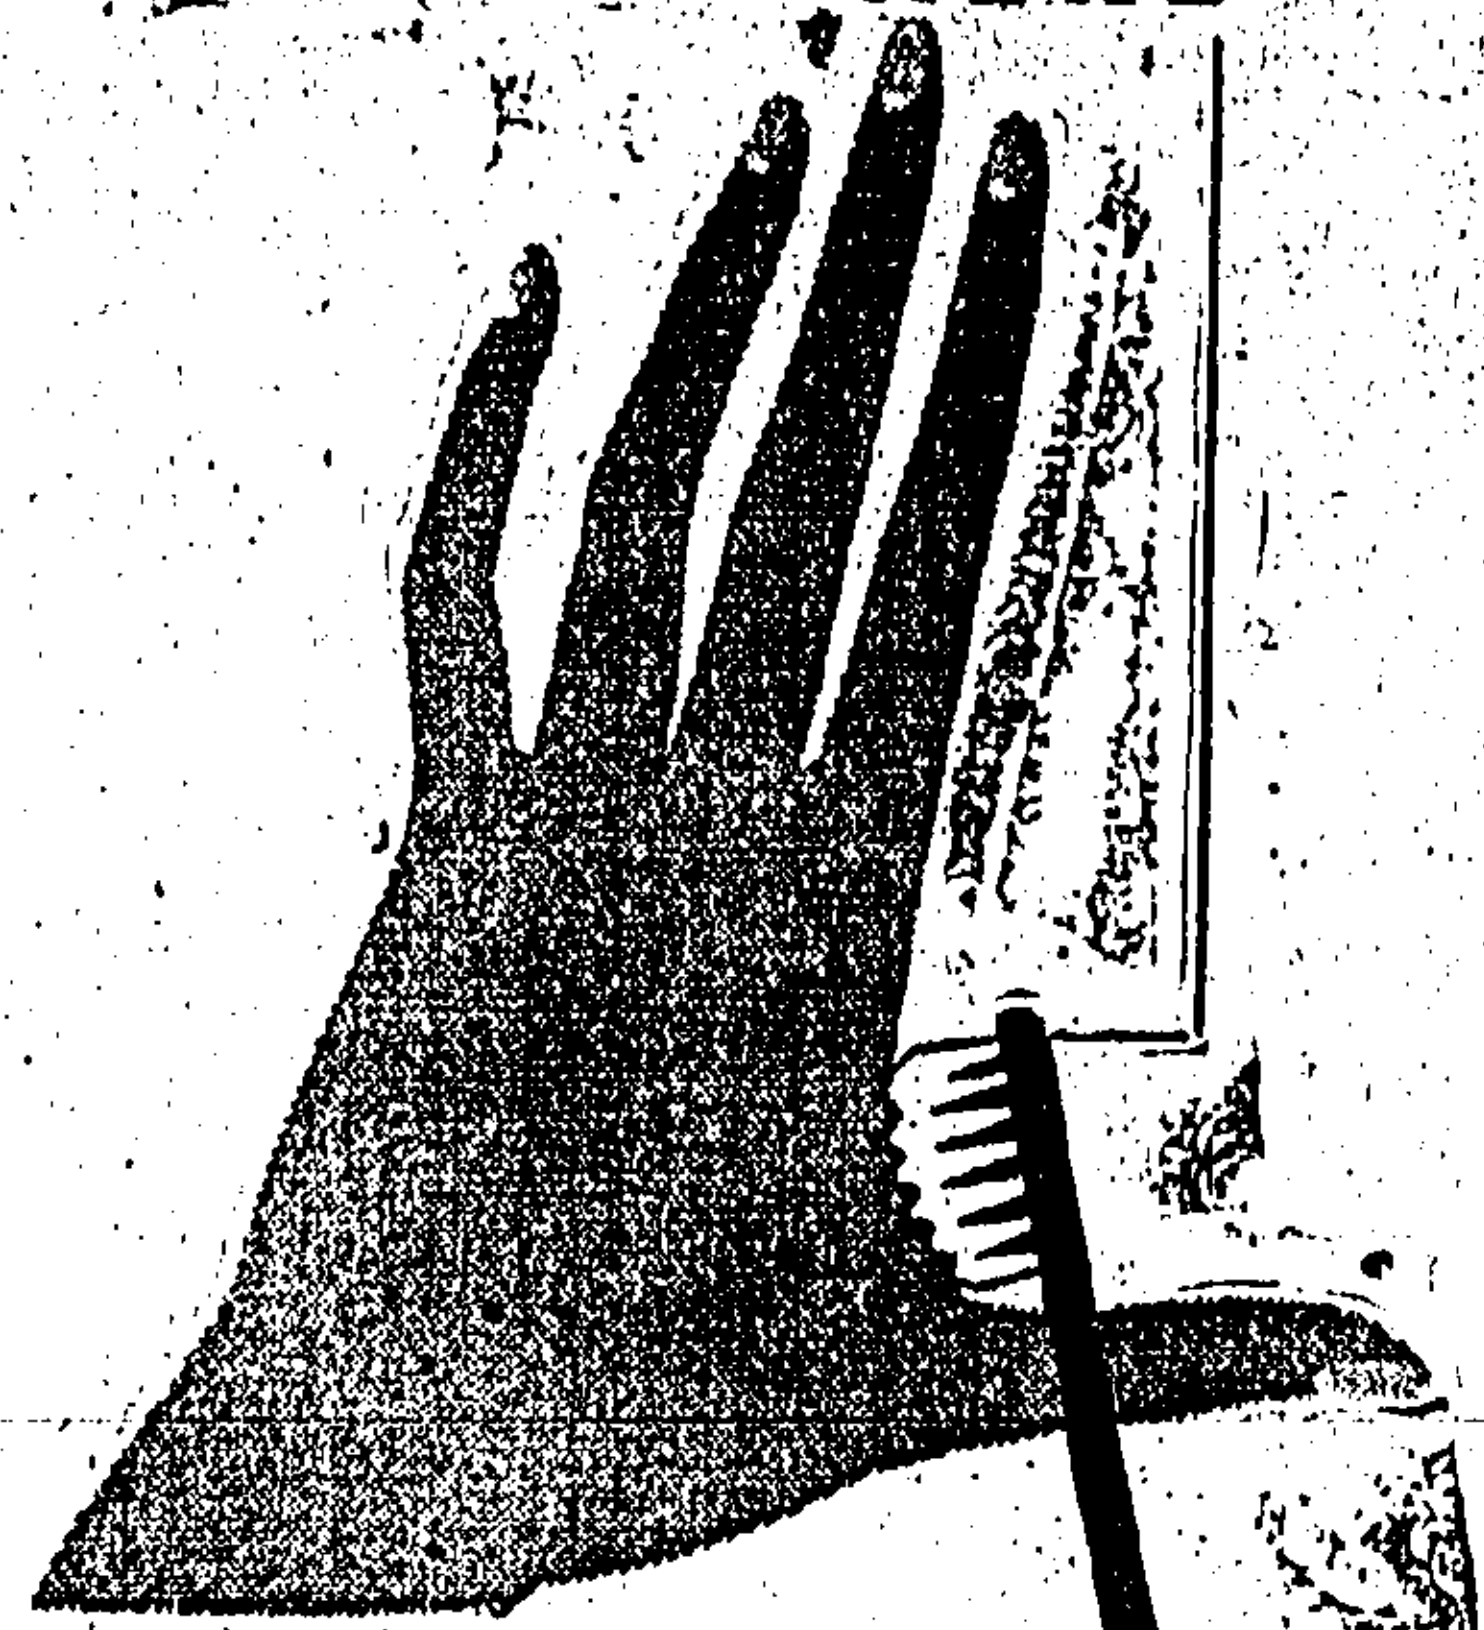

"Not a bit of good," returned Leonard, after a pause. "But—since we really are becoming such close friends—perhaps I ought to tell you anyhow, after all."

"Splendid!" cried Napoleon. "Who?"

"I'm not at all sure that it's splendid," answered Leonard. "I'm ready to wager my last farthing that it was Miss Haines's brother, Guy."

GOLD POLICY PERPLEXITIES

None of the perplexity associated with the Roosevelt gold policy has been removed either by explanation or by developments. The one thing offering a possibility of a clue, the nature of the agreement with Britain, is kept secret, although the impression gained is that the arrangement is limited to an undertaking to avoid a currency war provided the United States restricts the scope of her gold purchase operations to measures which will not cause excessive fluctuation between the dollar and the pound. If that is so, the franc will have to bear the brunt of the "attack" and, for that reason, the policy may easily defeat itself. Never was it easier than it would be to-day to undermine confidence in the franc and if that happened, a rush to buy dollars and sterling would speedily wipe out any gains achieved by the Roosevelt policy. America is, in fact, treading on highly dangerous ground although the further postponement of foreign purchases seems to suggest that the need for caution has not been overlooked. There is also a hint that America may use sterling to buy francs. Why is not explained. If the object is to support the franc while gold purchases are being made, why buy gold? How is this likely to assist towards the depressing of the dollar? Whatever happens, it is very obvious that it will be exceedingly difficult in future to interpret aright the movement of foreign exchanges. Such movements will now be largely a question of management, good or bad, and will hardly concern themselves with trade factors at all. But just as the Exchange Equalisation Fund has failed to guarantee to Britain any ability to determine how much a pound sterling shall be worth in terms of foreign currency, so will the American gold policy be equally dependent on external influences. There are forces too strong to be controlled by any forms of national monetary management. Huge liquid funds are floating about the world switching from capital to capital either for the purpose of increasing earning capacity or for greater security—and a stampede by the owners of these funds could undo within two days the patient's controlled efforts of months. In short, President Roosevelt cannot, except at prohibitive cost, control the future behaviour of the dollar externally, any more than he can internally. In the United States his policy of reflation has produced little visible effect because the increased supply of money has not produced any considerable increase in bank advances, and this because the banks are too nervous of the solvency of borrowers to make fresh loans. It is impossible to estimate the power of the banks to immobilise now money, just as it

NOTES OF THE DAY

SILVER'S SHARE

It is impossible to see the truth through the haze of rumours about America's plans for silver. The nearest it can be hoped to get is that there is a possibility that President Roosevelt will be compelled to throw a sop to the silver agitators, because of the extraordinary influence held by the metal. That influence is puzzling. A commodity the production of which in the United States last year amounted to only $16,000,000 seems to command more political allegiance than any other. Generally the reason assigned for such power is the support coming during times of depression from agriculture. At these times the agrarian States, which have a habit of thinking that the only thing that causes depression is shortage of money, look upon silver as the logical base for new depression money. But there is a political power attaching to silver independent of that coming from agriculture. It arises from the far-flung area of silver mining, which seems to make a representative of a state producing only a few ounces a year a silver senator.

HOPE OR CONFIDENCE?

And then there is Senator Key Pittman. The Senator from Nevada is without an equal in pertinacity. Without any well-defined prepossession of what should be done to improve silver's status, he is interested only that something should be done and his increasing efforts will be given a high place in accounting for anything that may be achieved. He finds something in every new angle of the Administration's policy to demonstrate the necessity for silver remonetization; to-day he reports even to threats, declaring that unless the President takes voluntary action, he will force a measure through Congress that may upset the Presidential appointment. After all these years, figuratively the Senator finds himself back upon the 10 to 1 ratio tangent once again. Much of the activity in the New York market must, in the circumstances, be attributed to speculators who are more hopeful than confident.

SOCIAL PROGRESS IN EGYPT

Another long step forward towards the establishment of better social conditions has been effected by the adoption of the Egyptian Parliament of its bill to regulate the employment of children and young persons in industry. The bill will come into force before the New Year. It applies generally to industrial undertakings as defined in the various International Labour Conventions adopted by the International Labour Organisation of the League of Nations. It prohibits the employment of children under twelve years in industrial undertakings although in certain occupations the employment of children between nine and twelve is still permitted. Special provisions regulate the employment of young persons in dangerous or unhealthy processes. A weekly rest is also provided for them. The hours of work of children between the ages of nine and twelve are fixed at seven in the day, and those of young persons under fifteen, at nine in the day.

DAME ANDERSON'S WORK

This bill is due, to a quite special degree, to the efforts of the International Labour Office. In 1930 Dame Adelaide Anderson, the famous English worker for social reform, visited Egypt and drew up a sensational report, subsequently published in the International Labour Review, on the terrible conditions of child labour then existing in Egypt. Afterwards, at the request of the Egyptian Government, Mr. Butler, the present Director of the International Labour Office, who was at that time Deputy-Director, visited Egypt and assisted the Government in drafting the provisions of the present bill. Actually, the Act has gone even somewhat further than Mr. Butler's original recommendations. Thus the occupations in which children from nine to twelve may be employed are fewer than originally proposed. The hours of work are also shorter, as the original bill had proposed "hours of effective work". The prohibition of child labour and the regulation of juvenile labour is one of the objects to which the International Labour Office has devoted the greatest attention since its foundation. The greatest difficulties have always been encountered in Eastern countries, and the present very notable success in Egypt is therefore a matter for particular congratulation.

is impossible to calculate, with any degree of certainty precisely what will be the outcome of a policy of boosting the international gold price. The remaining gold standard countries are at least one stable factor in the currency world; any move jeopardising that stability may prove a boomerang.

AGE LIMITS ARE SILLY

Says ROBERT LYND

THERE is apparently no subject on which human beings are readier to talk and to become excited than the respective merits of youth and age.

We have now reached a point at which a Government department has imposed an age limit for architects in a scheme for a new building—an age limit. It is worth nothing, that if it had been in existence in the sixteenth century would have disqualified Michelangelo from doing his architectural work on St. Peter's.

It seems to me to be one of the most foolish things in the world to ask such questions as: "What age should an architect be?" "What age should the head of a business be?" or "What age should a statesman be?"

The question is really as absurd as a question that once stirred the literary world: "What is the right length for a novel?"

There is, of course, no right length for a novel. Obviously a novel must not be as short as a single sentence or as long as the "Encyclopaedia Britannica"; but experience shows that the excellence of a novel depends not on its length or shortness but on the qualities of the novelist.

"Monte Cristo" is long and a masterpiece. "Treasure Island" is short and a masterpiece.

ROOM FOR ALL

In fiction there is room for both the long and the short, and it seems to me equally obvious that in active life there is room for both the young and the old.

In the history of politics, certainly, there is no evidence that the young are preferable to the old or the old to the young. Pitt in his twenties was a greater statesman than any of his white-haired contemporaries; on the other hand, Gladstone in his eighties was a greater statesman than any of his cherubic contemporaries just down from the University. No sane country, before choosing a Pitt or a Gladstone as its leader, would insist upon first examining his birth certificate. In choosing a leader men naturally avoid the two extremes of school-boy inexperience and senile decay; but between these two extremes we are as likely to find supreme genius in a young man as in an elderly one, and in an elderly man as in a young one.

NO SUCH A PERSON

It might be possible to make a test of efficiency which would show that, on an average, the human being reaches his highest point of efficiency at a certain age—say, between 35 and 45. I choose this age-limit merely as an example, and not because I believe it bears any relation to the truth. The test would be useful, however, only in a world in which "average men" existed. One of the most conspicuous and delightful things about life, on the other hand, is that there is no such person as the "average man". The "average man" is a myth when it comes to the consideration of individuals. A restaurant proprietor may decide that the "average man" among his customers will like steak-and-kidney pudding, but he cannot be sure that the individual John Smith will like steak and kidney pudding. Apart from this, in business, politics and the arts, it is the men who differ most from the "average man" who perform the best work. An "average man" is no more fit to create a great business or to be Prime Minister than to write "Hamlet." Hence the fact—if it were a fact—that the average man attains his highest efficiency between 35 and 45 would be a fact of not the slightest importance when it came to the choice of a business manager, an architect, or even a Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

MIRAGE OF THE ELIXIR

The truth is, it is the talents with which a man is born and which he cultivates, and not his years, that distinguish him most importantly from his fellows. If an elixir of youth were discovered, a stupid old man would drink it in vain if he thought that by doing so he would turn himself into anything but a stupid young one. As well might a stupid young man expect to become wise merely by the acquisition of grey hairs.

It is odd that this controversy about youth and age should have become so acute in a period in which the distinctions between youth and age have gone a long way towards being abolished. Grandmothers and grandfathers are no longer so old as they used to be. They dress and play games in a way that would have seemed shocking to the grandchildren of the Victorian Era.

We seem to be approaching a time when it will be possible to mistake a grandmother for her granddaughter.

Perhaps what some of the younger critics of the old object to in the old is not their senility, but the fact that they remain young too long.

Whether this prolongation of youth is natural, and likely to be a permanent feature of civilised life, it is difficult to say. We have certainly got a long way from the days when Montaigne considered himself an old man at 40. On the other hand, the ancient Athenians seem to have possessed the modern secret of the prolongation of youth, for if we judge from the fact that their greatest dramatists produced their masterpieces after they were 60, Aeschylus is said to have produced the "Orestes" when he was 67. Sophocles is said to have been 63 at the time of the production of "Edipus Rex," and 87 when "Philoctetes" was first put on the stage.

RETIRING AGE—NINETY

This kind of prolonged youth may be what Nature intends for everybody in the future. It is possible that a time will soon come when the retiring age for Civil Servants will be advanced to 90, and when centenarian architects will be competing with boys who have just begun to shave for Government jobs.

If everything goes well, youth and age will settle down together amicably. If things go badly, youth will blame age, and age will find fault with youth. That, I fancy, is what has been happening since the War.

EVERYBODY protests.

Even we protest. If people go on protesting like this there is no knowing where it will end. So its about time someone started protesting about all these protests.

If things keep on as they've been during the past two or three months, we can expect to see something like the following in the newspapers:

WHAT I THINK OF THE INTERPORT TEAM

—BY THE STUMPER

INCLUSION OF REDMOND A BIG SURPRISE

WEAK ATTACK

PEREIRA BETTER CHOICE

Since my notes appeared last week, the Interport Selection Committee have sat in solemn conclave and have selected the Colony XI to do battle against Malaya on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next. While there may be one or two surprises in the team, it is on the whole quite sound, and one which promises to justify the confidence of the Selection Committee.

As has already been announced in these columns, the following players have been selected:—H. Owen Hughes (Capt.), G. S. Dunkley, T. Redmond, P. V. Williams, A. R. Minu, T. A. Pearce, E. R. Duckitt, E. C. Pincher, F. Goodwin, A. C. Hamilton and C. C. Garthwaite.

It will thus be seen that we have a wealth of batting talent, and there are no fewer than eight bowlers, all of whom are capable of taking many wickets. And it is also a good fielding side—at least on paper.

THE BIG SNAG

But with all these advantages, I feel that there is something missing. True, we have six all-rounders in the side, good batsmen and good bowlers, but when one analyses the bowlers, one will find, as I was complaining last week, a sad lack of variety. Goodwin, Hamilton, Garthwaite and Duckitt are more or less of the same type, and now Redmond has been added to increase the list to five. There are three slow bowlers in Minu, Owen Hughes and Pearce, the first two being left-handed. Owen Hughes and Pearce have not done much bowling lately and their success as such will be problematical. I am afraid the bulk of the work will fall on the I.R.C. man.

The Selection Committee have preferred Goodwin to Pereira, I confess I did not expect this, but I am also aware that Pereira has lost a lot of his former pace, and was not very successful in the trials. This may have turned the scales in favour of the Kowloon C.C., but I imagine the margin must have been very slight.

THE BIGGEST SURPRISE

What is to my mind the greatest surprise is the inclusion of T. Redmond. He has done nothing outstanding in the trials. He was chosen for the first, dropped in the second and reinstated in the third. It seems to me that he is a last-minute choice, but he does not strengthen the team at all, whereas the choice of a good slow bowler would make the world of difference in the attack.

It is a pity that Burnett has been so disappointing this season. I feel sure if he had displayed anything like last year's form, he would have been selected.

Even if A. H. Madar had any chance of being considered his attack of influenza definitely put him out of the running.

I would feel no qualms about the side if there was a really good slow bowler besides Minu and Pearce, but in fairness to the Selection Committee I must say that even if they had had that object in mind, they had no other bowlers from whom to choose. With Burnett off colour and Madar sick there is no other slow or medium paced bowler worthy of consideration.

Hongkong's chances will be bright if the match against Malaya is played on a hard and fast wicket, but too much will depend on Minu if rain falls before the match.

THE LEAGUE

While the Senior League will not commence until after the Interport series, the Junior League started last week with two matches, the Indian R.C. vanquishing their old rivals, the Club de Recreio, and the Kowloon C.C. beating the R.A.M.C. easily by five wickets.

The Club de Recreio had had light to blame for losing their match to the Indians. The two captains had agreed to draw stumps at 6.05 p.m. according to the League ruling, but the light became very bad from 5.40. Just before 6 p.m., the home team appealed against the light. They had lost eight wickets with no hope of winning, and it was agreed to give the Indians two more overs.

A. S. Sufiad was put on and he finished a capital day's work by taking the two remaining

Here's where Washington went into the lead in the second game of the World Series—Goose Goslin's home run in the third. Goslin, smiling, is shown crossing the plate. Also shown are Catcher Mancuso of the Giants, Umpire Moriarty and Heinie Manush, who followed Goslin at bat. This run gave Washington a lead until the sixth—when O'Doul went to bat as a pinch hitter.

STRONG COMBINATION FOR INTERPORT WEEK.

Following the match, the following were selected to represent the United Services against Malaya on Friday, November 10:—Capt. D. V. Williams (R.A.), (Capt.), Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite (R.A.), Lieut. A. C. Hamilton (S.W.B.), Capt. R. F. Waller (R.E.), Flying Officer D. G. Morris (R.A.F., H.M.S. Eagle), Lieut. J. A. Eaden (R.N., H.M.S. Orpheus), Capt. S. G. Cutler (R.N., H.M.S. Suffolk), Lieut. Cmdr. F. M. P. Stephenson (R.N., H.M.S. Eagle), Sub. Lieut. Alexander Sinclair (R.N., H.M.S. Berwick), Lieut. Supply Assist. Richards (H.M.S. Berwick), and Pte. Barnaby (Lincolns). The twelfth man is Capt. D. B. Michell (R.A.).

Long, had a heartbreaking time bowling to him. Failing light necessitated his retiring after scoring 66 runs, in order that others may have a chance, otherwise he would have reached his century, as he was well set.

Lt. Cdr. Stephenson also gave an impressive display, and showed a strong defence, though he was inclined to nibble at the off balls, and might have been caught off Hamilton twice.

BOWLING DEFINITELY WEAK.

The bowling of both sides was definitely weak. The Navy bowlers were more so in this respect. Lt. Hamilton, for the Army, was the most impressive trundler on view, but Lt. Garthwaite failed again. Garthwaite, however, is an excellent field in the slips, and caught Lt. Eaden off a very low fast ball off Hamilton.

I am more than convinced that the Kowloon Cricket Club ground would have been a better venue for the Interport matches than the Hongkong Club ground. The pitch there is in excellent condition, and though a few balls did kick, it appeared to be better than the Hongkong ground. The surroundings are also ideal for a big match, with more room for stands to be erected than on the Club ground. The only disadvantage about the Kowloon ground is that it is situated so far from town, but I do not think this should deter those cricket enthusiasts really keen on watching a good match in good surroundings.

MATCH CANCELLED.

The friendly cricket match arranged between the Central British Association and the Central British School for tomorrow (Saturday) has been cancelled. The match will probably be played on December 2.

C.B.A. TEAM.

The following have been chosen to represent the Central British Association in a friendly cricket match against the Lincolnshire Regiment second eleven on Sunday, at King's Park, commencing at 2.15 p.m. sharp:—E. MacNider (Capt.), F. D. Angus, A. Pole, G. W. Carr, L. Glendinning, B. I. Bickford, W. H. G. Hirst, T. S. D. Whitley, R. Wood, G. B. Garvitch, J. E. Wilson.

ST. ANDREW'S NEW DEFENDER

Good Hockey Displays By Broadbridge

Fred Broadbridge, who last year played mostly on the right wing for the St. Andrew's Club, is this season rapidly becoming a first class defender. He is proving himself an able substitute for Freddy Wong, who is ill at present, and his displays during the past two days should make his position at full back concrete. Broadbridge has a marked coolness about him when clearing and hits with no mean force. His fine display against the Service Corps on Wednesday was repeated against the Kowloon Indians Tennis Club yesterday afternoon on the Marina ground.

Yesterday's match was played in poor light and the final whistle was blown after the street lamps were lighted—a little after six o'clock. Half-an-hour's play is hardly what one might call a match.

Naidu played a stout game in the Indians' defence, while in their forward line Sousa and Pinto showed good combination with short passing.

The K.I.T.C. won by three clear goals, scored by D. Mohammed, Sousa and J. M. Pinto in the first half. The Saints, who fielded only ten men, were without the services of at least five of their regular players.

HOCKEY ASSN: GETS GOING

INTERNATIONAL TOURNAMENT

AND INTERPORTS

By "Bully-Off"

ALTHOUGH it was hinted when the Hongkong Hockey Association was first mooted that it would serve little or no useful purpose, its activities since inception have given the lie direct and have more than justified its existence. Its latest move is the inauguration of an International Hockey Tournament in the Colony and is one which commands itself to all enthusiasts.

THE arrangements are already in hand and the representatives responsible for the several nationalities invited to take part have been nominated. The following nations have been asked to participate: England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Portugal, China, Germany and India, and their representatives are E. J. R. Mitchell, J. Rodger, Surg. Lieut. A. E. Phillips, Capt. A. R. Smeathers, A. M. Xavier, R. H. Wong, O. May and Surin Singh respectively.

THE first round of the tourney is to take place on Monday, March 19, the second round on Monday March 26, and the finals on Easter Monday. It is difficult at present to make any forecast as to the prospects of the various countries, but suffice to say the tournament will without doubt provide some of the best games yet played in Hongkong.

ENGLAND will have a galaxy of talent from which to select their XI, and Wales will have at its disposal the services of the South Wales Borderers. Ireland will probably draw its players mainly from the Services. Scotsmen have also figured prominently in the game during the past two years and here again there should be no difficulty in fielding a formidable side. India will have the H.K.S.R.A., Punjab Regiment and the other Indian units from which to make their selections. Unfortunately the Jats leave the Colony before the tourney is due to commence so that India will lose the services of stalwarts like Jall, at left inner, and Sirdar Khan, centre half.

PORTUGAL will be able to call on the Recreio and the numerous Portuguese who are included in some of the leading teams now in the field. The German community in Hongkong is far from large and it looks as though they will probably have a tough proposition to face.

UMPIRES for the games will be provided by the Association, and it will also be their task to provide grounds. Teams will be expected to provide balls and equipment.

ANOTHER step in the right direction taken by the Association is the matter of Interport matches. It is proposed to get in touch with the coastal ports, such as Singapore, Shanghai, Swatow, Manila, Macao, Canton, Amoy and Foochow. Interport hockey is long overdue and when instituted I am sure will be extremely popular.

THE Hongkong Ladies are going to make a strong bid for the Coer Clark Cup again this year. Instead of running first and second teams they have decided to field two teams per week until the competition starts, thus giving plenty of opportunity of studying the individual players and selecting the strongest possible side.

SHAMEEN LEAGUE FOOTBALL

ISLAND TEAM BEAT THE CICALA

Canton, Nov. 2. Yesterday afternoon Shameen played against H.M.S. Cicala in a League Soccer match. Shameen was victorious, beating their opponents by three goals to one. The game was quite a good one and up to standard.

The Cicala forwards failed to make the best of their opportunities and the only goal scored by them was by their captain.

The Shameen defence was distinctly poor, but their wing forwards played a good game, especially by the outside left who scored two of the three goals.

The third goal for Shameen was scored by Pote-Hunt, who is captain of the team.—Our Own Correspondent.

wickets in his first over for no run. He had earlier on made 65 out of the Indians' total of 151 for six wickets.

Despite a good start given them by Cpl. Colledge and Major Donvir who put up 69 runs for the first wicket, the R.A.M.C. were all dismissed for 86, A.R.F. Raven taking four wickets for three runs towards the end of their innings.

The K.C.C. made the runs for the loss of five wickets.

Medical Corps The Bettesa Team

Playing with only ten men the Y.M.C.A. seconds were defeated by one goal to nil by the R.A.M.C. at King's Park yesterday. Tippet failed to make an appearance. The Medical Corps had the better of the exchanges and had had lines on many occasions. They opened with a concerted attack on the Y.M.C.A. goal and Colledge just missed scoring in the first few minutes. G. H. Fowler played a fine game at centre half and broke up many movements before Lane, about half way through the first period, scored the only goal. The "Y" played a one back game.

In the second half Brown was conspicuous several times and nearly netted an equaliser after a brilliant solo effort from his own half. Lane scored a second goal about ten minutes after the restart but the goal was disallowed on account of offside.

The game was played in poor light and time was short.

LEGER DAY

PUNTERS WILL BE EN FETE

NIGHT STAR MUST WIN

TRENTBRIDGE TO BE FOLLOWED

(By "Captain Foster").

To-morrow is Hongkong Leger's Day, and speculation is rife as to whom will win the Sub-Griffins classic, which, in my opinion is a very open race. Warrington is my fancy, although De Minimis will have a large following.

Trentbridge should win the the Hongkong St Leger, and Night Star appears to be the only genuine stayer for the Freemantle St. Leger.

Golden Dragon unfortunately went lame after his gallop last Wednesday. He was much fancied and would have I think finished amongst the placed ponies.

With the exception of the Shek-O handicap, which will result in a runaway victory for Diana Bay, the remaining three races should produce good finishes.

Shek-O Handicap

Blue Star and Cossack's Beauty will, I fear, be outclassed. Diana Bay will win in a canter as she is known to be in fine fettle. Sadko on his last running cannot be seriously considered for second place, and I think both Dynasty's candidates will follow the mare home. This is how I expect them to finish:

- 1 Diana Bay
- 2 King's Justice
- 3 Hetman

Freemantle St. Leger

Here we shall also see a tame finish, and Night Star will win by whatever margin Mr. Pan desires. City of Brisbane should fill the second position, and it will not surprise me to see Rosy Morn amongst the placed ponies. She is known to be well, but the distance may find her weakness. I cannot see Portia with the leaders at the finish. She is on past performances—very fast for short distances, but in a field consisting chiefly of non-stayers an upset might easily occur. This is the likely order at the finishing post:

- 1 Night Star
- 2 City of Brisbane
- 3 Rosy Morn

Castle Peak Handicap

This should be a well contested race with the issue in doubt until the last stride. The Handicapper has done his work well and it will not be easy to pick the winner with any degree of certainty. In a short race like this the start means everything, but I think we shall see King's Bounty, Flying Tourist, The Tiger and Valorous fighting it out at the finish. Of the four I fancy King's Bounty the best of all.

The Tiger is going great guns at the moment and may very easily win. He put up a rattling good gallop with Mr. Frost up the other morning, the time he took to negotiate the mile being 2.09.

Valorous is in good hard condition and on Wednesday morning he covered six furlongs in 1.32 3/5, but his finishing quarter was poor—33 secs. all out. He is slow at the gate but if he should get off well I think he will be concerned with the finish.

Flying Tourist has done everything that has been asked of him recently, but I really cannot see him winning. Navy Hall I gather will be a non-stayer, otherwise I would have given him pride of place. Don, will I think, find the distance too short for him and this remark also applies to Pride of Tsingtao. The latter pony has vastly im-

APOLLO BEATEN BY CYCLAMEN BAY

HONGKONG PONIES DO WELL IN TIENTSIN.

Apollo who has made a great name for himself at Tientsin by winning race after race, met his Waterloo at the last Championship, being beaten by another Hongkong pony, Cyclamen Bay.

Both these ponies are very well known in Hongkong and won many good races here.

proved and it will not surprise me to see him returned a winner before the season closes. He will be dangerous in any finish of a mile or over. Selection:

- 1 King's Bounty
- 2 The Tiger
- 3 Valorous

Hongkong St. Leger

A small but selected field will face the barrier for this Classic. Trentbridge is going strongly and his gallop last Wednesday of a mile in 2.15, with the last half in one minute and last quarter in 29 seconds, was most impressive. He should account for this race and will be followed home by Charming Star and Mayflower. The distance, I think, will be too far for Cossack's Beauty to have any say with the finish. I anticipate the following order of finish:

- 1 Trentbridge
- 2 Charming Star
- 3 Mayflower

Fanling Handicap

A little luck will be required in finding the winner of this event as there are at least half a dozen ponies that have equal chances. They may past the winning post in the following order:

HONGKONG Autumn Classics—the Hongkong, Freemantle and Sub-Griffin St. Legers—are the big attraction in to-morrow's racing programme at the Happy Valley. And here are my selected winners:

Hongkong St. Leger Trentbridge
Freemantle St. Leger Night Star
Sub-Griffin St. Leger Warrington

BELOW will also be found my analyses of the afternoon's card, together with three selections for each event.

THE unhappiest news of the week was made known yesterday, when it was announced that Golden Dragon, one of the entries for the Sub-Griffin St. Leger went lame in his final gallop on Wednesday morning, and that not only will he be a non-starter in this event, but will not be seen on the track again this season.

WARRINGTON

Gray and Dalran, both good ponies for the distance. No Fear has credentials and might easily upset the apple cart. Now's The Time has disappointed so often, but I hesitate to leave him entirely out of the hunt.

I understand Mr. Frost will have the mount and the change of jockeys may prove beneficial, indicating as the name denotes, Now's The Time to have your flutter. Perhaps it may be as well to take a sporting chance on him and if successful, the return will be profitable. Likely Result:

- 1 Jingle
- 2 Iron Grey
- 3 Now's The Time

Shumchun Handicap

Mr. P. Botelho will have the handling of Brechin and I think the combination will prove successful. Gold Key is quickly fancied and Mike should also be considered. Mon Talisman I fear will be outclassed.

- 1 Brechin
- 2 Mike
- 3 Gold Key

Sub-Griffin St. Leger

This is a very open race. Warrington has been going well and is my first choice. De Minimis must be concerned at the finish. Golden Dragon had an exceedingly good chance of annexing this race, and race-goers will be sorry to hear that he lamed himself after the final gallop last Wednesday morning.

He will not be seen on the course for the remainder of the season. Burgomaster won impressively the last time out and I make him a genuine stayer. King Salmon is shaping well and cannot be left out in one's calculation. I am not keen on Partnership as I think the distance is beyond him. Vigilance will be piloted by Mr. Shuen and as there are at least half a dozen ponies that have equal chances. They may past the winning post in the following order:

- 1 Warrington
- 2 Vigilance
- 3 De Minimis

Taipo Handicap

We should witness a close finish in this scurry. Wemby Stag will be there or thereabouts. Festival Eve and Stickypast have also great speed and we cannot ignore Cevu and Heltor Skelter. Adam has also to be considered. I feel sure that these six ponies among them will fill the three positions but the puzzle is in which order? The start again will prove the deciding factor but assuming they all get off well I would be inclined to place them in this order:

- 1 Wemby Stag
- 2 Stickypast
- 3 Heltor Skelter

The Double

We certainly cannot put on our Betting Boots to-morrow. The Double is very open especially for the first leg where I would be inclined to back King's Bounty, The Tiger, Valorous and Flying Tourist, and Warrington for the second. If another is required for the latter I would suggest a chance on Vigilance.

TURF TOPICS

WHEN BRONZINO NEARLY WON

COLOMBO & THE 1934 CLASSICS

(By "Captain Foster")

In his book "Man and Horses I have known" the Hon. George Lambton—the trainer of Swynford—the horse which beat Bronzino, in the 1910 St. Leger—says:

Having an idea that Lemberg was not a great stayer I told Frank Wotton to make the pace as hot as he could from the start. In the race he had the field on the stretch in the first furlong. Coming to the Red House, Danny moved up on Lemberg, but whenever he got to Swynford's quarters the latter put in some of his great big strides and went away again.

Two furlongs from home, Maher was following dead in his tracks. Although he was sitting still, so well did I know Danny's riding, that I was certain his horse was tiring and I said to Bob Vyner, who was beside me in the stand "I've got him, we should win."

Nearly Caught

Frank Wotton was but a boy at the time, riding 7 st. 4 lb. and by this time he was a passenger on the rails, where the Yorkshire crowd was shouting and waving their race cards according to their usual custom. There was plenty of room for Lemberg to come up on the inside had he been good enough but he was not—his bolt was shot.

As it was, Bronzino a horse of Mr. Jimmy Rothschild's, came with a tremendous rush in the last hundred yards, nearly catching my horse on the post, but the head was the right way.

Colombo for Next Year's Classics

Colombo goes into winter quarters as the favourite for next

THE DOUBLE.

The selection of to-morrow's double calls for some rather serious thinking. Nevertheless I feel punters would do well to choose either for the first leg, and to back Warrington or if an alternative is felt to be needed year's English Derby and, in the opinion of Meyrick Good, is the best two year old he has seen for many years.

The son of Manna (the winner of the Derby of 1925) won all his seven races this year and over £17,000 in stakes. He was purchased by Lord Glanely at the Doncaster Sales last year for under 500 guineas, who luckily entered him for the classics of 1934. His last outing was in the Imperial Produce Stakes at Kempton Park on September 30 last and Meyrick Good, the Sporting Editor of the Sporting Life writes:—

"Those who questioned the merits of Colombo must have been satisfied with his sterling performance in the Imperial Produce Stakes.

"In giving two such smart youngsters as Valerius and Archelona, 17 lb., Lord Glanely's Colt accomplished what St. Frusquin failed to do in the same event in 1896. He was beaten by Tenfel, who received 12 lb.

"With 9 st. 6 lb., Colombo won in 1 min. 12.3/5 secs., a record for the course.

Donoghue's Clever Race

"Donoghue rode a clever race on the Son of Manna. Close as was the tussle with Valerius in the last half furlong, he refrained from using his whip, being content to swing it to let Colombo know what was required of him.

That fine judge of pace, Carslake, who surprised at the

GRIST AND BECK IN LUCK

CAPTURE OFFSPRING OF FAMOUS BRONZINO.

Messrs. Grist and Beck have drawn a very fine Australian this season and he impresses one immensely. These owners deserve some luck as they drew a particularly bad animal last year.

I understand their pony is called Bronze Era, and is a son of Bronzino.

If he turns out half as good as his sire he will undoubtedly make history at Happy Valley next year. Bronzino was only beaten a head by Swynford in the English St. Leger of 1910 with Lemberg (the winner of the Derby that year) third.

great pace that Colombo set. "When first I saw this Colt win I expressed the opinion that he was one of the best two-year-olds I have seen for years."

FOUR NEW JOCKEYS

AT HAPPY VALLEY TO-MORROW

MR. P. BOTELHO'S GREAT PROMISE

MR. SHUEN DOWN FROM NORTH

(By "Captain Foster")

We welcome three new riders at the Valley in the persons of Davis, Deitz and P. Botelho, and I am sure that they will all be public favourites before long.

Mr. Davis is an experienced jockey and has had many successes—both on the flat and over sticks—at Shanghai, Tientsin and Peking where his services have always been in great demand. He has not been too well served here in the way of mounts, but he gave us a taste of his qualities in the way he steered Festival Eve and Burgomaster to victory.

Mr. Deitz has been more fortunate in mounts but he has also shown us that he is a cool and capable jockey, a good starter, always in a good position in a race, and gets every ounce out of a pony in the finish.

In Mr. P. Botelho we have the best novice rider I have seen at the Valley for the past ten years at least, and his capabilities now rank high amongst the experienced jockeys. He has a good firm seat and rides a strong finish; he also shows good judgment of pace in a race—in fact I consider he has all the qualities of a rider of class.

A Note of Warning

He is in the beginning of his racing career and in wishing him success, I would like to sound a note of warning. Never forget that there is always something to learn in the art of race riding, and that it takes years of constant and incessant practice to become thoroughly proficient. Winning twenty or thirty races does not necessarily mean that a man is a good jockey—perhaps more successful in mounts only—and if he relaxes in his endeavours he will hardly rise beyond the mediocre stage.

Mr. Y. S. Shuen arrived to-day from Shanghai. He is a well known and successful jockey on the Kiangwan Course. I understand he will be riding at to-morrow's meeting for the Li and Li's stable, and will have Don, Mayflower and Vigilance, as his mounts.

The Return of "Bob"

I have been wondering how long Mr. Bob Charles was going to remain out of the saddle. I have felt all along that he could not entirely forsake the pigskin, he being far too keen a rider to become a spectator.

It is therefore pleasant to see the interest he is once more taking in the activities at the Valley. He has also been quietly getting his weight off and will ride Orlando to-morrow. I realize that he had the mount of Duplex in the Challenge Cup last September, but it was accepted on the spur of the moment, and he was then not taking race riding seriously.

CONSIDERED UNSAFE TO CONVICT.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEE DISCHARGED

"In my opinion, it would be unsafe to convict, specially in view of the fact that the defendant has an assured position in the Government service and has no need to steal," remarked Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, in discharging a telephone operator at the P.W.D. stores, Bullock Lane, named Lai Yiu-kau (20) who was charged with robbing Miss Pok Fung-yee, a teacher, of a blue leather handbag containing $18 in money, at Spring Garden Lane.

The defence alibi was that defendant was at home between 4.30 and 8 p.m. His father, who has worked 40 years at the Naval Dockyard and is on pension, gave evidence that his son was at home.

Defendant's mother died two years ago. His arrest. Three women visitors on Sunday spoke to seeing the defendant at home.

His Worship ruled he could not help feeling that the evidence of implication was not strong. The complainant had hesitated at the identification parade, and the two witnesses might have made a mistake with the robber who had run before. The alibi was fairly strong though there were some weak points.

On the whole, he thought it would be unsafe to convict and the safest course was to discharge the defendant.

The complainant is a teacher at the Girls' Normal School, Leo Garden Street, and the incident took place when she was walking up the steps leading to Spring Garden Lane on October 15.

The snatcher is alleged to have clapped her on the face, thrown some paper into her eyes, and made off with her handbag.

Inspector Nelloth prosecuted, while Mr. M. A. da Silva was for the defence.

Magistrate's Purlough.

Mr. da Silva: This may be my last appearance before your Worship before you leave on holiday. May I wish your Worship God-speed and a very pleasant trip.

His Worship: Thank you very much Mr. da Silva. I leave in two days.

Inspector Nelloth: I wish to associate myself with Mr. da Silva's remarks, your Worship.

His Worship: Thank you.

The New Daily Double System

WILL OPERATE TO-MORROW

The popularity of the Hongkong Jockey Club's "Daily Double" having been established, to-morrow's meeting will see the introduction of some new features in practical application of the system.

Up to the present the method has been for punters to write their selections on a ticket, post it in a box, and then suffer a rather trying experience in collecting their winnings.

This is to be done away with, a much simpler system having been evolved.

In brief it is this:

THE NEW METHOD.

Tickets will be on sale at the commencement of the Pari-Mutuel Betting on the first of the selected races as before, but when the starters are exhibited on the second of the selected races, instead of the successful punter writing his selection on both halves of the ticket and posting one half in the daily double box, he must exchange the winning ticket for a ticket on the pony he wishes to back.

In the second of the selected race to complete the Double.

Punters will be further assisted by the attendance of shroffs who will be available to exchange winning tickets on the first of the selected races for a ticket on any pony in the second of the chosen races at the Daily Double counters.

PROOF OF WINNING.

An exchanged ticket on any pony in the second of the selected events will be proof that the holder has backed the winning pony on the first half of the double.

It should also be borne in mind that the betting will close on the ringing of the bell closing the ordinary Pari-Mutuel betting.

This is another step forward in the Jockey Club's task of making their race meetings attractive and enjoyable. That it will serve for smoother and happier negotiations in the participation of the Daily Double is obvious, and whatever popularity this feature has hitherto enjoyed can be expected to be greatly increased as a result of this new and highly commendable system.

The Public Library has now reopened in the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank's temporary building—East Entrance.

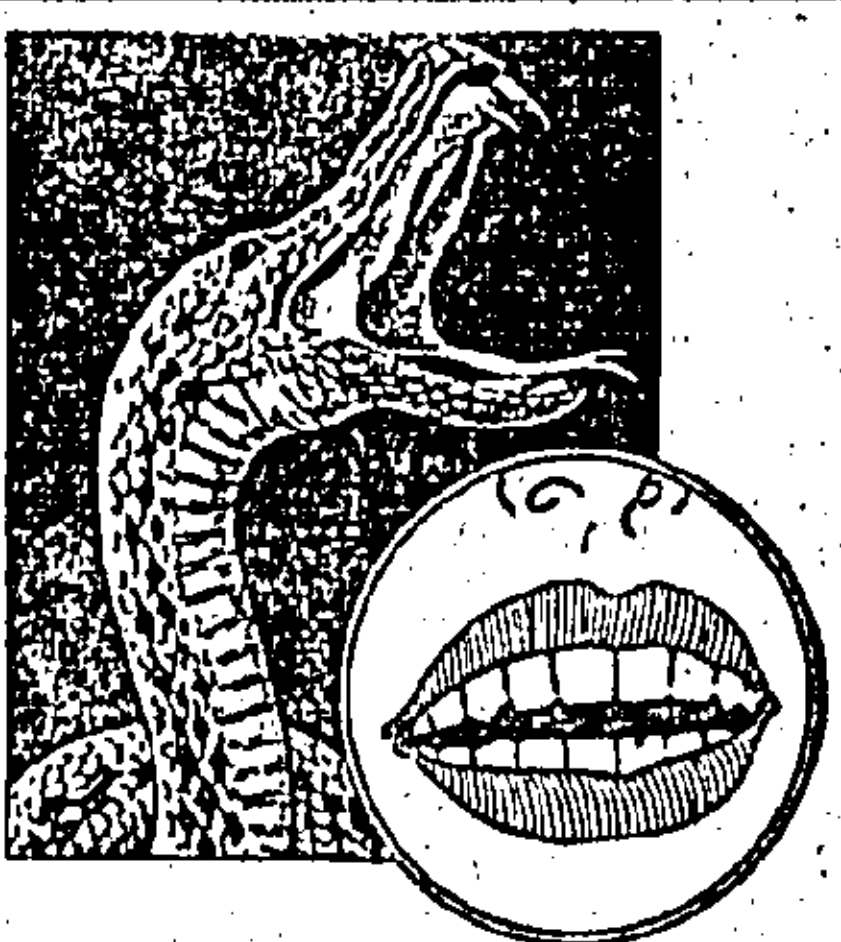

The s.s. "Tanda" left Manila for this Port yesterday afternoon with the outward Australian Mails, and is due here to-morrow morning.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Today's Contract Problem

How is it possible for South, the dealer, in the following hand, to arrive at a contract of four hearts?

North: ♠ K J 10 ♥ A K 9 7
East: ♠ Q 3 2 ♥ Q 4
A 8 10 8 5
South: ♠ 8 5 4 ♥ J 8 8 2
K 8 3 Q 7 6
West: ♠ A Q 9 ♥ 10
7 6 4 ♠ A K J 4 3 2
Solution in next issue. 9

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

While psychic bidding may not be as successful as it was only a year ago, good players are always looking for the spot that may prove a winner to them. How a proper psychic will defeat a contract is shown by the previous problem hand, repeated here. It was played by Mrs. Dorothy Sims, president of the Women's Branch of the American Bridge League, and originator of psychic bidding.

The Bidding
South and West passed. Mrs.
Sims in the North bid one heart.
East doubled and South bid two hearts. West passed. Mrs. Sims passed. East bid two no trumps.
West carried the contract to three.

The Play
Now, after Mrs. Sims has opened the bidding with a heart and East has gone to game in no trumps, South definitely knows not to open a heart. Mrs. Sims, who has no high hearts and whose psychic heart bid was assisted by her partner, realizes that her best defence when she gets in will be to lead a heart.

So when South made a short suit opening and led the five of diamonds, Mrs. Sims won with the king and returned the nine of hearts. The declarer finessed the queen. South won with the king and returned the heart, knocking out East's ace.

Now, before the declarer can go home, he must establish a club trick. But as soon as he tries this, Mrs. Sims will win with the ace, return her other heart, and the contract is defeated.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

A thrilling glimpse of America's smartest crooks in operation is to be seen in "Midnight Mary," drama of the upper underworld which is due as the next attraction at the Queen's. The evolution of a typical gang of small-time gunmen into high-powered specialists in big crime is woven into a dramatic love story that features Loreta Young and Franchot Tonne in strongly emotional roles. Their love is complicated by violence and tricks of fate that lead to a breathless climax of high speed action. Miss Young is even more appealing than in her recent picture, "Zoo in Budapest," and Tonne demonstrates that he is one of the finest young actors to come to the screen from the New York stage.

Ricardo Cortez is again a menace of odious character, and causes the audience to thoroughly dislike him, which is the final test of good villainy. Una Merkel provides welcome comedy relief in a role that also is a different type of characterization for the young charmer of the Southern accent. She combines with Andy Devine in winning laughs through many hilarious situations.

Frank Conroy, Warren Hymer, Ivan Simpson, Harold Huber, Sandy Roth and Martha Sleeper have supporting roles that provide convincing strength to the fast-moving story. William Wellman, who scarcely with "Prince Joany" and recently "Bread Line," has directed the action with a maximum of value to each scene.

"Bondage"

"Bondage," the new Fox film at the King's Theatre to-day, tears down a curtain that has long concealed a hidden part of our lives. Simply and effectively it unravels a girl's life and in the doing narrates one of the most strikingly dramatic portraits of the motion picture season.

In this production depicting the hardships experienced in a community by a group of unmarried mothers, Dorothy Jordan, in the role of the unloved "Julie Peters" gives a portrayal that for sincerity ranks with the finest on the silver screen. The tumultuous experiences of a girl against whom society has pitted itself with an unrelenting conscience are those of hundreds of similar cases that until now have been prominent because of their absence from our daily news and discussions.

So delicately is this motif spun and to such a climax does it rise that for a moment one feels that life itself has been translated literally on the screen. Its tones are so true and so well drawn that for once the cinema gives us a documentary work rather than an idyllic portrait.

The story is as simple or as complex as life. The girl submits to the knowing cosmopolitan. Her degradation is a matter of time and finally she wanders off into the far of despondence. She is redeemed by a young doctor.

As the doctor, Alexander Kirkland does admirably. But full laurel wreaths are due Dorothy Jordan whose refreshing beauty and sincerity of manner in this drama elevate her to certain stardom.

"Fast Life"

The fastest moving action picture of the season comes to the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday with the appearance of William Haines and an all-star cast in "Fast Life," the breath-taking motorboat racing picture.

Haines is given one of the strongest portrayals of his career as the irresistible "Sandy," a motorboat mechanic who has a new idea of an engine that will break the world's record. He drives his boat through a race that will send thrilling chills down the spine of even the most apathetic theatre-goer.

Cliff Edwards pokes his expressive countenance into a series of comedy situations with Haines through which they both have many hilarious adventures. Madge Evans is seen in a sparkling role as the daughter of a wealthy racing boat builder.

The two-mile-a-minute story is based on E. J. Rait's novel, "Let's Go," in which a young motorboat mechanic and his assistant are determined to get backing for their new type of engine. When they finally do get a wealthy boat builder to construct a craft using their plans, they have a serious accident and are forced to resort to piracy among the millionaires' yachts.

"Fra Diavolo"

Oliveria Hardio and Stanlio Laurel are robbed of their life savings by bandits. Seeking revenge, they hit upon the bright idea of being bandits themselves. Hardio pretends he is Diavolo, the notorious bandit chief known throughout the country. Eventually they encounter the famed Diavolo, though they do not know him, and Hardio is sentenced to be hanged, Laurel is ordered to be the executioner.

In the meantime Diavolo discovers that his bandit gang failed to get Lady

Pamela's money. To frustrate possible identification of his men, he takes the comedy team along as pseudo managers and poses as the Marquis de San Marco. He secures Lady Pamela's money, but is blocked in his escape by the stupidity of the comedians.

Meanwhile the innkeeper's daughter is being forced to marry a rich landowner. She is in love, however, with a young officer who has been searching for Diavolo. The capture of the bandit, with its attendant reward, will make it possible for him to marry the girl.

Laurel unwittingly reveals Diavolo's identity during the wedding feast. This brings about their own arrest as accomplices. The bandit chief helps the officer receive the reward. The trio—Diavolo, Laurel and Hardio—are sentenced to be shot.

Backed against a wall, Laurel asks permission to blow his nose and pulls out a red handkerchief. It is seen by a bull and the enraged animal charges wildly into the crowd. Diavolo escapes, while Laurel and Hardio ride away on the back of the bull.

"Sweepings"

The tragedy of having too much money and of an enterprise that becomes too large for its heirs to manage is graphically and dramatically told in "Sweepings," coming on Sunday to the King's Theatre with Lionel Barrymore in the starring role.

It reveals how pampered sons and daughters of the rich accept bootleggers as their social equals and how sleek men stand along the sidewalks of the giddy social whirl on sale as lovers or husbands to the highest bidder.

The film offers a daring treatment of this phase of life. It is elaborately staged, whirling its auditors through several decades of American history, each era represented in its proper settings, costumes and social life. In support of Barrymore are Alan Dinehart, Ninette Sunderland, Gregory Ratoff, William Gargan, Gloria Stuart, George Meeker, Eric Linden, Lucien Littlefield and many other prominent players. ENGLISH STUDIES

HONGKONG BRANCH OF THE ASSOCIATION

On Tuesday, November 7, the H.K. branch of the English Association starts its activities for a new season. Its Excellency Sir William Peel, who is president, has kindly consented to preside at the opening meeting.

The English Association is a world-wide Society. Its object is to arrange meetings of people interested in English literature and the English language. It has members of every nationality, race and creed, who find a common interest in the study and discussion of literary topics or linguistic problems. The headquarters of the Central Body is in London, and there are local branches in every city of culture throughout the English-speaking world.

The Hongkong branch is now beginning its fifth year. It holds regular monthly meetings, from November to April, on the first Tuesday of each month. Each meeting takes the form of a lecture and a discussion. The lecture is not meant to be an exhaustive treatment of a set theme, but an introductory review of a topic which can be informally discussed by people interested in books. That the more impressive entertainments of the modern world have not entirely distracted mankind from literary pursuits, is shown by the good attendance at these meetings.

Membership of the local branch has always, during these four years, amounted to between eighty and a hundred. Of these, some twenty or thirty have also become members of the Central Body. Membership of the Central Body establishes a link with literary activities at home, and those who join the Central Body receive copies of pamphlets and bulletins

SEAMEN VANISH

POLICE SEARCHING THE WHANGPOO

Shanghai, Nov. 2. River Police are searching for the bodies of two French sailors, believed to have been drowned when they fell into the Whangpoo from a sampan.

The men are Francois Leven and Leon Vincent, both of the cruiser Primaugot.

According to the authorities, the men fell into the water late Sunday night while they were being conveyed in a sampan to their ship.

Another seaman, Peder Starand- haug, Norwegian second engineer on the s.s. Wilfred, was seen missing from his ship since October 28, and it is believed that he, too, is drowned. Police are searching.—Reuter.

which are published throughout the year. For this central membership, there is an extra charge of five dollars in addition to the local subscription of three dollars.

Occasional Publications.

Not only does the local branch provide regular meetings, it also publishes from time to time, as funds permit, booklets containing lectures which have been delivered at these meetings.

To meet the convenience of those who like five o'clock tea and who don't want to rush away from five o'clock tea to attend a meeting, the Helena May Institute, where meetings are held, kindly offers to cater for tea-parties in the lecture hall. Those who mean to take tea, are asked to order it from the Matron of the Helena May Institute (Tel. No. 22160) the day before the meeting, so that

DUKE SUMMONED.

ALLEGED CONDUCT OF LOTTERY.

London, Nov. 2.

A summons has been granted at the Bow Street Police Court against the Duke of Atholl, for selling tickets in a lottery. The case will be heard on November 14.—Reuter.

For some months past, the Duke of Atholl has received world-wide publicity for his scheme to raise money for British charities.

Lotteries being illegal in England, His Grace invited anyone interested to send him "ten shillings for nothing." They received in return a cancelled ticket, but no reference to a lottery or prizes appeared on it.

Because of the Duke's unimpeachable reputation for honesty and integrity, money poured in. People subscribed confident that they would participate in a lottery. It will remain for the authorities to prove that the Duke actually conducted a lottery.

A table may be arranged for them. Tuesday's meeting will begin with the annual business of approving accounts and electing office-bearers. There will then be a lecture on "R. S. Surtees" by Mr. Macnamara. Those who like books, and those who like horses, will have a good opportunity of hearing and discussing the views of one who is well known to like both.

Old members who mean to continue their membership, and new members who wish to join, have no formalities to go through, other than handing in their names and subscriptions, which can be done most conveniently at the meetings.

CHINA AND THE SOVIET

Non-Aggression Pact Drafted

Shanghai, Nov. 3.
The China Press publishes a special message from Nanking stating that, following protracted negotiations both at Moscow and Nanking, a Sino-Soviet Non-aggression pact has been drafted.

According to a report from a certain official Foreign quarter in Shanghai, the pact is now under consideration by the National Government.—Reuter.

SOVIET'S C.E.R. ALARM

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONSUL

MEASURES FOR PROTECTION

Tientsin, Nov. 3.
It is learned in diplomatic quarters that the Soviet Consul-General at Harbin, M. Slavutsky, has received confidential instructions from the Moscow Government in regard to "adequate measures" to be taken against the possible mass arrest of Russian employees of the C.E.R.

The Russian authorities think that incident after incident deliberately created by the Japanese preface an attempt at the seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway.—Central News.

ALL PAYMENTS STOPPED

Harbin, Nov. 3.
It is difficult to see how the present friction between the Manchukuo and Soviet officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway can continue much longer without causing a much more serious flare-up.

The latest cause of dispute is connected with salaries and it looks possible that all C.E.R. employees will soon be working without wages.

The dispute has arisen from the refusal of the Manchukuo Chief Controller of the Railway to sanction the payment of the salaries of M. Kulina, M. Lavroff, M. Kubel and M. Abloff, the C.E.R. employees who were arrested on September 24.

Upon this refusal, M. Rudy, the Soviet General Manager, retaliated by instructing the cashier to stop all payments.

"AGITATOR" CASE

Meanwhile, M. Slavutsky, the Soviet Consul-General has protested to the Foreign Ministry and demanded the release of the "agitators" arrested on October 25. The men in custody, five in number, were arrested by C.E.R. police and are alleged to be members of a Communist cell.

Their release has been refused. The Foreign Office representative says that they are to be charged with treason.—Reuter.

MYSTERY METEORITE TRACED

Located in Field in North Anhui

Nanking, Nov. 3.
The meteorite which caused so much sensation and speculation a fortnight ago, has finally been located. Information has been received that the meteorite fell in a field near Suining Hsien, in North Anhui.

The Academia Sinica has sent a scientist to Suining to investigate the meteorite, which is reported to be of a brownish colour and smooth surface.—Reuter.

GROUNDING OF THE COURAGEOUS

COURT-MARTIAL RESULT ANNOUNCED

LONDON, NOV. 2.
THE TEMPORARY GROUNDING OF THE GREAT £3,000,000 AIRCRAFT-CARRIER, H.M.S. COURAGEOUS, OFF GREAT YARMOUTH ABOUT A MONTH AGO WAS THE SUBJECT OF A NAVAL INQUIRY AND COURT-MARTIAL TO-DAY.

Lieutenant-Commander G. F. Dixon, the navigation officer, was at the termination of the hearing, found guilty of "negligently or by default hazarding his ship."

Lieut-Commander Dixon was sentenced to be severely reprimanded and dismissed his ship.

It was not a serious accident. H.M.S. Courageous was cruising off Great Yarmouth on September 24 when she went heavily aground.

She was only on the bank for about an hour, however, with the rise of the tide, the giant ship was re-floated by her own engines running astern. Subsequent examination in dock showed that she had suffered no damage as the result of the grounding.—Reuter.

ITALIAN CHAMBER

RESTRICTION OF VOTERS

Rome, Nov. 2.
The dissolution of the present Italian Chamber and the election of a new legislative body under a new system is expected to be ordered by Signor Mussolini shortly.

The new Chamber will be entirely upon an occupational basis. Only members of trade unions and employers' organisations will have the right to vote, and they will be represented by delegates, not of their own choice, but chosen by the Fascist Grand Council.

The voters will merely be given the privilege of accepting or rejecting the list submitted for their approval.—Reuter.

DEATH OF EMINENT SURGEON

Sir George Makings' War Record

London, Nov. 2.
The death occurred here last night of Sir George Henry Makings, the eminent war-time surgeon.—Reuter.
Sir George Henry Makings, G.C.M.G., K.C.M.G., C.B., LL.D., was consulting surgeon to St. Thomas's Hospital and to the Evelina Hospital for sick children. He was a member of the Council of the British Red-Cross Society and Treasurer of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund. He was also Chairman of the Distribution Committee of the Hospitals Sunday Fund.

After a successful training, Sir George became Consulting Surgeon to the South African Field Force from 1890 to 1900, during which campaign he was mentioned in despatches and awarded a medal with three clasps. He served in the European War from 1914 to 1918, being mentioned three times in despatches and created K.C.M.G. Subsequently he was appointed Chairman of the Committee of Inquiry into the standard of comfort and accommodation in hospitals of

KILMARNOCK BY-ELECTION

NATIONAL LABOUR HOLD SEAT

OPPOSITION VOTE SPLIT

London, Nov. 3.
The result of the second by-election in the Little General Election was declared early this morning at Kilmarnock as follows:

Kenneth Lindsay (Nat. Lab.)	12,577
Rev. James Barr (Lab.)	9,244
John Pollock (Ind. Lab.)	7,575
Sir A. McEwan (Scot. Nat.)	6,938
Nat. Lab. majority	3,653

The result shows no change from the 1921 General Election when Mr. Craigie Aitchison, Lord Advocate in the second Labour Government, won the seat on a National Labour ticket, by a margin of 7,000 votes from Mr. Pollock, who contested the seat as Labour representative.

Mr. Craigie Aitchison was recently elevated to the Scottish Bench, and with Mr. Pollock swinging further to the Left, another official Labour Party candidate entered the field, splitting the anti-Government Labour vote. The National Labour vote was reduced by over 9,200. The total poll was about 1,000 less than in 1921.—Reuter.

INFLATION DEMAND

"FARM GOVERNORS IN WASHINGTON

TENTATIVE PLAN DEVISED

Washington, Nov. 2.
It is announced by the White House that a tentative plan to relieve the farm emergency has been worked out.

The plan was developed as the result of a conference which took place at the White House to-day between President Roosevelt, Mr. Henry C. Wallace, United States Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, the well-known financier, Mr. George Peek, manufacturer, and the Governors of the States of Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Wisconsin.

The Governors urged the fixing of the prices of the major farm commodities, that the farmers be assigned a quota of the products to be sold at fixed price, and that price-fixing be accompanied by quick currency inflation.

A further conference was arranged for 9 a.m. to-morrow (Friday), when it is hoped to complete the plan to be presented to President Roosevelt for approval.—Reuter.

ANOTHER WANG STATEMENT

CHINA HAS ONLY ONE FOREIGN POLICY

Nanking, Nov. 2.

Interviewed by members of the Press to-day Mr. Wang Ching-wei stated that the Chinese Government had only one foreign policy. Any rumours of changes in the Government's foreign policy are entirely out of the question.

The Chinese Government is at present devoting its energy to the suppression of Communists and reconstruction projects. In the meanwhile, the Communist menace in Szechuan is also occupying the serious attention of Government leaders.—Reuter.

JAPANESE TROOP WITHDRAWAL

Peking, Nov. 3.
Colonel Shibayama, military attache of the Japanese Legation, returned here by air yesterday from Changchun.

He brought with him the mission of continuing negotiations for the settlement of the outstanding problems in connection with the retrocession of ex-war zone, such as the establishment of a customs station at Shanghai and the taking over of the passes along the Great Wall from the Japanese. On his arrival, Colonel Shibayama immediately called on General Ho Ying-ching, Chairman of the Peking Military Council, and General Huang Fu, chairman of the Peking Political Council.

Formal conversations are to be held to-day.—Central News.

GREAT WALL STORY DENIED

Peking, Nov. 3.
The Japanese Military Attache, interviewed this morning, denied reports that Japanese troops are withdrawing from the Great Wall. He stated that it had been decided to completely withdraw the Japanese troops from the demilitarised zone.

HOLDING PASSES

The troops will withdraw to Kupelkow and other passes along the Wall, but the Wall will not be given up and the passes will remain in the hands of the Japanese. The Military Attache states that when the present withdrawal is complete, not a single Japanese soldier will remain in the demilitarised zone.—Reuter.

THE MALTA CRISIS

BRITISH OFFICIAL STATEMENT

MINISTERIAL POLICY

London, Nov. 2.

The political crisis in Malta, following the disinclination of the Nationalist Ministry to work in harmony with British policy, is the subject of an official statement.

The Colonial Office has issued the following: "The Governor of Malta has found it necessary to dismiss the Minister, and the Secretary of State for the Colonies being satisfied that a grave emergency has arisen within the meaning of section 41 of Malta constitution and the Letters Patent, the Governor has assumed the powers which in that event are vested in him by the constitution.

For some time past, His Majesty's Government have viewed with increasing concern the policy pursued by the Ministers in Malta.

It will be recalled that the restoration of responsible Government in the summer of 1932 was made subject to certain definite provisions with regard to the language question and particularly to the teaching of languages in the schools.

BRITISH ATTITUDE

These provisions had the full approval of both Houses of Parliament. It was the essence of these provisions that the languages to be used in the public elementary schools should be Maltese and English only, adequate provision being made for the teaching of Italian in the secondary schools.

It has become increasingly apparent that since their accession to office, the Maltese Ministers have embarked upon measures the object of which is, in effect, deliberately to evade this policy.

A further source of anxiety to His Majesty's Government is the manner in which the finances of the island have been administered. It is clear that these finances, which were taken over in a sound condition in 1932, have already been gravely prejudiced.

WARNING ISSUED

In these circumstances, the Governor was authorised to warn the Ministers that the policy which they were deliberately pursuing was contrary to the spirit of constitution and gravely detrimental to the interests of Malta and to make plain to them the consequences which must inevitably follow unless their policy were radically altered.

He subsequently presented them with a detailed list of the measures adopted by them since their accession to office which he regarded as objectionable and which both in the interests of sound administration and as a proof of their compliance with the policy of his Majesty's Government he called upon them to revoke.

DELIBERATE POLICY

Examples are cited as an illustration of the nature and extent of the acts to which His Majesty's Government took exception and the statement proceeds: "There have, moreover, been in ordinary day to day administration, a number of instances indicating that the Ministers had selected few opportunities, however small, of displaying their definite disinclination to work in harmony with the policy of His Majesty's Government.

The cumulative effect of these and similar acts is unmistakable. Ministers have been given an opportunity to amend their policy upon these matters. They have declined to do so and have accordingly been dismissed and the Governor has again assumed the administration of the island.—British Wireless.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

SCORE WITH PIGSKIN!

Novel Parisian Ensemble Given Air of Fantasy
by Trig Leather Accessories

Novel and practical qualities are combined by the use of beige pigskin accessories on a chestnut brown jersey sports suit. The trig little hat, gloves, bag and collar are all of pigskin.

By Jean Patou

Paris.—The details of every dress should be combined in the process of creation so as to be amalgamated therein and constitute a perfectly equilibrated whole. Which is paramount to saying that the question of details is tributary of the dress itself.

The one detail of a woman's clothes where some fantasy is permitted is the accessory, because it can afford to be somewhat independent. Yet the slightest discord must never be allowed to destroy the harmony which must exist between the dress and its accessories. It would impair the elegance of the whole outfit.

To avoid exaggeration in this department, which after all is closely akin to that of "frivolities," one cannot quite demand that each accessory be specially created to complete one special ensemble, though naturally that would be the better formula. It is nevertheless true that when an accessory is created simultaneously with an ensemble, despite its semblance of independence, it is influenced by the general style trend.

An accessory can be somewhat less sober than general fashions are expected to be, but still should always be created with some object in view. The object, more often than not, is to impart to the dress, which needs it, a note of fantasy. It can be achieved in several ways, by means of colour, fabric or form.

To define fantasy or place any limits thereon is somewhat difficult. It is evident, though, that no fantasy must ever attract too much attention, despite the fact that much of the attractiveness of accessories generally is their unexpectedness, which sometimes strikes a novel note while being very simple. The element of surprise they offer constitutes their charm, on condition, of course, that it is never extravagant.

The very simple process, now almost classical, of accessories that all harmonize, is always successful. This means the constitution of a complete set comprising hat, gloves, bag, scarf or belt, a formula which women, conscious of its merits, are adopting more and more. Besides conveying to an ensemble the indispensable note of fantasy, harmonizing accessories always allow an ensemble to retain that character of restrained chic and elegance synonymous with modern elegance.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Feet First!

By Alicia Hart

The shoes you wear affect your health, posture, appearance and disposition. Bear all these points in mind when you set out to buy new fall shoes.

Be sure, first of all, that your feet are in good condition before you visit a shoe store. You can't expect your new shoes to be comfortable if you have corns and callouses. If you have corns, it is best to see a reliable foot doctor.

Callouses can be treated at home if you pay particular attention to a scientific routine. Never cut them. Soak your feet nightly and then rub the calloused places with a piece of pumice. Don't try to remove all the callous the first night. It takes time and patience.

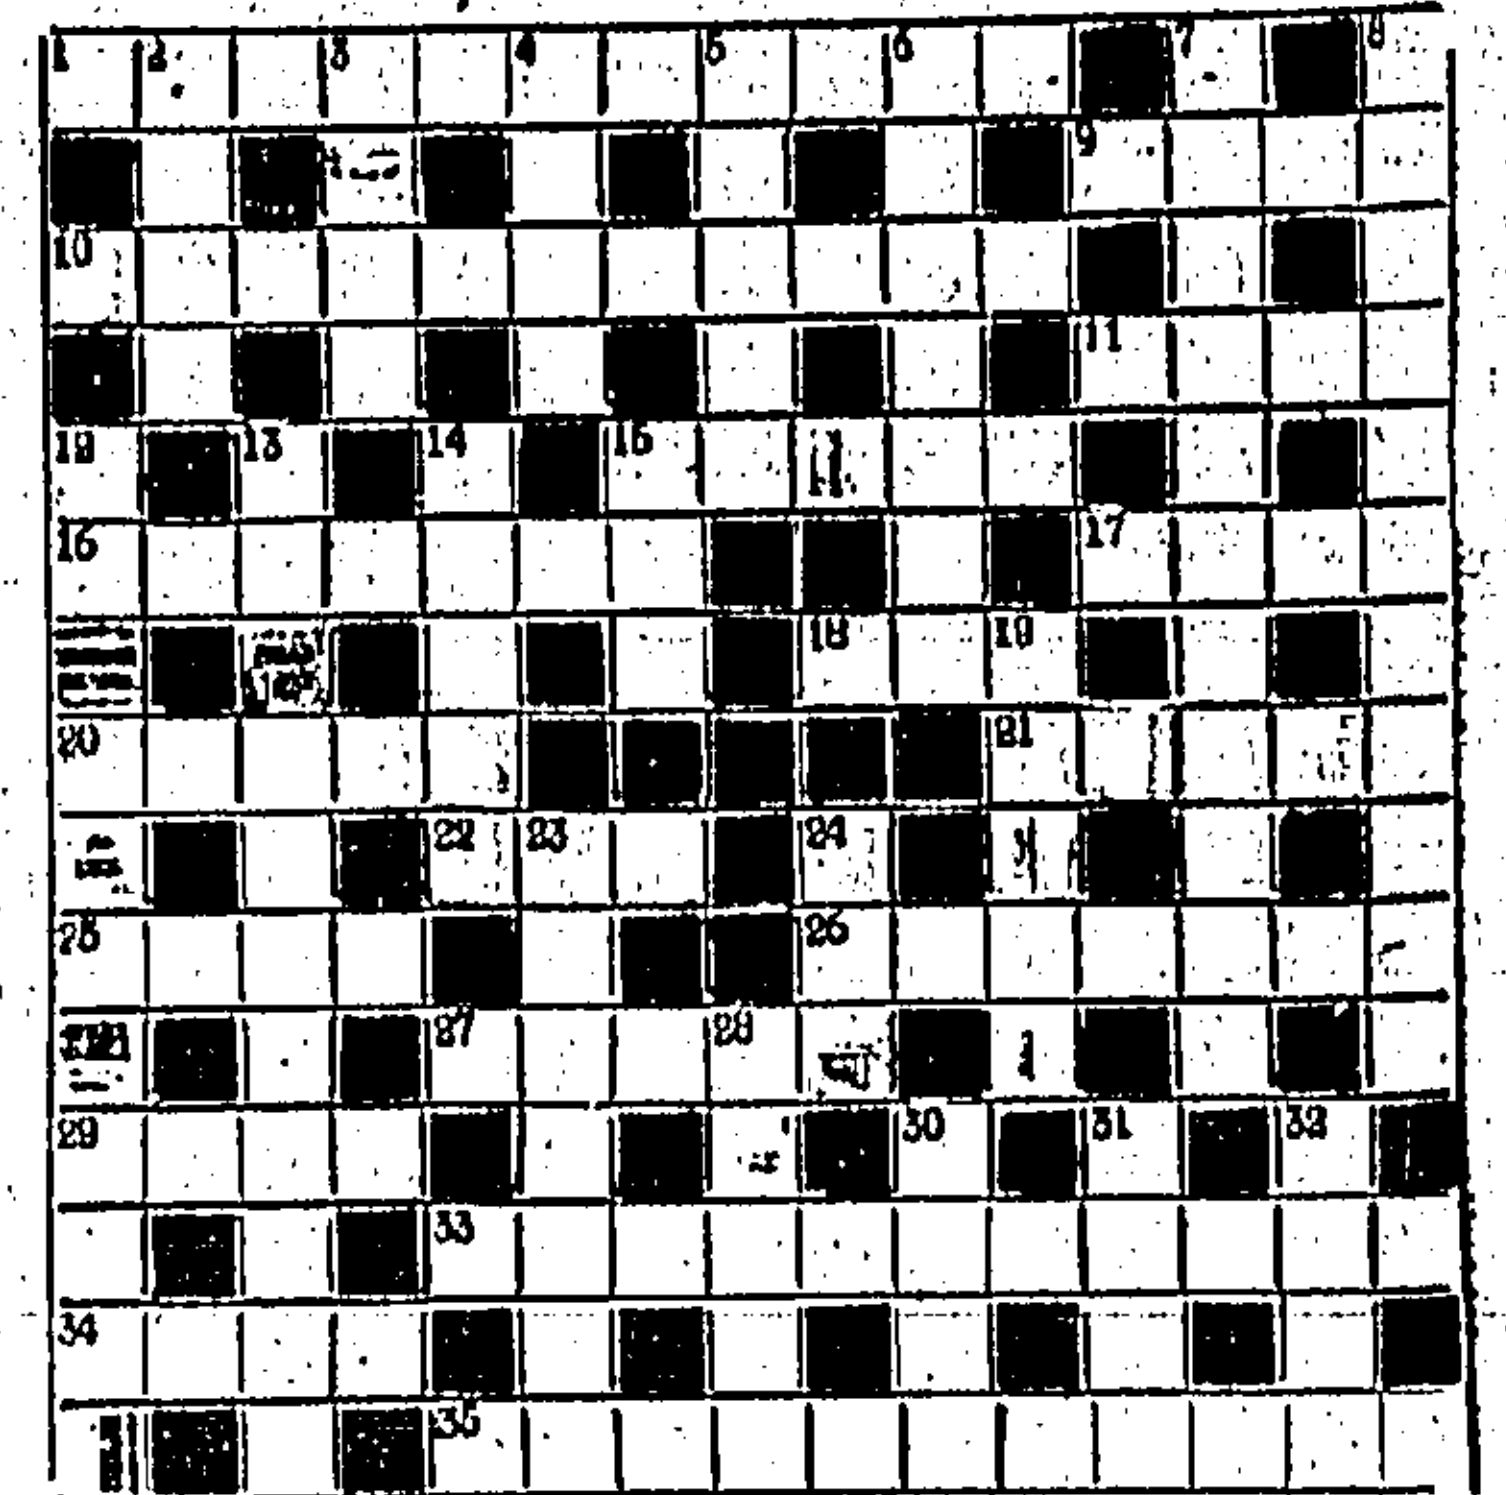

If you cannot get to a doctor to have your corns treated, perhaps corn plasters may afford relief. These protect the corn from the shoe. Removing the source of irritation will sometimes cure the corn.

Wear fresh stockings every day. Always take special pains to dry your feet thoroughly. Especially between the toes. If you notice little callouses or pieces of loose skin between your toes, begin at once to use an antiseptic powder between them after each bath.

A plaid skirt and plain jacket is ideal for a sports outfit. Ann Dvorak wears a red and gray checked skirt and a plain gray jacket, matched by her sandals and beret.

CHAPTER XVI.

"Questions without Answers."

The ray of Leonard's electric torch shot down across the water. It picked out from the shadow of a rock a little spot, some fifty yards away. The spot was the Daisy, with its new occupant.

"Damn!" growled Leonard, fiercely. "Now we're properly—"

A shot spat out. It did not come from the Daisy, but clipped the surface of the water in the direction of the boat. Leonard swung round with a cry.

"Look out!" he shouted.

"It's all right," answered Napoleon. "I fired that shot."

"What!" exclaimed Leonard, staring at him in astonishment.

"Yes—I'm the little Cock Robin," admitted Napoleon, rather shamefacedly, looking at a revolver in his hand. "I don't like the things, but I thought it might come in useful. Do you know, it I hadn't had this in my pocket, I believe I'd have faded away several times. It helps me just to touch it."

"But what on earth did you fire for?" demanded Leonard. "If you meant to kill him—"

"I didn't," protested Napoleon, "merely meant to frighten him. You know, I'm sort of Socialist when it comes to terror. I believe in the sharing principle."

Leonard smiled.

"Well, I dare say it's just as well you've got that thing," he commented, "but be careful how you use it, and for goodness sake, put it away now! You're awaking it as if it were a dead cat! We're not likely to need it for awhile, anyhow," he added grimly. "The only human thing on board besides ourselves is already dead."

"I devoutly hope so," responded Napoleon, as he slipped the revolver back into his pocket. "But I'm not in a mood to take a bet on anything."

There was a short silence, during which Leonard reviewed their position. Suddenly he said: "Let's sit down somewhere and have a smoke. We're likely to be marooned here for several hours, and there's the doubt of a lot to think about."

"Good idea," agreed Napoleon. "I always feel most brainy when I've got a cigarette in my mouth. I'll sit on this knob. You might try that useful lookin' spike over there."

"You know, I'm glad to have you with me, Trucolove," said Leonard, with a laugh. "You're o.k. in a crisis, and your conversation's cheering."

"No, is it?" explained Napoleon. "Tell that to Miss Haines one day, will you? I sometimes think she's doubtful."

They sat down, and a few seconds later two cigarette ends glowed comfortably.

"What an odd picture we must make to the Man in the Moon," observed Leonard, his mind relaxing a little as he puffed. "Here we sit, talking and smoking on a battered old hulk—and down below lies a dead man."

"Yes, it's a funny position," responded Napoleon, scratching his nose thoughtfully. "I ought to be scared stiff, but I'm getting sort of used to it. Here we are, along with a corpse. The ship may be bristling with corpses. Yet—well, here we are!"

"But do we know where we are?" asked Leonard. "Let's try and find out. Have you got a notebook on you? Good! Then jot down these questions, and then we'll search for the answer."

Napoleon fished out his notebook, and studied the first page.

"There are loads of rhymes to 'Haines,'" he said, "but what rhymes with 'Beryl'? All I could think of was ferrule, but the end of a walking-stick isn't exactly poetic. However, business first. Shoot your questions. Number

One?"

"Where is Mr. Fyne?" replied Leonard. "That's the first question, and the most important."

"One. Where is Mr. Fyne?" wrote Napoleon. "What's the answer?"

"For the moment, an absolute blank. I had an idea we'd find him behind that door down below. I told you I heard someone breathing."

"Yes, and what I can't make out is why you didn't try and smash the door open when you were here before."

"I had two good reasons for not doing so, old chap. I had nothing to smash it with. And—well, Miss Haines was with me, and though she's one of the pluckiest girls I've ever come across—"

"Carried unanimously."

"—It didn't seem fair to put her into any more danger. After all, there was no knowing what was behind that door. And, with no boat and a mile to swim to land, we weren't exactly equipped for emergencies."

"By Jove, you weren't," agreed Napoleon. "I see your point. You were quite right. But look here, I say—do you still think it was Mr. Fyne breathing?"

"Let's make that Question Number Two. Who was behind the door?"

"Who was behind the door?" wrote Napoleon. "We might also ask how many more doors are there, and how many more things behind them?" He glanced round uncomfortably. "We'd better keep our eyes skinned, you know, while we are demonstrating our colossal ignorance!"

"Yes, I'm watching," nodded Leonard. "Personally, I don't think any longer that Mr. Fyne was behind the door. I think it was our lunatic—"

"Yes, but in that case, who brought our cheerful corpse upon the scene?" interposed Napoleon.

"Write that down for No. Three. And you can also write half of the answer. A man in a dark blue coat, with a tear in the coat and one button missing, brought the body here. Listen. We can piece a bit of it together. Well-dressed gent. Is pushed over cliff. The person who pushes him over the cliff is presumably some sea-faring man—"

"That's a guess."

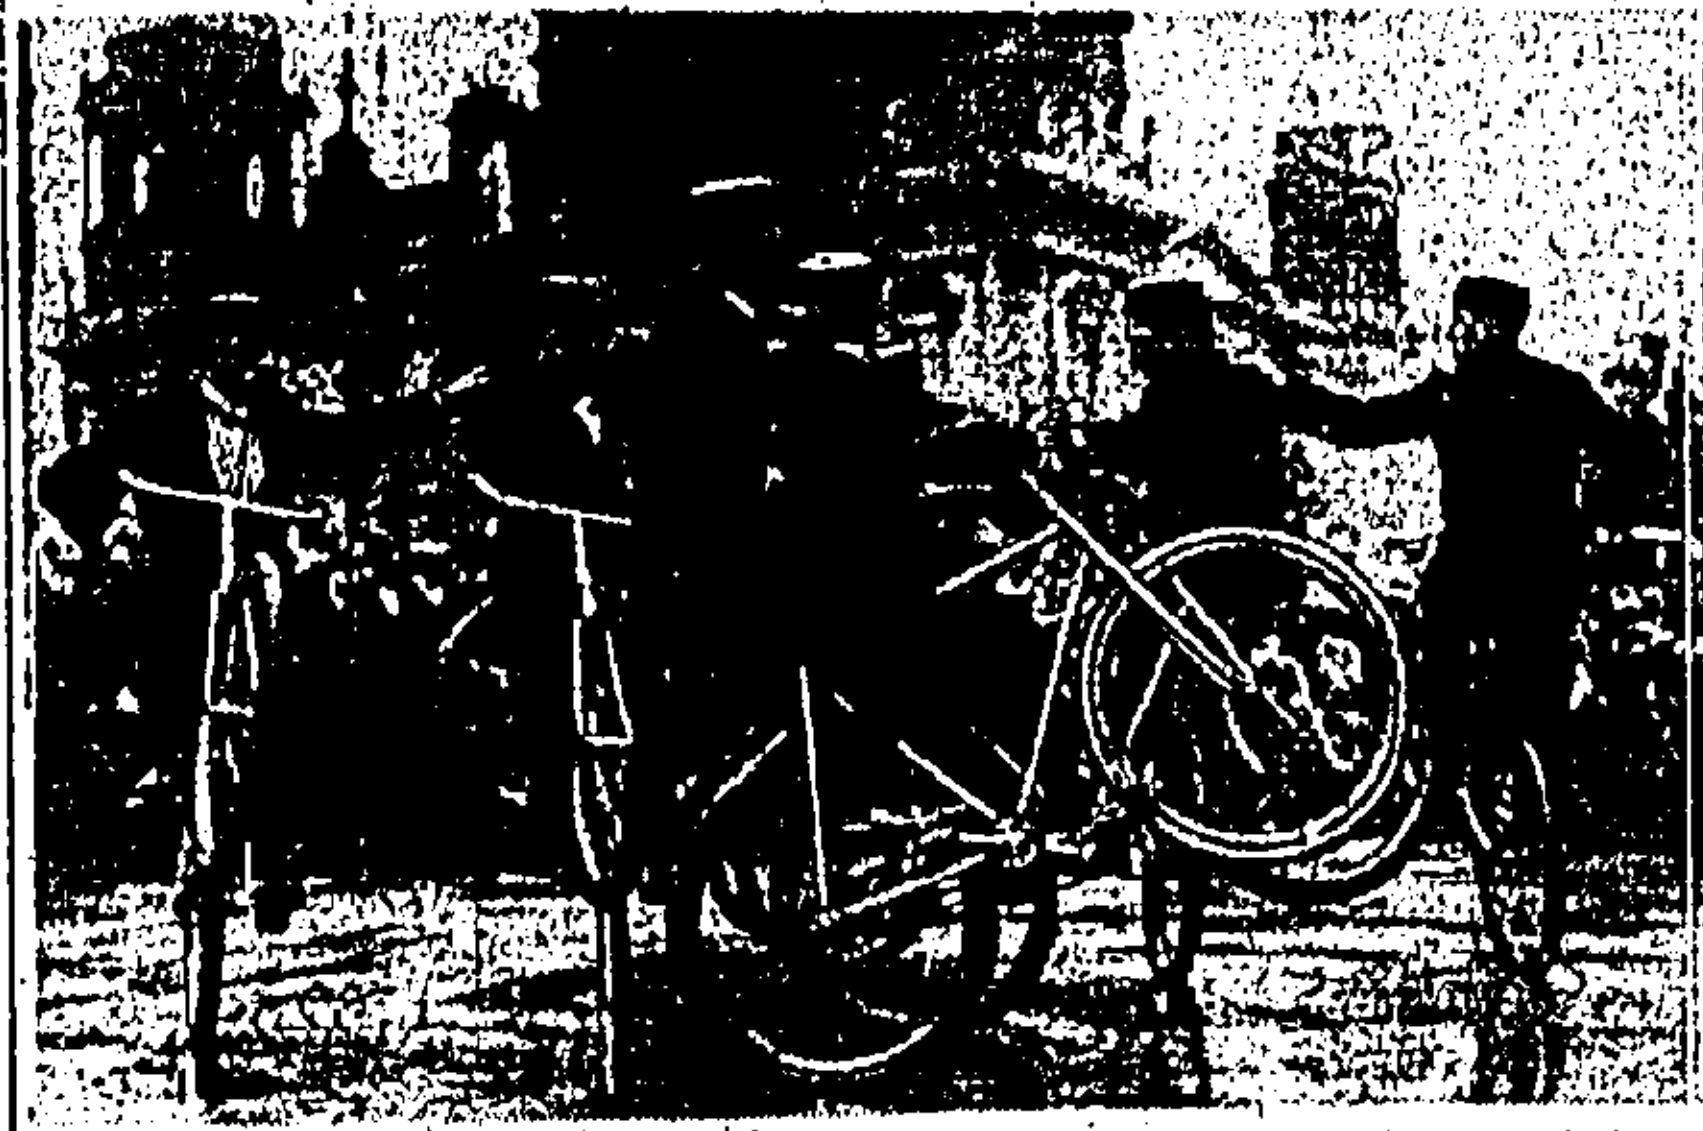

"But I believe a right guess. Yes, I'm almost sure of it, Trucolove."

Napoleon looked at him sharply. "You've got some reason I don't know for saying that!" he challenged.

"Perhaps I have. But we'll leave that for the moment—"

"Why?" persisted Napoleon. "You know, I can't quite size you up even yet. You've dropped into this affair so oddly, and—you don't mind my saying it, do you?—your interest is so damned keen. I think it's frightfully sporting of you, and all that, and I'll bet Miss Fyne's grateful—"

"Then why not simply accept the fact that I'm trying to help Miss Fyne?" suggested Leonard, smiling. "I assure you, I do want to help her. But we're straying from the point, which is that a sea-faring man pushed the well-dressed gent over the cliff. Jim came along, and made things awkward. So the sea-faring man took the first opportunity of hiding the man he had killed in a cave. There he stayed until he found an opportunity to take the body to this wreck in his boat. Or in a boat. It may or may not have been his." (Continued on Page 5.)

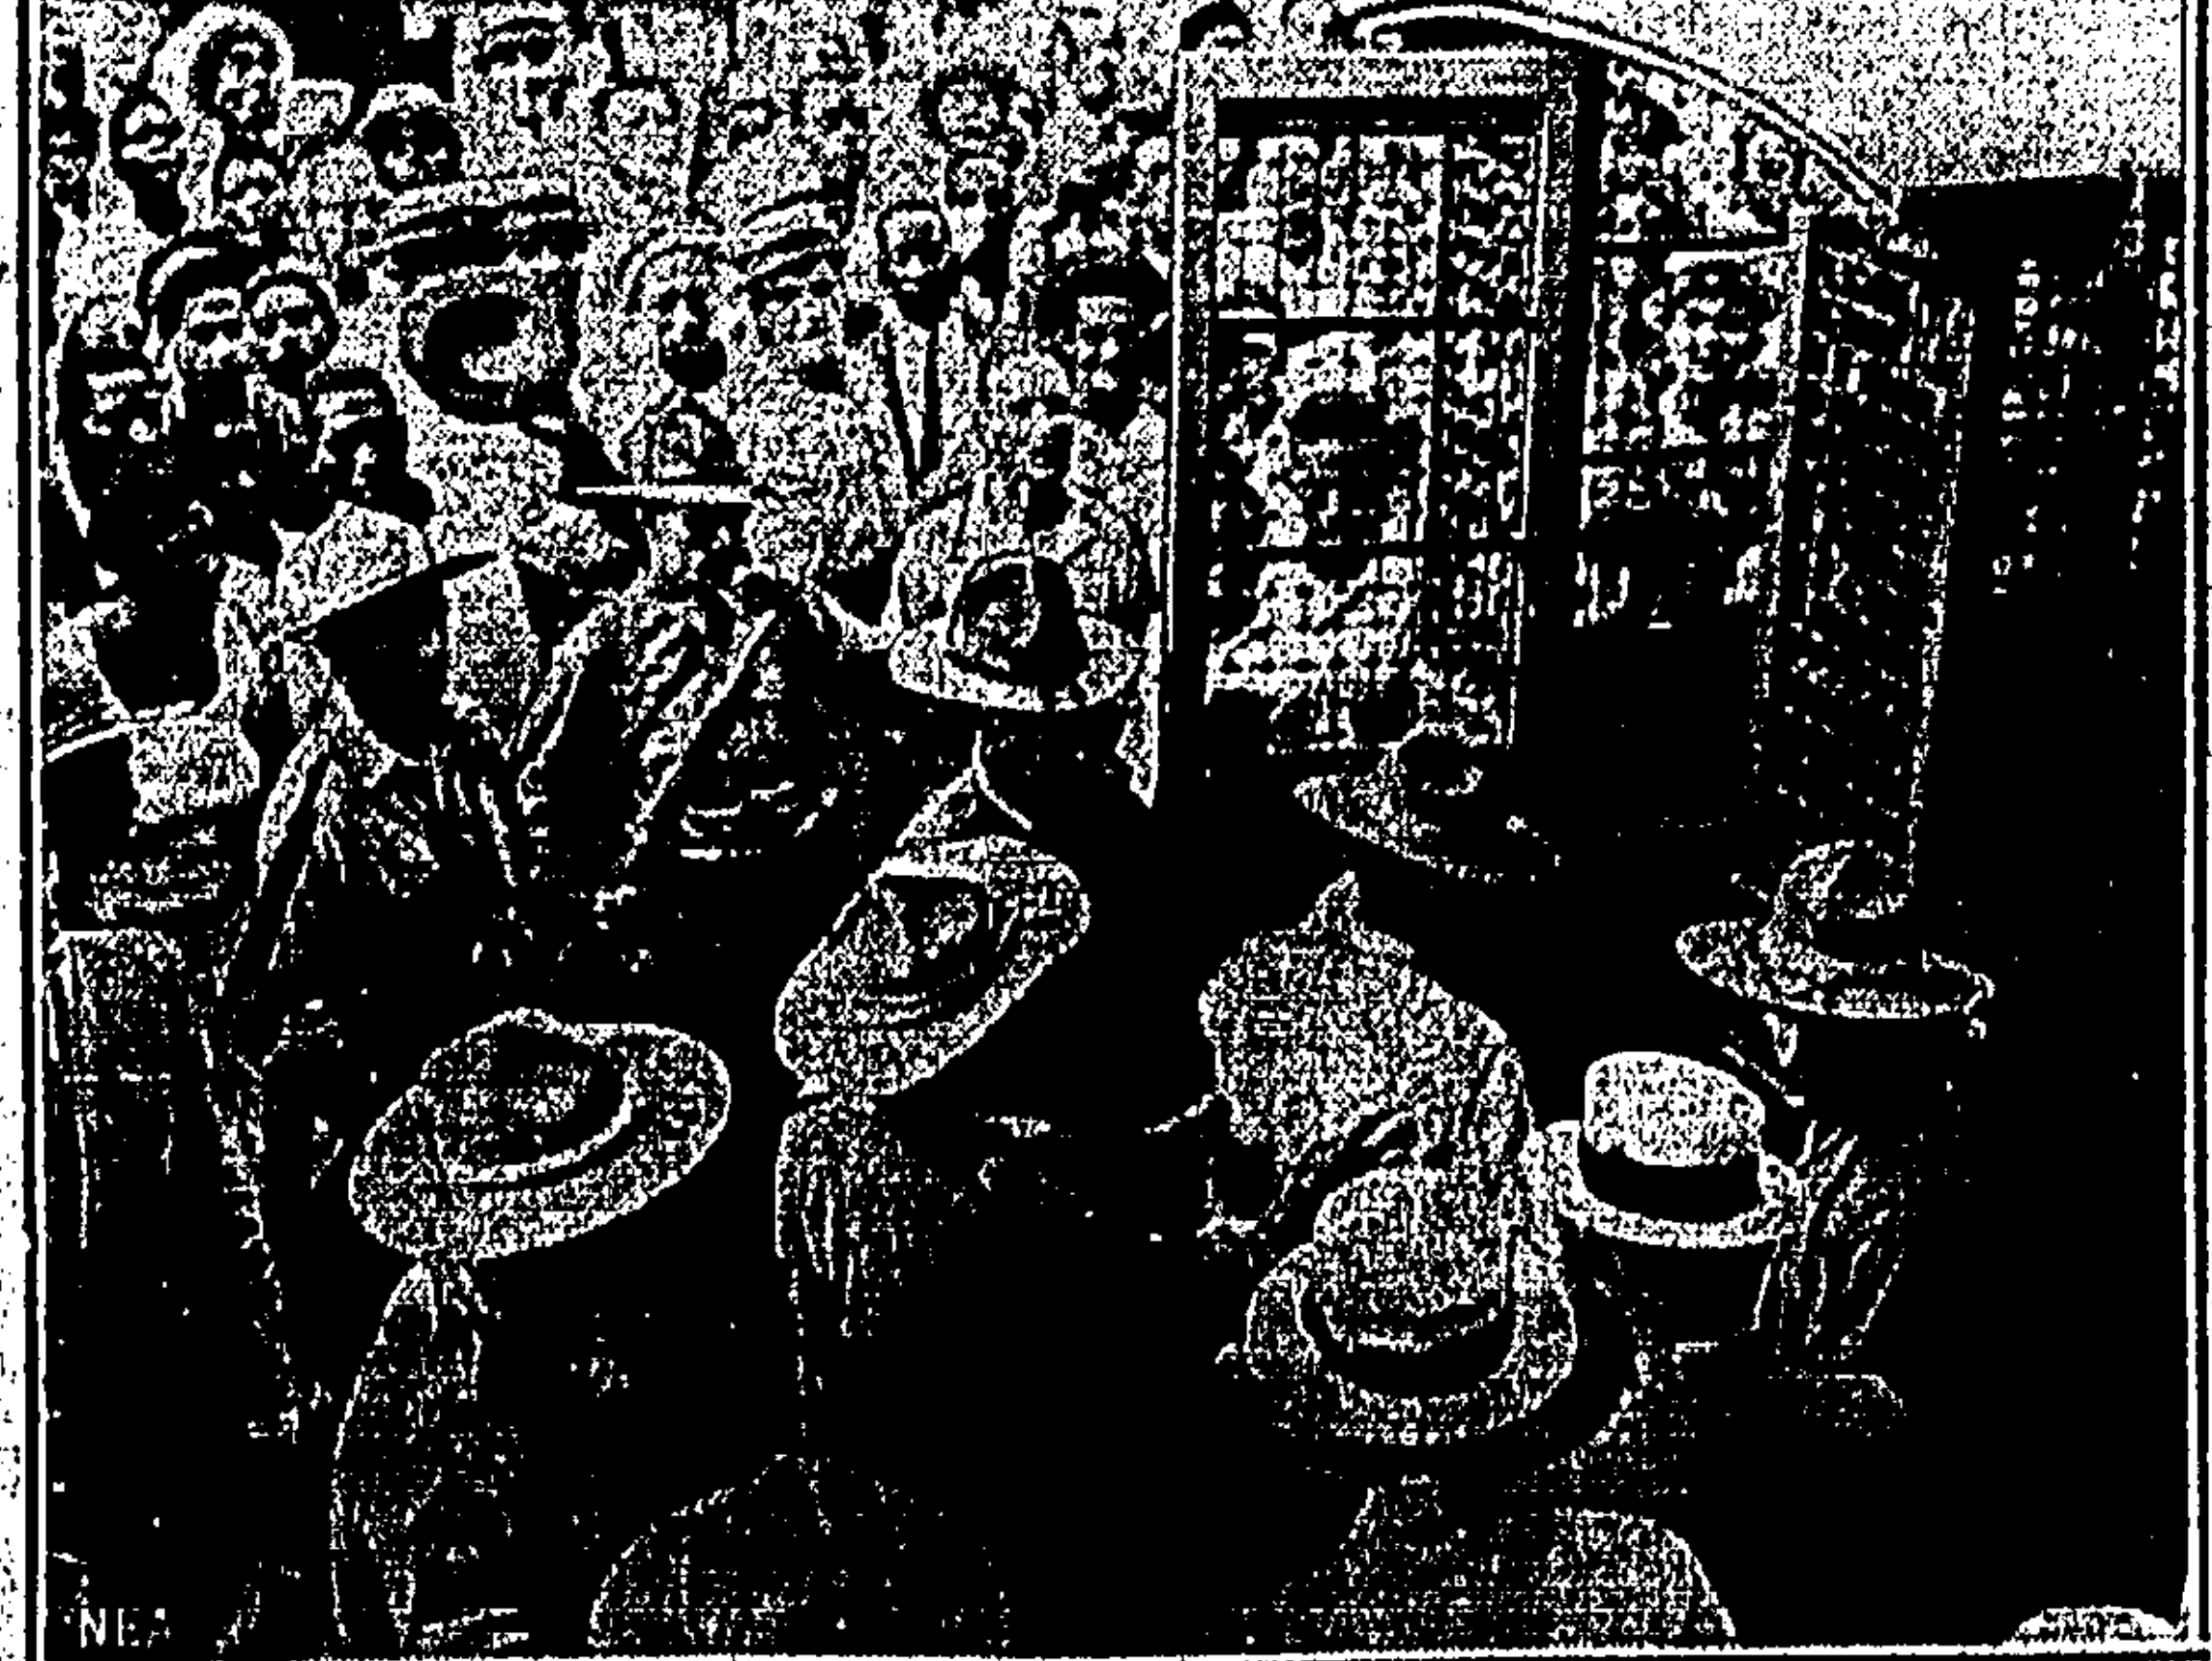

DANCING ON BICYCLES.—In Germany the "Bicyclist's Day" has recently been celebrated and in connexion with this celebration great displays were arranged. Our picture shows some fancy-bicyclists showing a Bicycle Dance at Unten den Linden.

Hundreds of strikers had attempted to rush the gates of a silk dyeing mill at Lodi, N. J., and this was the scene as police turned them back with tear gas bombs and clubs. Pickets are shown as they dropped their placards and fled blindly from the fumes. At least 20 persons were injured. Similar strikes in more than a hundred other dyeing mills brought the manufacture of silk textiles to a standstill in the east, for some 40,000 workers already were on strike from the spinning and weaving mills.

A feminine defender of the now Cuban regime, this girl revolutionist stands guard at a gate to the Cabana fortress jail, which harbors convicted officials of the fallen Machado and De Cespedes governments.

While armed guards held back tearing through a group of counter-revolutionaries—who were arrested in Pinar del Rio and brought to Havana by train—are bundled unceremoniously into a "black Maria" for the trip to jail.

Men who would like to retire at 50, 55 or 60 on £50 a month

Guaranteed income for Life

Under the terms of this simple investment plan you can arrange for a monthly retirement income that will be adequate for your needs. It may be £50. It may be £25, £100, or more; but whatever the amount, you will be interested in this modern way of securing for yourself an income that is guaranteed as long as you live.

In the meantime you are insured. Your family is also protected during the time that you are saving towards this retirement income. Our Life Income Policy designed to provide an income of £50 a month would pay your family £5,000 in cash in case of your prior death. If death should result from accidental cause, your family would be paid £10,000, or double the face amount of the policy.

We do not want anyone to be disappointed. Our Life Income Policy is not offered to men or women over 55. We have other policies and annuity contracts more suitable to their needs nor is this policy available to men in poor health or hazardous occupations. It is distinctly a selective contract, and those who obtain it get full advantage of this selection.

How much does it cost? Convenient annual premium deposits take care of everything. Just how large or how small these deposits are, depends of course, on your present age and the amount of retirement income you will choose.

But remember, the Life Income Policy should not be thought of as an expense. It is a sound investment, backed by one of the strongest Life Insurance Companies in the world.

MONTH DAY

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

"Probably not," observed Napoleon. "We're all thieves."

"Anyway, the seafaring man brought the body here and, for some reason we don't know, conveyed it to the room behind our door. Question Four, who is the seafaring man? Blank. Question Five, What did the seafaring man do after depositing the body in the room where we assume the lunatic was? Did they meet? He frowned, and shook his head. "It's a tangle. Question Six, How did the lunatic come on board?"

"Perhaps the seafaring man brought him."

"I think that's very possible. But why did he bring him on board? Likewise how? And why was the lunatic kept a prisoner here?"

"An where is he going now he's a prisoner here no longer?" interposed Napoleon. "I confess, that question rather intrigues me!" "What makes you say that?" "Well," said Napoleon, staring contemplatively ahead of him. "Our lunatic may come back again. And he may bring somebody with him."

"The seafaring man!"

"Cheers!"

"Well—I'm not sure that I'd mind," remarked Leonard, slowly. "I'm pretty keen to meet that fellow, because he's the key to the whole puzzle. But we've not finished. Let's take our mind off the wreck for a moment. There are mysteries at the Mermoid Hotel itself."

"Rather," acquiesced Napoleon. "Question. Seven-hundred-and-eight-two, What the devil is Luigi up to?"

"Yes, Luigi's a wrong 'un," observed Leonard, gravely. "I'm not a bit happy about Luigi. He lied about his predecessor, Anderson. He tried to cover up traces that might reveal clues to Anderson's accident. For some reason or other, Luigi wanted the job of waiter at the Mermoid Hotel—it became acutely necessary after Mr. Eyns's disappearance. Now I don't suppose Luigi meant Anderson's accident to be fatal, or over expected it to be. But I'm quite convinced that Luigi caused that accident. And he must have had a pretty big reason."

Napoleon snapped his teeth. "I say, you may think I'm a pretty good idiot," he said, "and I know I am a bit of a fool. But this is a pretty dirty business, Sefton, and you can count on me for what my silly best is worth. Anderson was quite a decent chap. If, as you say, Luigi's killed him, I say, can you be a murderer, if the fellow doesn't die at once?"

"You are a murderer, technically, if the fellow dies within a year and one day," replied Leonard. "Anderson died in under a week."

"And you expect me to smile at Luigi when he brings me my fried egg to-morrow morning?" exclaimed Napoleon. "My hat! I say—could he have had a hand in killing the other fellow, too—the chap down below here?"

Leonard shook his head. "I don't think so—though Luigi was certainly most anxious to hide the fact that they had converse together. Passing from Luigi, we come to Mr. Gridale. Question One-thousand-and-eight, Why did Mr. Gridale pretend he was going to bed when, in fact, he did not go to bed? Why did he try to hear what you and I were talking about in my bedroom?"

"And why did he track us afterwards to the beach?" added Napoleon.

"I don't think he did track us to the beach," replied Leonard, slowly.

"Oh, of course. I'd forgotten. You've got some notion that it was somebody else. Don't you think, darling, as we're getting to know each other so much better, you might now tell me?"

"Later, perhaps."

"Don't prevaricate! You forget, I'm armed."

Napoleon brought out his revolver, with a grin.

"But so am I," responded Leonard, grinning also; and he, too, brought out a revolver.

"Well, I'm blown," murmured Napoleon, disappointedly. "A lot of good it is, me trying to give you best! So you've got one, too?"

"I have. You're not the only one to whom they bring a bit of comfort."

"Then it's no good by threatening to shoot you if you won't tell me who you think it was who tracked us to the beach, and poked his nose into the cave?"

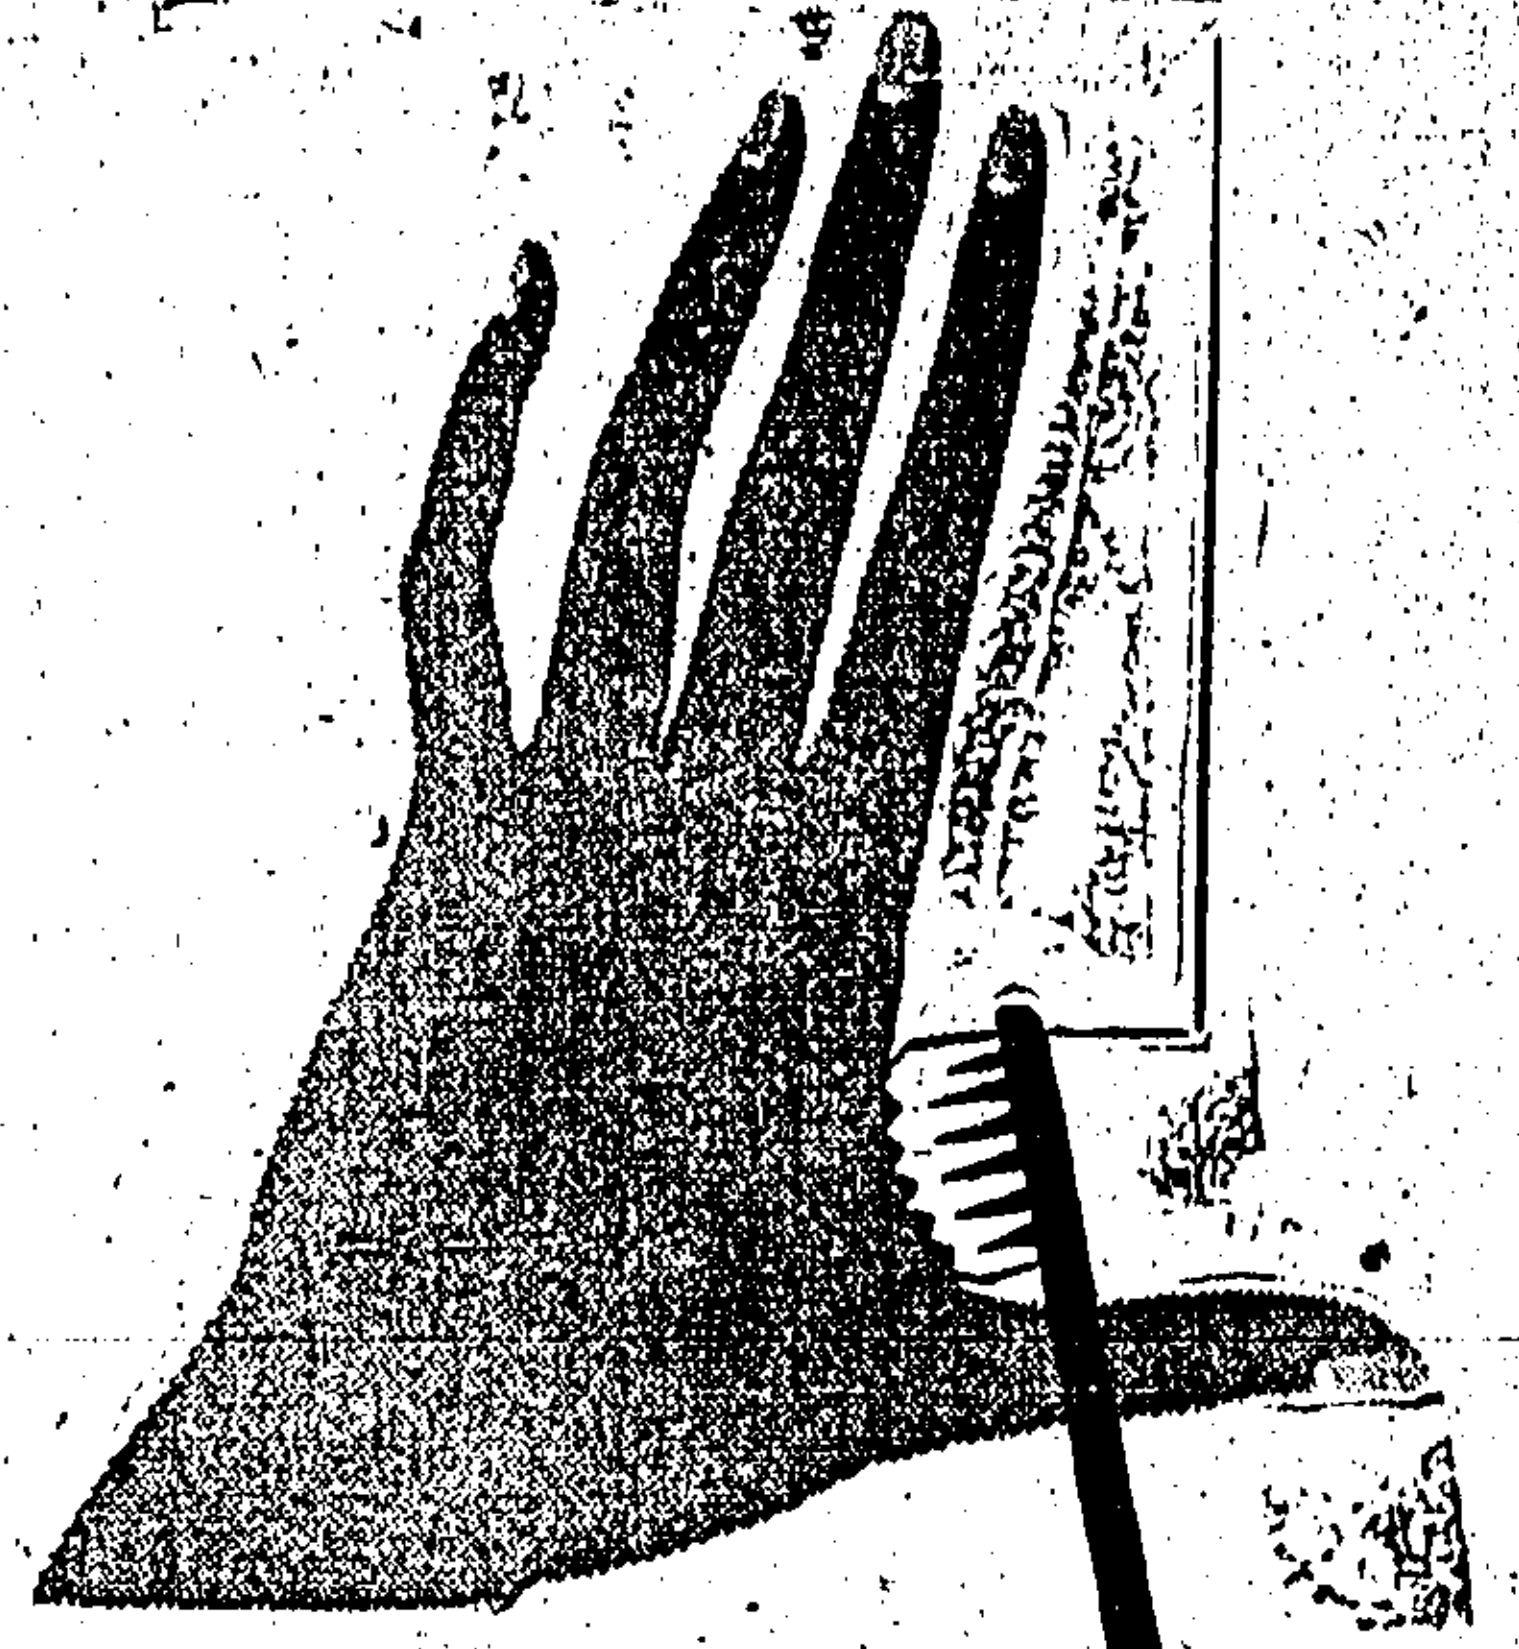

"Not a bit of good," returned Leonard, after a pause. "But—since we really are becoming such close friends—perhaps I ought to tell you anyhow, after all."

"Splendid!" cried Napoleon. "Who?"

"I'm not at all sure that it's splendid," answered Leonard. "I'm ready to wager my last farthing that it was Miss Haines's brother, Guy."

WAR DEBT NEGOTIATIONS UNCERTAINTY

TALK OF TERMINATION RUMOURS AND REPORTS OF BRITISH OFFERS 25 PER CENT. PAYMENT

The result of the war debt talks between the British representatives and President Roosevelt on Wednesday evening are not known, but there had been rumours of a possible suspension of negotiations which the conference for the time being dispelled.

The New York Times correspondent reported that Britain had offered to make a 25 per cent. payment, and that the United States were demanding 75 per cent.

The Herald-Tribune stated that an informal offer of 10 per cent. of the total war debt payable in annuities was made on Monday indirectly by the British representatives who are in the United States discussing the British war debt.

The paper said that the offer was turned down.

It is denied, however, that an impasse has been reached and it is stated that the negotiations are likely to continue.

The discussions have now narrowed down to the question of whether there shall be a temporary arrangement such as a further token payment, like the small silver payment made in June, instead of the December instalment.

ELEMENT OF UNCERTAINTY.

The British authorities are now reported to feel that the present time is not propitious for a permanent settlement of the question, owing to the uncertainty prevailing at present concerning the future of the dollar and also the possibility that American tariff walls may have to be raised in order to prevent foreign imports produced at lower labour costs undercutting American manufacturers. It is pointed out that the costs to the latter have increased through the Recovery Administration codes shorter hours and higher wages.

Reuters American Service.

Hasas says that it is expected that the President will adjourn the discussion on the debt problem for an undetermined period.

POSTPONEMENT TALK.

Well-informed quarters believe that President Roosevelt is resolved to postpone the debt negotiations until the fate of the national recovery programme becomes more certain and the question of Russian debts is discussed with M. Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Commissar.

The New York Times says the British delegation sticks to its idea of offering a 25 per cent. payment amounting to 25 per cent. of the total of the British debt, while the Americans demand that the 75 per cent. of the total. It is generally believed in Washington that on December 15, Great Britain will effect an "amicable" payment to show that she recognizes the validity of existing war debts.

CONSULAR SERVICE SCHOLARSHIP

SHANGHAI YOUTH'S SUCCESS

The Association of British Chambers of Commerce announce that on the advice of their Advisory Committee, consisting of representatives of the Association and of the Foreign Office, they have unanimously awarded the ninth scholarship of £40 per year for four years under the Consular Service Scholarship scheme to Master Alexander Blackburn, son of Mr. A. D. Blackburn, who is His Majesty's Consul at Shanghai. Master Blackburn is proceeding to Cheltenham College.

This scholarship fund was raised from contributions received throughout Chambers of Commerce and elsewhere, and was founded to provide financial help to members of the British Commercial, Diplomatic, Consular and Trade Commission Services in connection with the education of their sons. Master Blackburn will hold the ninth scholarship under this scheme.

SECRECY IN GOLD PURCHASES

BUYING TO BEGIN

Washington, Nov. 2.

It is announced that foreign gold will be purchased both here and abroad.

The amounts bought and the prices paid will be held secret although the aggregate dealings will be announced periodically.

The foreign purchases will probably be made by the foreign branches of Federal Reserve Member Banks, payment being made by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in Reconstruction Finance Corporation Notes.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank is entrusted with all the details of the foreign purchases. It was also announced today that the R.F.C. up to last night had purchased 66,000 ounces of new United States gold costing $2,100,000.—Reuters.

SILVER RUMOURS.

New York, Nov. 2. Rumours regarding the re-monetisation of silver were again heard and the price of silver responded with a 34 point rise.

Business has found great difficulty in operating under the supervision of the government with the NRA. Higher operating costs and restricted competition have tended to cut profits rather materially. Labour, above any other single group, has been favoured by the Administration in its attempts to bring America out of the depression. Whereas this action did tend to increase general purchasing power it most certainly did cut industrial earnings. In former times—profits came first then wages—now the position is reversed.

INDUSTRY'S OPENING.

General Johnson's statement that the government intended to give industry its head rather than to seek to further control it would seem to be an admission. One that the Administration cannot clamp down harder without upsetting that apple cart and two—that Labour has grabbed the bit in its teeth and must be slowed up.

The feeling about this statement is rather uncertain. Some feel that industry may now go ahead

DIESEL ENGINED BUSES.

112 WORKING IN LONDON

London, Oct. 10.

The L.G.O.C. (now incorporated in the London Passenger Transport Board) has 112 diesel engine buses running regularly in London.

This was one of the facts mentioned by Mr. W. H. Goddard, in a paper on "The modern high speed Diesel engine and its place in road transport," read today at a meeting of the Institution of Petroleum Technologists.

And London, he added, was "possibly one of the most difficult towns in the world as far as police and traffic restrictions are concerned."

"I venture to say that not one passenger in 500 realises that they are anything different from the usual petrol-engined buses."

HIGH SPEED DIESEL.

Bearing in mind what had been achieved in three years or so, he thought that the future of the high-speed diesel must be brilliant.

"The high thermal efficiency, the extraordinary torque range, simplicity, ease of starting, elimination of magnets and carburettors, low maintenance costs due to governed maximum speed, freedom from the danger of fire both in garages and on the road, can only have one result—its general acceptance and the gradual elimination of the petrol engine," he said. "It is only yet in its infancy, but this infancy is a very healthy one. It will come to perfection in far less time than was the case with the petrol engine, especially if the petrol engine lend a willing hand on the fuel side; we need this co-operation."

more or less naturally and make money, others feel that it is a prelude to a series of new strikes.

COMMODITIES HIGHER.

Commodities were all higher in today's markets and stocks fractionally so. On the other hand all markets did not respond as much as had been expected to the stimulus which is usually furnished by a weaker dollar, a higher domestic gold price. The news that purchases of foreign gold were to begin immediately had little effect.

Until the present, statements by the Administration have had a sizeable effect on the action of the market. To-day action rather than words is what the market apparently requires.—Per Swain, Culbertson and Fritz.

CASTLE PEAK MOTOR SMASH

DRIVER FINED $50

TWO DIFFERENT VERSIONS

A collision between two cars on the Castle Peak Road on October 10 had a sequel at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when A. C. Johnstone, of Messrs. Dodwell and Co., was summoned before Mr. Wynne-Jones for having driven his car in dangerous manner.

Mr. A. Cole, Secretary to the Hon. Inspector General of Police, said he was sitting besides his brother who was driving his car when the accident occurred. They were returning to Kowloon from Castle Peak, and when near the 16 Mile Stone, they saw defendant's car coming round the corner at a speed which he estimated at between 30 and 35 miles an hour. His car was proceeding at between 20 and 25 miles.

Witness alleged that defendant was going at an excessive speed and was not on his proper side of the road. It seemed to him that on seeing the approaching car, defendant swerved to the left, and in doing so his car skidded and hit the other, carrying off the rear bumper and damaging the off-side rear wheel mudguard.

HOW MUCH IS THAT?

Following witness' car was another one driven by Mr. B. H. C. Hallows, of the P. W. D. Mr. Hallows had also been to Castle Peak and was returning to Kowloon at the same time, being some 30 or 40 yards behind.

After the accident, witness' car stopped and defendant also stopped his car about 50 or 60 yards behind. They met in the middle of the road and defendant's first words were "How much is that?" Witness alleged that defendant later again offered to pay for the damage to the car.

Questioned by defendant, Mr. Cole denied that his car was on the wrong side of the road.

Evidence was given by Mr. Hallows to the effect that he was following Mr. Cole's car all the way from Castle Peak, being about 30 or 40 yards behind. When the accident occurred, it seemed to him that Mr. Cole was proceeding at a speed of between 20 and 25 miles an hour. As he was approaching a corner, witness saw another car rounding the bend at an excessive speed. He reckoned it to be between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

REPORT LIKE A GUN.

The oncoming car was going so fast that it could not negotiate the corner on its own side of the road, and struck Mr. Cole's car, the rear bumper of which was torn off with a report like that of a gun.

Mr. C.W.L. Cole, of Messrs. Shewan Tomes and Co., who was driving the car at the time, gave corroborative evidence.

Defendant stated in the witness box that he took the bend at a speed of between 25 and 30 miles an hour. Nearing the bend where the accident occurred, he saw Mr. Cole's car coming from the opposite direction and saw that it was slightly over the centre of the road. He estimated that Mr. Cole's off side wheel was approximately eight inches over the centre, and this was confirmed when he took measurements after the accident.

Mr. L. Purvis, who was with defendant in the car, corroborated this evidence.

The Magistrate remarked that the case again showed how difficult it was to rely on the evidence given by the occupants of two cars involved in an accident. In this case, they had the evidence of an outside witness, Mr. Hallows, who was in a better position to say what had happened. He had come to Court to say that defendant was on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred, and he must accept that statement. He would therefore convict the defendant.

THEY TAKE MORE RISKS.

Defendant—I have been driving for 18 years and have never had a conviction. I also hold a London Omnibus Licence.

The Magistrate—I have no doubt you have and that you are a very good driver. It is usually the good drivers who take more chances than others, and I think that's what happened in this case. A fine of $50 was imposed.

The New Daily Double System

WILL OPERATE TO-MORROW

The popularity of the Hongkong Jockey Club's "Daily Double" having been established, to-morrow's meeting will see the introduction of some new features in practical application of the system.

Up to the present the method has been for punters to write their selections on a ticket, post it in a box, and then suffer a rather trying experience in collecting their winnings.

This is to be done away with, a much simpler system having been evolved.

THE NEW METHOD.

Tickets will be on sale at the commencement of the Pari-Mutuel Betting on the first of the selected races as before, but when the starters are exhibited on the second of the selected races, instead of the successful bettor writing his selection on both halves of the ticket and posting one half in the daily double box, he must exchange the winning ticket for a ticket on the pony he wishes to back in the second of the selected races to complete the Double. Punters will be further assisted by the attendance of clerks, who will be available to exchange winning tickets on the first of the selected races for a ticket on any pony in the second of the chosen races at the Daily Double counters.

PROOF OF WINNING.

An exchanged ticket on any pony in the second of the selected events will be proof that the holder has backed the winning pony on the first half of the double.

It should also be borne in mind that the betting will close on the ordinary Pari-Mutuel betting.

This is another step forward in the Jockey Club's task of making their race meetings attractive and enjoyable. That it will serve for smoother and happier negotiations in the participation of the Daily Double is obvious, and whatever popularity this feature has hitherto enjoyed can be expected to be greatly increased as a result of this new and highly commendable system.

THE CARD

EIGHT EVENTS TO BE DECIDED

Here is the programme for the 12th Extra Race Meeting which starts at 2 p.m. to-morrow.

Race 1, 2 p.m.—Shek-O Handicap, 1 Mile.
Race 2, 2.30 p.m.—Freemantle St. Leger, 1½ Miles.
Race 3, 3 p.m.—Castle Peak Handicap, Five Furlongs.

Race 5, 4 p.m.—Fanning Handicap, Six Furlongs.
Race 6, 4.30 p.m.—Shum Chun Handicap, 1 Mile.
Race 7, 5 p.m.—Sub-Griffin St. Leger, 1½ Miles.
Race 8, 5.30 p.m.—Taipei Handicap, Five Furlongs.

The Daily Double selected races are the Castle Peak Handicap and the Sub-Griffin St. Leger. The band of the 1st Battalion South Wales Borderers will be in attendance and by permission of Lt.-Col. G. T. Raikes will play a programme of popular music.

And First Three Selections In Every Event at the Valley To-morrow

HONGKONG Autumn Classics—the Hongkong, Freemantle and Sub-Griffin St. Legers—are the big attraction in to-morrow's racing programme at the Happy Valley. And here are my selected winners:

Hongkong St. Leger Trentbridge
Freemantle St. Leger Night Star
Sub-Griffin St. Leger Warrington

BELOW will also be found my analyses of the afternoon's card, together with three selections for each event.

THE unhappiest news of the week was made known yesterday, when it was announced that Golden Dragon, one of the entries for the Sub-Griffin St. Leger went lame in his final gallop on Wednesday morning, and that not only will he be a non-starter in this event, but will not be seen on the track again this season.

NIGHT STAR

LEGER DAY

PUNTERS WILL BE EN FETE

NIGHT STAR MUST WIN

(By "Captain Foster")

To-morrow is Hongkong Leger's Day, and speculation is rife as to whom will win the Sub-Griffins classic, which, in my opinion is a very open race. Warrington is my fancy, although De Minimus will have a large following.

Trentbridge should win the Hongkong St. Leger, and Night Star appears to be the only genuine stayer for the Freemantle St. Leger.

Golden Dragon unfortunately went lame after his gallop last Wednesday. He was much fancied and would have I think finished amongst the placed ponies. With the exception of the Shek-O Handicap, which will result in a runaway victory for Diana Bay, the remaining three races should produce good finishes.

Shek-O Handicap

Blue Star and Cossack's Beauty will, I fear, be outclassed. Diana Bay will win in a canter as she is known to be in fine fettle. Sadko on his last running cannot be seriously considered for second place, and I think both Dynast's candidates will follow the mare home. This is how I expect them to finish:

- 1 Diana Bay
- 2 King's Justice
- 3 Hetman

Freemantle St. Leger

Here we shall also see a tame finish, and Night Star will win by whatever margin Mr. Pan desires. City of Brisbane should fill the second position, and it will not surprise me to see Rosy Morn amongst the placed ponies. She is known to be well, but the distance may find her weakness. I cannot see Fortia with the leaders at the finish. She is—on past performances—very fast for short distances, but in a field consisting chiefly of non-stayers an upset might easily occur. This is the likely order at the finishing post:

- 1 Night Star
- 2 City of Brisbane
- 3 Rosy Morn

Castle Peak Handicap

This should be a well contested race with the issue in doubt until the last stride. The Handicap has done his work well and it will not be easy to pick the winner with any degree of certainty. In a short race like this the start means everything, but I think we shall see King's Bounty, Flying Tourist, The Tiger and Valorous fighting it out at the finish. Of the four I fancy King's Bounty the best of all.

The Tiger is going great guns at the moment and may very easily win. He put up a rattling good gallop with Mr. Frost up the other morning, the time he took to negotiate the mile being 2.09.

Valorous is in good hard condition and on Wednesday morning he covered six furlongs in 1.32 3/5, but his finishing quarter was poor—37 secs. all out. He is slow at the gate but if he should get off well I think he will be concerned with the finish.

Flying Tourist has done everything that has been asked of him recently, but I really cannot see him winning. Navy Hall I gather will be a non-starter, otherwise I would have given him pride of place. Don, will I think, find the distance too short for him and this remark also applies to Pride of Tsingtao. The latter pony has vastly im-

- 3 Valorous

Hongkong St. Leger

A small but selected field will face the barrier for this Classic. Trentbridge is going strongly and his gallop last Wednesday of a mile in 2.15, with the last half in one minute and last quarter in 29 seconds, was most impressive. He should account for this race and will be followed home by Charming Star and Mayflower. The distance, I think, will be too far for Cossack's Beauty to have any say with the finish. I anticipate the following order of finish.

- 1 Trentbridge
- 2 Charming Star
- 3 Mayflower

Fanning Handicap

A little luck will be required in finding the winner of this event as there are at least half a dozen ponies that have equal chances. They may past the winning post in the following order:

WARRINGTON

Grey and Dairen, both good ponies for the distance. No Fear has credentials and might easily upset the apple cart. Now's The Time has disappointed so often, but I hesitate to leave him entirely out of the hunt.

I understand Mr. Frost will have the mount and the change of jockeys may prove beneficial, indicating as the name denotes, Now's The Time to have your fluster. Perhaps it may be as well to take a sporting chance on him and if successful, the return will be profitable. Likely Result:

- 1 Jingle
- 2 Iron Grey
- 3 Now's The Time

Shumchun Handicap

Mr. P. Botelho will have the handling of Brechin and I think the combination will prove successful. Gold Key is quietly fancied and Mike should also be considered. Mon Taisman I fear will be outclassed.

- 1 Brechin
- 2 Mike
- 3 Gold Key

Sub-Griffin St. Leger

This is a very open race. Warrington has been going well and is my first choice. De Minimus must be concerned at the finish. Golden Dragon had an exceedingly good chance of annexing this race, and race-goers will be sorry to hear that he lamed himself after the final gallop last Wednesday morning.

He will not be seen on the course for the remainder of the season. Burgomaster won impressively the last time out and I make him a genuine stayer. King Salmon is shaping well and cannot be left out in one's calculation. I am not keen on Partnership as I think the distance is beyond him. Vigilance will be piloted by Mr. Shuen and may easily spring a surprise. They may past the winning post in the following order:

- 1 Warrington
- 2 Vigilance
- 3 De Minimus

Taipei Handicap

We should witness a close finish in this scurry. Wemby Stag will be there or thereabouts. Festival Eve and Stickypast have also great speed and we cannot ignore Cavi and Helter Skelter. I feel sure that these six ponies among them will fill the three positions but the puzzle is in which order? The start again will prove the deciding factor but assuming they all get off well I would be inclined to place them in this order:

- 1 Wemby Stag
- 2 Stickypast
- 3 Helter Skelter

The Double

We certainly cannot put on our Betting Boots to-morrow. The Double is very open especially for the first leg where I would be inclined to back King's Bounty, The Tiger, Valorous and Flying Tourist, and Warrington for the second. If another is required for the latter I would suggest a chance on Vigilance.

WHEN BRONZINO NEARLY WON

COLOMBO & THE 1934 CLASSICS

(By "Captain Foster")

In his book "Man and Horses I have known" the Hon. George Lambton—the trainer of Swynford—the horse which beat Bronzino, in the 1910 St. Leger—says:

Having an idea that Lemberg was not a great stayer I told Frank Wotton to make the pace as hot as he could from the start. In the race he had the field on the stretch in the first furlong. Coming to the Red House, Danny moved up on Lemberg, but when ever he got to Swynford's quarters the latter put in some of his great big strides and went away again.

Two furlongs from home, Maher was following dead in his tracks. Although he was sitting still, so well did I know Danny's riding, that I was certain his horse was tiring and I said to Bob Vyner, who was beside me in the stand "I've got him, we should win."

Nearly Caught

Frank Wootton was but a boy at the time, riding 7 st. 4 lb. and by this time he was a passenger on Swynford, who was hanging away on the rails, where the Yorkshire crowd was shouting, and waving their race cards according to their usual custom. There was plenty of room for Lemberg to come up on the inside had he been good enough but he was not—his bolt was shot.

As it was, Bronzino a horse of Mr. Jimmy Rothschild's, came with a tremendous rush in the last hundred yards, nearly catching my horse on the post, but the head was the right way.

Colombo for Next Year's Classics

THE DOUBLE.

The selection of to-morrow's double calls for some rather serious thinking. Nevertheless I feel punters would do well to select King's Bounty, The Tiger, Valorous and Flying Tourist for the first leg, and to back Warrington or if an alternative is felt to be needed Vigilance for the second half of the bet.

year's English Derby and, in the opinion of Meyrick Good, is the best two year old he has seen for many years.

The son of Manna (the winner of the Derby of 1926) won all his seven races this year and over $17,000 in stakes. He was purchased by Lord Glanely at the Doncaster Sales last year for under 500 guineas, who luckily entered him for the classics of 1934. His last outing was in the Imperial Produce Stakes at Kempton Park on September 30 last and Meyrick Good, the Sporting Editor of the Sporting Life writes:—

"Those who questioned the merits of Colombo must have been satisfied with his sterling performance in the Imperial Produce Stakes."

"In giving two such smart youngsters as Valerius and Archimedes, 17 lb., Lord Glanely's Colt—accomplished—what—St. Frusquin failed to do in the same event in 1895. He was beaten by Tentel, who received 12 lb.

GRIST AND BECK IN LUCK

CAPTURE OFFSPRING OF FAMOUS BRONZINO.

Messrs. Grist and Beck have drawn a very fine Australian this season and he impresses one immensely. These owners deserve some luck as they drew a particularly bad animal last year.

I understand their pony is called Bronze Era, and is a son of Bronzino.

If he turns out half as good as his sire he will undoubtedly make history at Happy Valley next year. Bronzino was only beaten a head by Swynford in the English St. Leger of 1910 with Lemberg (the winner of the Derby that year) third.

"With 9 st. 6 lb., Colombo won in 1 min. 12.3/5 secs., a record for the course."

Donoghue's Clever Race

"Donoghue rode a clever race on the son of Manna. Close as was the tussle with Valerius in the last half furlong, he refrained from using his whip, being content to swing it to let Colombo know what was required of him."

"That fine judge of pace, Carlslake, was surprised at the great pace that Colombo set."

"When first I saw this Colt win I expressed the opinion that he was one of the best two-year-olds I have seen for years."

AT HAPPY VALLEY TO-MORROW

MR. P. BOTELHO'S GREAT PROMISE

MR. SHUEN DOWN FROM NORTH

(By "Captain Foster")

We welcome three new riders at the Valley in the persons of Davis, Deitz and P. Botelho, and I am sure that they will all be public favourites before long.

Mr. Davis is an experienced jockey and has had many successes—both on the flat and over sticks—at Shanghai, Tientsin and Peking where his services have always been in great demand. He has not been too well served here in the way of mounts, but he gave us a taste of his qualities in the way he steered Festival Eve and Burgomaster to victory.

Mr. Deitz has been more fortunate in mounts, but he has also shown us that he is a cool and capable jockey, a good starter, always in a good position in a race, and gets every ounce out of a pony in the finish.

In Mr. P. Botelho we have the best novice rider I have seen at the Valley for the past ten years at least, and his capabilities now rank high amongst the experienced jockeys. He has a good firm seat and rides a strong finish; he also shows good judgment of pace. In a race—in fact I consider he has all the qualities of a rider of class.

A Note of Warning

He is in the beginning of his racing career and in wishing him success, I would like to sound a note of warning. Never forget that there is always something to learn in the art of race riding, and that it takes years of constant and incessant practice to become thoroughly proficient. Winning twenty or thirty races does not necessarily mean that a man is a good jockey—perhaps merely successful in mounts only—and if he relaxes in his endeavours he will hardly rise beyond the mediocre stage.

Mr. Y. S. Shuen arrived to-day from Shanghai. He is a well known and successful jockey on the Kiangnan Course. I understand he will be riding at to-morrow's meeting for the 1st and 1½ mile, and will have Don, Mayflower and Vigilance, as his mounts.

The Return of "Bob"

I have been wondering how long Mr. Bob Charles was going to remain out of the saddle. I have felt all along that he could not entirely forsake the pluckin, he being far too keen a rider to become a spectator.

It is therefore pleasant to see the interest he is once more taking in the activities at the Valley. He has also been quietly getting his weight off and will ride Orlando to-morrow. I realize that he had the mount of Duplex in the Challenge Cup last September, but it was accepted on the spur of the moment, and he was then not taking race riding seriously.

WHAT I THINK OF THE COLONY'S CRICKET ELEVEN

—BY THE STUMPER

INCLUSION OF REDMOND A BIG SURPRISE

WEAK ATTACK

PEREIRA BETTER CHOICE

Since my notes appeared last week, the Interport Selection Committee have sat in solemn conclave and have selected the Colony XI to do battle against Malaya on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next. While there may be one or two surprises in the team, it is on the whole quite sound, and one which promises to justify the confidence of the Selection Committee.

As has already been announced in these columns, the following players have been selected:—H. Owen Hughes (Capt.), G. S. Dunkley, T. Redmond, P. V. Williams, A. R. Minu, T. A. Pearce, E. R. Duckitt, E. C. Fincher, F. Goodwin, A. C. Hamilton and C. C. Garthwaite.

It will thus be seen that we have a wealth of batting talent, and there are no fewer than eight bowlers, all of whom are capable of taking many wickets. And it is also a good fielding side—at least on paper.

THE BIG SNAG.

But with all these advantages, I feel that there is something missing. True, we have six all-rounders in the side, good batsmen and good bowlers, but when one analyses the bowlers, one will find, as I was complaining last week, a lack of variety. Goodwin, Hamilton, Garthwaite and Duckitt are more or less of the same type, and now Redmond has been added to increase the list to five. There are three slow bowlers in Minu, Owen Hughes and Pearce, the first two being left-handed. Owen Hughes and Pearce have not done much bowling lately and their success as such will be problematical. I am afraid the bulk of the work will fall on the I.R.C. man.

The Selection Committee have preferred Goodwin to Pereira. I confess I did not expect this, but I am also aware that Pereira has lost a lot of his former pace, and was not very successful in the trials. This may have turned the scales in favour of the Kowloon C.C. player, but I imagine the margin must have been very slight.

THE BIGGEST SURPRISE.

What is to my mind the greatest surprise is the inclusion of T. Redmond. He has done nothing outstanding in the trials. He was chosen for the first, dropped in the second and reinstated in the third. It seems to me that he is a last-minute choice, but he does not strengthen the team at all, whereas the choice of a good slow bowler would make the world of difference in the attack.

It is a pity that Burnett has been so disappointing this season. I feel sure if he had displayed anything like last year's form, he would have been selected.

Even if A. H. Madar had any chance of being considered his attack of influenza definitely put him out of the running.

I would feel no qualms about the side if there was a really good slow bowler besides Minu and Pearce, but in fairness to the Selection Committee I must say that even if they had had that object in mind, they had no other bowlers from whom to choose. With Burnett off colour and Madar sick, there is no other slow or medium paced bowler worthy of consideration.

Hongkong's chances will be bright if the match against Malaya is played on a hard and fast wicket, but too much will depend on Minu if rain falls before the match.

THE LEAGUE.

While the Senior League will not commence until after the Interport series, the Junior League started last week with two matches, the Indian R.C. vanquishing their old rivals, the Club de Recreo, and the Kowloon C.C. beating the R.A.M.C. easily by five wickets.

The Club de Recreo had had light to blame for losing their match to the Indians. The draw captains had agreed to the draw stumps at 6.05 p.m. according to the League ruling, but the light became very bad from 5.40. Just before 6 p.m. the home team appended against the light. They had lost eight wickets with no hope of winning, and it was agreed to give the Indians two more overs.

A. B. Buffad was put on and he finished a capital day's work by taking the two remaining

Here's where Washington went into the lead in the second game of the World Series—Goose Goslin's home run in the third. Goslin, smiling, is shown crossing the plate. Also shown are catcher Mancuso of the Giants, Umpire Moriarty and Helms Manush, who followed Goslin at bat. This run gave Washington a lead until the sixth—when O'Doul went to bat as a pinch hitter.

PLENTY OF BATTING TALENT REVEALED IN ARMY AND NAVY INTERPORT TRIAL

ELEVEN SELECTED.

STRONG COMBINATION FOR INTERPORT WEEK.

Following the match, the following were selected to represent the United Services against Malaya on Friday, November 10: Capt. P. V. Williams (R.A.), (Capt.), Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite (R.A.), Lieut. A. C. Hamilton (S.W.J.), Capt. R. F. Walter (R.E.), Flying Officer D. G. Morris (R.A.F.), H.M.S. Eagle, Lieut. J. A. Eaden (R.N.), H.M.S. Orpheus, Capt. S. G. Cutler (R.N.), H.M.S. Suffolk, Lieut. Cmdr. F. M. R. Stephenson (R.N.), H.M.S. Eagle, Sub. Lieut. Alexander Sinclair, (R.N.), H.M.S. Berwick, Lieut. Supply Asst. Richards (H.M.S. Berwick), and Lieut. Barnaby (Lincoln). The twelfth man is Capt. D. B. Mitchell (R.A.).

Rong had a heartbreaking time bowling to him. Falling light necessitated his retiring after scoring "66" runs, in order that others may have a chance, otherwise he would have reached his century, as he was well set.

Lt. Cdr. Stephenson also gave an impressive display, and showed a strong defence, though he was inclined to nibble at the off balls, and might have been caught off Hamilton twice.

BOWLING DEFINITELY WEAK.

The bowling of both sides was definitely weak. The Navy bowlers were more so in this respect. Lt. Hamilton, for the Army, was the most impressive trundler on view, but Lt. Garthwaite failed again. Garthwaite, however, is an excellent field in the slips, and caught Lt. Eaden off a very low fast ball off Hamilton.

I am more than convinced that the Kowloon Cricket Club ground would have been a better venue for the Interport matches than the Hongkong Club ground. The pitch there is in excellent condition, and though a few balls did kick, it appeared to be better than the Hongkong ground. The surroundings are also ideal for a big match, with more room for stands to be erected than on the Club ground. The only disadvantage about the Kowloon ground is that it is situated so far from town, but I do not think this should deter those cricket enthusiasts really keen on watching a good match in good surroundings.

MATCH CANCELLED.

The friendly cricket match arranged between the Central British Association and the Central British School for tomorrow (Saturday) has been cancelled. The match will probably be played on December 2.

C.B.A. TEAM.

The following have been chosen to represent the Central British Association in a friendly cricket match against the Lincolnshire Regiment second eleven on Sunday, at King's Park, commencing at 2.15 p.m. sharp:—E. McNider (Capt.), F. D. Angus, A. Pole, G. W. Carr, L. Glendinning, B. I. Bickford, W. H. G. Hirst, T. S. D. Whitley, R. Wood, G. B. Gurevitch, J. E. Wilson.

ST. ANDREW'S NEW DEFENDER

Good Hockey Displays By Broadbridge

Fred Broadbridge, who last year played mostly on the right wing for the St. Andrew's Club, is this season rapidly becoming a first class defender. He is proving himself an able substitute for Freddy Wong, who is ill at present, and his displays during the past two days should make his position at full back concrete.

Broadbridge has a marked coolness about him when clearing and hits with no mean force. His fine display against the Service Corps on Wednesday was repeated against the Kowloon Indians Tennis Club yesterday afternoon on the Marina ground.

"WHEN THE LIGHTS ARE LOW" Yesterday's match was played in poor light and the final whistle was blown after the street lamps were lighted, a little after six o'clock. Half-an-hour's play is hardly what one might call a match.

Naidu played a stout game in the Indians' defence, while in their forward line Sousa and Pinto showed good combination with short passing.

The K.I.T.C. won by three clear goals, scored by D. Mohammed, Sousa and J. M. Pinto in the first half. The Saints, who fielded only ten men, were without the services of at least five of their regular players.

HOCKEY ASSN: GETS GOING

INTERNATIONAL TOURNAMENT

AND INTERPORTS

By "Bully-Off"

ALTHOUGH it was hinted when the Hongkong Hockey Association was first mooted that it would serve little or no useful purpose, its activities since inception have given the lie direct and have more than justified its existence. Its latest move is the inauguration of an International Hockey Tournament in the Colony and is one which commends itself to all enthusiasts.

THE arrangements are already in hand and the representatives responsible for the several nationalities invited to take part have been nominated. The following nations have been asked to participate: England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Portugal, China, Germany and India, and their representatives are E. J. R. Mitchell, J. Rodger, Surg. Lieut. A. E. Phillips, Capt. A. R. Smeathers, A. M. Xavier, R. H. Wong, O. May and Surin Singh respectively.

THE first round of the tourney is to take place on Monday, March 19, the second round on Monday, March 26, and the finals on Easter Monday. It is difficult at present to make any forecast as to the prospects of the various countries but suffice to say the tournament will without doubt provide some of the best games yet played in Hongkong.

ENGLAND will have a galaxy of talent from which to select their XI, and Wales will have at its disposal the services of the South Wales Borderers. Ireland will probably draw its players mainly from the Services. Scotsmen have also figured prominently in the game during the past two years and here again there should be no difficulty in fielding a formidable side. India will have the H.K.S.R.A., Punjab Regiment and the other Indian units from which to make their selections. Unfortunately the Jats leave the Colony before the tourney is due to commence so that India will lose the services of stalwarts like Jall, at left inner, and Sirdar Khan, centre half.

PORTUGAL will be able to call on the Recreo and the numerous Portuguese who are included in some of the leading teams now in the field. The German community in Hongkong is far from large and it looks as though they will probably have a tough proposition to face.

UMPIRES for the games will be provided by the Association, and it will also be their task to provide grounds. Teams will be expected to provide balls and equipment.

ANOTHER step in the right direction taken by the Association is the matter of Interport matches. It is proposed to get in touch with the coastal ports, such as Singapore, Shanghai, Swatow, Manila, Macao, Canton, Amoy and Foochow. Interport hockey is long overdue and when instituted I am sure will be extremely popular.

SHAMEEN LEAGUE FOOTBALL

ISLAND TEAM BEAT THE CICALA

Canton, Nov. 2. Yesterday afternoon Shameen played against H.M.S. Cicala in a League Soccer match.

Shameen was victorious, beating their opponents by three goals to one. The game was quite a good one and up to standard.

The Cicala forwards failed to make the best of their opportunities, and the only goal scored by them was by their captain.

The Shameen defence was distinctly poor, but their wing forwards played a good game, especially the outside left who scored two of the three goals.

The third goal for Shameen was scored by Pote-Hunt, who is captain of the team.—Our Own Correspondent.

wickets in his first over for no run. He had earlier on made 55 out of the Indians' total of 151 for six wickets.

Despite a good start given them by Cpl. Colledge and Major Donvin, who put up 53 runs for the first wicket, the R.A.M.C. were all dismissed for 86, A.R.F. Raven taking four wickets for three runs towards the end of their innings.

The K.C.C. made the runs for the loss of five wickets.

Y.M.C.A. LOSE BY ONLY GOAL

Medical Corps The Better Team

Playing with only ten men the Y.M.C.A. records were defeated by one goal to nil by the R.A.M.C. at King's Park yesterday. Tippet failed to make an appearance.

The Medical Corps had the better of the exchanges and had hard times on many occasions. They opened with a concerted attack on the Y. M. goal and Colledge just missed scoring in the first few minutes. G. H. Fowler played a fine game at centre half and broke up many movements before Lane, about half way through the first period, scored the only goal.

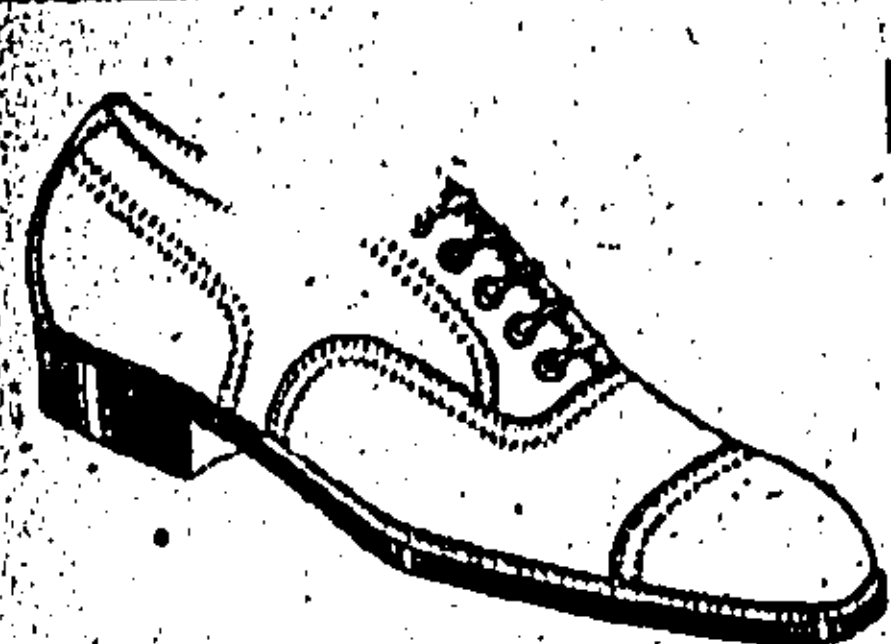

The Y. played a one back game. In the second half Brown was conspicuous several times and nearly netted an equaliser after a brilliant solo effort from his own half. Lane scored a second goal about ten minutes after the restart but the goal was disallowed on account of offside.

The game was played in poor light and this was short.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 1,120,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: The market was dull but with a firmer tone due to strength in repeat issues on account of a final repeal victory on Tuesday. Otherwise, traders were lethargic awaiting clarification of the monetary situation and ignoring all ordinary bullish factors such as weakness in the U.S. dollar, highest level of silver for years, the Government gold buying machinery ready for operation and stronger grains.

Trading on the Coffee and Sugar Exchange will be resumed on Saturday beginning November 11th. Our New York Office Cable (This morning).

Stocks: Stocks appear well bought and should continue upward subject to moderate technical reactions. Wheat: The market rallied on Liverpool strength, but up of liquidation, and unfavourable Argentine advances. The upside is still favoured. Cotton: The market was steady in view of larger private crop estimates. Price fixing and Southern offerings about balance. Hedge selling slackening. Basis firm. The market acts well. The market was firm during the day but eased off at the close on profit-taking. Cable received at 11:28 p.m. during our Night Service "Monetizing of Johnson silver again rumoured turning the NRA in the direction of self government for business and away from the possibility of business domination by governmental bureaucracy."

ANALYSING OPIUM MAGISTRATE'S HINT MORE DETAILS ADVISABLE

Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, delivered judgment discharging Li Tat-sang, a shop keeper, on a charge of possession of 6.4 taels of non-Government prepared opium, and convicting him on a second charge of possession of more than one tael of opium dross, on which he was fined $140.

The judgment read as follows:—"In this case the first charge against the defendant is not based on the usual Analyst's certificate as the document handed in relating to the alleged non-Government opium is not a certificate as it is unsigned.

The case therefore rests upon the Monopoly Analyst's evidence. According to this the opium was brought to him in two containers, one in a jar, and the other a mixing bowl. The Monopoly Analyst emptied both into a third container, mixed the stuff up, analysed ten grammes of it with some Kamshan as a control, and declares that 75 per cent. to 85 per cent. is Kamshan Government opium. On this I am asked to declare that the whole 6.4 taels are non-Government opium, and that the defendant is guilty because the Imports and Exports Department take the view that if Government opium is adulterated it becomes and can truthfully be described as non-Government opium.

ANALYST MIGHT BE RESPONSIBLE.

"I am entirely unable to accept this view. I consider that 'non-Government opium' can only be opium of a matter containing opium that was not prepared by Hongkong or Singapore for sale to the public and that the question of the face value or the acceptability of the certificate does not here arise; and that there is in fact no evidence that defendant had in his possession on September 21 any opium prepared elsewhere than in Hongkong or Singapore.

There is not law against adulterating Government opium, and in this case there is no suggestion that the opium in question was for sale. It may even be that the adulteration of most of the 6.4 taels was caused directly by the Monopoly Analyst himself mixing the contents of the pots, and that had he analysed each pot separately the result would have been different. I have no option but to discharge defendant on the first charge, and suggest that for the protection of the public the analyst should in similar cases state more exactly what it is that he finds in the materials sent him for analysis.

STIMULATED IGNORANCE.

"On the second charge it is clear that defendant had possession of the dross by his servant. I am not satisfied with his statement that he had no idea what his servant did with it, still less with what I feel certain is his simulated ignorance of the use of the one tael Shuang Hei tin. Such assertions lessen the weight of the rest of his evidence, nor do I like his attempt to make a lad of 15 take the blame of the possession of the dross. He is convicted on this charge, and fined $140."

It will be remembered that the defendant in this case was originally charged together with a Japanese with trafficking in opium, but the charges against them were withdrawn, and only the two charges of possession was preferred against the defendant.

Mr. D. L. Strellat, who defended accused during the evidence previously, criticised the method of issuing certificates, and in his summing up said that the prosecution as presented in the case was not as satisfactory as it might have been; that the certificate did not disclose what ought to have been known, and that there being such a doubt the defendant should be given the benefit.

OPIUM CONCEALED IN CUPBOARD

RAIDING PARTY BREAK DOWN DOOR

Seventeen taels of non-Government prepared opium and nine taels of raw opium concealed in the false back of a cupboard on the wall of a kitchen, resulted in a fine of $1,270, or ten months' prison, being imposed on Cheng Yee, 44, by Mr. Balfour, in the Central Police Court this morning.

Revenue Officer—Grimm—said the raiding party had to break down the door at 110 Wellington Street where the opium was found in the kitchen.

COLD SHOULDER IN MONGOLIA

HOME MINISTER'S MISSION APPARENTLY FRUITLESS

Peking, Nov. 1.

There are indications that General Huang Shao-hsiung, Minister of Home Affairs, is getting a cool reception at the hands of the Mongol Princes.

Although elaborate assurances of welcome were given to General Huang Shao-hsiung on his arrival at Kalgan and an invitation delivered to him to visit Tainingliao where the Princes have been holding a conference, there is little use for him to accept the invitation as all Princes, except one, have left Tainingliao for home.—Reuter.

JAMAICA TRAGEDY.

TEN DEATHS IN WILD WEEK-END STORM

Kingston, Nov. 2.

At least ten persons were killed in a week-end hurricane which swept over the north-west section of the island of Jamaica.

Vast damage was done, ninety-five per cent. of the banana crop being ruined.

This crop is one of Jamaica's most important and the loss will entail great hardship.

There was considerable further property damage and it is likely that the death toll will be greater than is at present known.—Reuter.

The Management of the Hongkong Hotel advises an extended night on Saturday, 4th November, till 1 a.m. for the Dinner Dance in the Grill Room.

Jamaica Gale Disaster

STORM RAGES FOR TWO DAYS

London, Nov. 2.

The Governor of Jamaica reports that a serious hurricane struck the west of Jamaica during 28th and 29th October.

Reports of the havoc caused by the gale are meagre but there is no doubt that hundreds have been rendered homeless and ten deaths are reported.

Banana crops in St. James have been completely wiped out and are at least 90 per cent. down in other western parishes. All food crops are also badly damaged.

Extensive damage has been done to roads, bridges, telegraphs and railways.

FASCISM REARS HEAD IN SPAIN

Madrid, Oct. 30.

Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the former dictator, addressing a small crowd in Madrid yesterday declared that the Fascists were determined to triumph in Spain, even with violence if necessary.

Rivera who was given an ovation, asserted that the Fascists had "raised their banner over Spain and are willing to defend it with their lives."

The Fascist movement has made little apparent progress in Spain despite the troubles of the second republic, but has raised its head since the recent parliamentary crisis resulting in the dissolution of the Cortes.

A number of small, ill-organised youth militias which in some respects resemble the German storm troops, have made their appearance, but no Hitler nor Mussolini has shown up.

Nevertheless the Labour papers talk a good deal of the "Fascist menace."

REQUESTED TO LEAVE IN 48 HOURS

Mr. Panter's Case Under London Consideration

London, Nov. 2.

Mr. Noel Panter, Munich correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who has been under arrest since October 25th, was released today.

No formal charge was preferred against Mr. Panter and it was announced last night in Berlin that, after examining the material placed before him by the Bavarian authorities, the Chief Public Prosecutor of the Reich found no ground for a formal charge.

Mr. Panter has, however, been requested to leave Germany within 48 hours. The whole circumstances of Mr. Panter's detention and release are under the consideration of the British Government.—British Wireless.

HITLER CABINET SHAKE-UP

EXPECTED AFTER ELECTION

It is reported that Herr Hitler is planning a shake-up of the cabinet shortly in an attempt to further consolidate the Reich. Changes are expected immediately after the elections.

Captain Goering, it is said, is destined to become the Minister of Security, a new post, and concurrently, will be made vice-chancellor.

The present vice-chancellor, Captain von Papen, is scheduled to become Foreign Minister, to succeed Baron von Neurath, who is likely to return to London as Ambassador to Great Britain.

The cadets of Intang Military Academy, Canton, will play a friendly football match with a team of service men from Hongkong at the East Parade grounds at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Mr. Kwok Nga-hong, who is the physical director of the Academy and who recently returned from the Nanking Track Meet, is in charge of the match. It is learned that some of the cadets who will play next Sunday participated in the Olympic games in Japan three years ago.

All high officials of the Canton government including officers of the 1st and 2nd Army and others will attend the match. The game promises to be a very interesting one as both sides are fairly matched.

A summons has been granted at the Bow Street Police Court against the Duke of Atholl, for selling tickets in a lottery. The case will be heard on November 14.—Reuter.

For some months past, the Duke of Atholl has received world-wide publicity for his scheme to raise money for British charities.

Letting being illegal in England, His Grace invited anyone interested to send him "ten shillings for nothing." They received in return a cancelled ticket, but no reference to a lottery or prizes appeared on it.

Because of the Duke's unimpeachable reputation for honesty and integrity, money poured in. People subscribed confident that they would participate in a lottery. It will remain for the authorities to prove that the Duke actually conducted a lottery.

SEAMEN VANISH

POLICE SEARCHING THE WHANGPOO

Shanghai, Nov. 2.

River Police are searching for the bodies of two French sailors, believed to have been drowned when they fell into the Whangpoo from a sampan.

The men are Francois Leven and Leon Vincent, both of the cruiser Primaugot.

According to the authorities, the men fell into the water late Sunday night while they were being conveyed in a sampan to their ship.

Another seaman, Feder Starndhaug, Norwegian second engineer on the s.s. Wilfred, was being missing from his ship since October 23, and it is believed that he, too, is drowned. Police are searching.—Reuter.

ITALY AND CHINA

ROME PLEASED WITH NEW APPOINTMENT.

Rome, Nov. 2.

In connexion with the arrival of Mr. Lien Wen-tao as China's new minister to Italy, Italian officials stress that the selection of a man of his importance indicates the value which Nanking places upon closer relations with Italy.

Mr. Lien was formerly minister at Berlin.

Meanwhile, it is learned here that Capt. Bernardi, famous airman, who is going to China in the capacity of adviser to the Chinese Government, has been detained in Italy by private affairs.

Capt. Bernardi expects to fly to China and to set up a record for the journey.—Reuter.

LABOUR'S GAIN

SIGNIFICANCE OF BOROUGH FIGHT

London, Nov. 2.

There have been large Labour successes in the municipal elections in 340 English and Welsh boroughs, excluding the county of London.

Although many results are still unavailable, up to the present Labour has gained 176 seats, while the Conservatives have lost 105, the Liberals 28 and Independents 42.

Labour has regained control in Sheffield and captured Walsand, Barnsley, Swansea, Norwich and Barking.

At Oldham the Labour candidates tied with the combined Conservative and Liberal vote.

The poll was only fifty per cent.—Reuter.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEE DISCHARGED

"In my opinion, it would be unsafe to convict, especially in view of the fact that the defendant has an assured position in the Government service and has no need to steal," remarked Mr. Schofield in the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, in discharging a telephone operator at the F.W.D. stores, Bullock Lane, named Lai Yiu-kau (26) who was charged with robbing Miss. Pok Fung-yee, a teacher, of a blue leather handbag containing $18 in money, at Spring Garden Lane.

The defence alibi was that defendant was at home between 4.30 and 8 p.m. His father, who has worked 40 years at the Naval Dockyard and is on pension, gave evidence that his son was at home.

Defendant's mother died two days' after his arrest. Three women visitors on Sunday spoke to seeing the defendant at home.

His Worship ruled he could not help feeling that the evidence of implication was not strong. The complainant had hesitated at the identification parade, and the two witnesses might have made a mistake with the robber who had run before. The alibi was fairly strong though there were some weak points. On the whole, he thought it would be unsafe to convict and the safest course was to discharge the defendant.

The complainant is a teacher at the Girls' Normal School, Lee Garden Street, and the incident took place when she was walking up the steps leading to Spring Garden Lane on October 15. The snatcher is alleged to have slapped her on the face, thrown some pepper into her eyes, and made off with her handbag.

Inspector Nolloth prosecuted, while Mr. M. A. da Silva was for the defence.

Magistrate's Furlough.

Mr. da Silva: This may be my last appearance before your Worship before you leave on holiday. May I wish your Worship God-speed and a very pleasant trip.

His Worship: Thank you very much Mr. da Silva. I leave in two days.

Inspector Nolloth: I wish to associate myself with Mr. da Silva's remarks, your Worship. His Worship: Thank you.

NATIONALIST MINISTRY SUMMARILY DISMISSED

Malta, Nov. 2.

The Governor of Malta, to-day dismissed all members of the Nationalist Ministry formed last June, following their blank refusal to agree to a constitutional amendment whereby, amongst other things, only English and Maltese might be taught in elementary schools, with the teaching of Italian starting in secondary schools.—Reuter.

ENGLISH STUDIES

HONGKONG BRANCH OF THE ASSOCIATION

On Tuesday, November 7, the H.K. branch of the English Association starts its activities for a new season. His Excellency Sir William Paul, who is president, has kindly consented to preside at the opening meeting.

The English Association is a world-wide Society. Its object is to arrange meetings of people interested in English literature and the English language. It has members of every nationality, race and creed, who find a common interest in the study and discussion of literary topics or linguistic problems. The headquarters of the Central Body is in London, and there are local branches in every city of culture throughout the English-speaking world.

The Hongkong branch is now beginning its fifth year. It holds regular monthly meetings, from November to April, on the first Tuesday of each month. Each meeting takes the form of a lecture and a discussion. The lecture is not meant to be an exhaustive treatment of a set theme, but an introductory review of a topic which can be informally discussed by people interested in books. That the more impressive entertainments of the modern world have not entirely distracted mankind from literary pursuits, is shown by the good attendance at these meetings.

Membership of the local branch has always, during these four years, amounted to between eighty and a hundred. Of these, some twenty or thirty have also become members of the Central Body. Membership of the Central Body establishes a link with literary activities at home, and those who join the Central Body receive copies of pamphlets and bulletins which are published throughout the year. For this central membership, there is an extra charge of five dollars in addition to the local subscription of three dollars.

Occasional Publications.

Not only does the local branch provide regular meetings, it also publishes, from time to time, as funds permit, booklets containing lectures which have been delivered at these meetings.

To meet the convenience of those who like five o'clock tea and who do not want to rush away from five o'clock tea to attend a meeting, the Helena May Institute, where meetings are held, kindly offers to cater for tea-parties in the lecture hall. Those who mean to take tea, are asked to order it from the Matron of the Helena May Institute (Tel. No. 22160) the day before the meeting, so that a table may be arranged for them.

Tuesday's meeting will begin with the annual business of approving accounts and electing office-bearers. There will then be a lecture on "R. S. Surtees" by Mr. Macnamara. Those who like books and those who like horses, will have a good opportunity of hearing and discussing the views of one who is well-known to like both.

Old members who mean to continue their membership, and new members who wish to join, have no formalities to go through, other than handing in their names and subscriptions, which can be done most conveniently at the meetings.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

A thrilling glimpse of America's smartest crooks in operation is to be seen in "Midnight Mary," drama of the upper underworld which is due as the next attraction at the Queen's. The evolution of a typical gang of small-time gunmen into high-powered specialists in big crime is woven into a dramatic love story that features Loreta Young and Franchot Tone in strongly emotional roles. Their love is complicated by violence and tricks of fate that lead to a breathless climax of high speed action. Miss Young is even more appealing than in her recent picture, "Zoo in Budapest," and Tone demonstrates that he is one of the finest young actors to come to the screen from the New York stage.

Ricardo Cortez is again a menace of odious character and causes the audience to thoroughly dislike him, which is the final test of good villainy. Una Merkel provides welcome comedy relief in a role that also is a different type of characterization for the young charmer of the Southern accent. She combines with Andy Devine in winning laughs through many hilarious situations.

Frank Conroy, Warren Hymer, Ivan Simpson, Harold Huber, Sandy Roth and Martha Simpson have supporting roles that provide convincing strength to the fast-moving story. William Wolfman, who scored with "Frisco Jenny" and recently "Bread Line," has directed the action with a maximum of value to each scene.

"Bondage"

"Bondage," the new Fox film at the King's Theatre today, tears down a curtain that has long concealed a hidden part of our lives. Simply and effectively it unravels a girl's life and in the doing narrates one of the most strikingly dramatic portraits of the motion picture screen.

In this production depicting the hardships experienced in a community by a group of unmarried mothers, Dorothy Jordan, in the role of the unwed "Judy Peters" gives a portrayal that for sincerity ranks with the finest on the silver screen. The tumultuous experiences of a girl against whom society has pitted itself with an unrelenting conscience are those of hundreds of similar cases that up until now have been prominent because of their absence from our daily news and discussions.

So delicately in this motif spun and to such a climactic height does it rise that for a moment one feels that life itself has been translated literally on the screen. Its types are so true and finely drawn that for once the cinema given us a documentary work rather than an idyllic portrait.

The story is as simple as a compass as a life. The girl submits to the knowledge of co-morbidity. Her degradation is a matter of time and finally she wanders off into the fog of despondency. She is redeemed by a young doctor.

As the doctor, Alexander Kirkland does admirably. But full laurel wreaths are due Dorothy Jordan whose refreshing beauty and sincerity of manner in this drama elevate her to certain stardom.

"Fast Life"

The fastest moving action picture of the season comes to the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday with the appearance of William Haines and an all-star cast in "Fast Life," the breath-taking motorboat racing picture.

Haines is given one of the strongest portrayals of his career as the irresistible "Sandy," a motorboat mechanic who has a new idea of an engine that will break the world's record. He drives his boat through a race that will send thrilling chills down the spine of even the most apathetic theatre-goer.

Cliff Edwards gives his expressive countenance into a series of comedy situations with Haines through which they both have many hilarious adventures. Madge Evans is seen in a sparkling role as the daughter of a wealthy racing boat builder.

The two-mile-minute story is based on E. J. Rabe novel, "Let's Go," in which a young motorboat mechanic and his assistant are determined to get backing for their new type of engine. When they finally do get a wealthy boat builder to construct a craft using their plans, they have a serious accident and are forced to resort to piracy among the millionaire's yachts.

"Fra Diavolo"

Oliveria Hurdie and Stanlio Laurel are robbed of their life savings by bandits. Seeking revenge, they hit upon the bright idea of being bandits themselves. Hurdie pretends he is Diavolo, the notorious bandit chief known throughout the country. Eventually they encounter the famed Diavolo, though they do not know him, and Hurdie is sentenced to be hanged. Laurel is ordered to be the executioner.

In the meantime Diavolo discovers that his bandit gang failed to get Lady

Pamela's money. To frustrate possible identification of his men, he takes the comedy team along as pseudo man-servants, and poses as the Marquis de San Marco. He secures Lady Pamela's money, but is blocked in his escape by the stupidity of the comedians.

Meanwhile the innkeeper's daughter is being forced to marry a rich landowner. She is in love, however, with a young officer who has been searching for Diavolo. The capture of the bandit, with its attendant reward, will make it possible for him to marry the girl.

Laurel unwittingly reveals Diavolo's identity during the wedding feast. This brings about their own arrest as accomplices. The bandit chief helps the officer receive the reward. The trio—Diavolo, Laurel and Hardlo—are sentenced to be shot.

Backed against a wall, Laurel asks permission to blow his nose and pulls out a red handkerchief. It is seen by a bull and the enraged animal charges wildly into the crowd. Diavolo escapes, while Laurel and Hardlo ride away on the back of the bull.

"Sweepings"

The tragedy of having too much money and of an enterprise that becomes too large for its heirs to manage is graphically and dramatically told in "Sweepings," coming on Sunday to the King's Theatre with Lionel Barrymore in the starring role.

It reveals how pampered sons and daughters of the rich accept bootleggers as their social equals and how sleek men stand along the sidelines of the giddy social whirl, on sale as lovers or husbands to the highest bidder.

The film offers a daring treatment of this phase of life. It is elaborately

GARDENER IN THE DOCK

POSSESSION OF A REVOLVER

Yip Ling, a gardener, and formerly No. 1 boy at the Deep Water Bay Golf Club appeared before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with possession of a revolver, 27 rounds of ammunition and a sword at No. 70, Kau Wai village, Aberdeen.

Mr. H. L. Denny, appearing for defendant's wife, applied for the service of a summons for maintenance.

Mr. O. E. C. Marton, appearing for defendant, said he was prepared to accept the service of the summons, and the case will be heard after the summons has been duly served, and proceedings taken in Court.

The case against Yip was suspended until Monday.

CAR DRIVING IN CLOSED STREET

NAVAL YARD POLICE OFFICER FINED

C. Down, a Naval Yard Policeman, was summoned before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, and fined $10 for having driven his car in Main Street, East, Shaokwan, which was closed to traffic.

Mr. Schofield suggested that he might have missed the notice posts.

Defendant said that the crowd was so great that he did not see them.

STRIKE CALLED OFF

EASIER SITUATION IN

CASUALTY LIST

Jerusalem, Nov. 3.
The Arab Executive yesterday informed the High Commissioner of a decision to call off the general strike to-day.

Tension still exists throughout Palestine, although it has lessened. It is hoped that the termination of the strike will lead to still further improvement in the situation.

The casualties in the recent disturbances in Jaffa, Haifa and elsewhere are now known to have been:

KILLED.
One native policeman.
23 civilian rioters.

WOUNDED, IN HOSPITAL.
Twenty-seven British and native policemen.
127 civilian rioters.

Scores more were less severely injured.

PRECAUTIONS.
Precautions against further disturbances are still maintained. It appears that the riots other than those at Jaffa were not premeditated, but they came as repercussions following the Jaffa riots, which had more serious consequences than had been anticipated by the Arab Executive.

One of the most serious incidents occurred at Nablus where rioters stormed the prison and released a number of political prisoners.

Serious disturbances have been absent since Sunday, although minor clashes between police and Arabs have occurred nearly every day in several centres. —Reuter.

SILK DRESSES FROM SHANGHAI

Found in Trunk at Victoria

Mrs. Madeline Emily Pym, described as of Oakwood Court, Kensington, W., was summoned before Mr. Cairns at Westminster Police Court for, it was alleged, attempting to evade the payment of customs duties on a silk dress, underwear, etc., at Victoria Station.

Mr. M. G. Whitmore, prosecuting, said that Mrs. Pym arrived at Victoria from Shanghai, and when asked if she had anything to declare produced a number of small articles on which she paid duty amounting to twelve shillings.

A search among the rest of the contents of the trunk, revealed a quantity of apparently new underwear, two silk dresses, and a cotton dress.

Mrs. Pym had stated "I thought it was not necessary to declare things I was bringing home for my personal use. I thought I had only to declare presents."

Counsel for Mrs. Pym stated that she was returning from China after an absence of twelve years.

Mr. Cairns imposed a fine of £50, with 10 guineas costs.
